Mr. Sloan's Hint.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

(Copyright, 1928.)

WHEN Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., head of General Motors, hints a "pleasant surprise," he means it. A recent hint was printed before election. Now General Motors distributes a stock bonus of 150 per cent. He who had 100 shares will now have 250 shares. What is more important, cash dividends are increased by $43,000,000 a year.

THE British, regretting the naval agreement with France, will drop that revival of pre-war secrecy.

President Coolidge told Wickham Steed that he wanted Americans to consider every British cruiser an additional pledge for American safety, and the British to consider every American cruiser an additional pledge for British safety.

NATIONS should feel about armament as individuals do about the police. An American in London is glad to see British police that mean protection for him, as a Britisher knows that the police here mean his protection.

SO IT should be with warships and airships.

In the meanwhile, THIS COUNTRY SHOULD KEEP READY, remembering that one secret treaty may be followed by another.

This newspaper and those associated with it rendered a considerable service when they left the light of publicity into the Anglo-French secret pact.

WHISKERS must go, mustaches, goatees, included, they interfere with clearness of speech in talking moving pictures. Public men using the "talkies" and the radio need clear voices.

ALEXANDER THE GREAT made his soldiers shave their faces and cut their hair short on top for a more practical reason, setting the example himself, an example followed by Caesar and Napoleon, anxious to be like Alexander.

In Alexander's day a soldier fighting with the short sword had the unpleasant habit of seizing his enemy by the whiskers with his left hand, chopping off the enemy's head with the right. No whiskers, nothing for the enemy to take hold of.

CHINESE were forced by Nomadic conquerors to let their hair grown long, that the conquerors might seize the long pigtail in chopping off heads. Eventually Chinese men grew proud of their pigtail, as Chinese women grew proud of the cramped feet forced upon them that they might not run away. Such is human nature.

PRESENTLY you will begin reading sayings of Herbert Hoover. One, said to be authentic, is as good as Henry the Fourth remarked about "The chicken in the pot." The Hoover saying goes: "I don't care how much they charge for lobster, but I do care how much they charge for bread."

THIS is "cancer week." Many important scientific institutions are holding special clinics in honor of the week. "Cancer week" is not a pleasant sound, but it is an important week. Mr. R. W. Riis, of the American Society for the Control of Cancer, reminds you that the horrible disease kills 115,000 Americans every year.

THE week is devoted to an educational campaign, based on "fight cancer with knowledge; take it early and cure it." Three-quarters of all cancers could be cured, 80,000 lives saved every year if small "growths" were not ignored or neglected.

Cancer of the breast, most common in women, is easily cured if taken in time.

A PENNSYLVANIA judge decided that what a woman says, talking in her sleep, cannot be used against her in a divorce case.

That is fortunate for women, who at least should have a right to dream as they please.

Still more fortunate is that what they think, without saying it, cannot be used against them.

MR. SOLLY WERTHEIM, defeated in a business transaction, said to his opponent with deep feeling, "For what I am thinking about you, I could be put in jail."

And for what some women think about their husbands, almost anything could be done to them.

THAT Herbert Hoover will ask Andrew Mellon to remain in the cabinet is taken for granted. Mr. Mellon's willingness to continue public work will be welcome news to the whole country.

BUSINESS men will read with satisfaction of Mr. Hoover's plans for building United States trade abroad. Part of the plan includes careful selection of competent business men for United States consulates, in place of politicians that need jobs.

YESTERDAY Germany celebrated the tenth birthday of the republic "in rather gloomy mood."

The birthday of the republic recalls defeat by the Allies of the German empire, and Germany does not make a national holiday of the republic's birthday.

THAT will change probably when Germany realizes how grateful it should be to have escaped Hohenzollern foolishness that proved so costly. At least the next war will be started by [illegible]

J. F. BURKE MAY BE IN HOOVER CABINET

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Speculation among the unofficial cabinet makers of Washington as to the personnel of President-elect Herbert Hoover's official family has included the name of former Representative James Francis Burke, of Pittsburgh, as a probable choice for the portfolio of secretary of war.

Mr. Burke figures in the discussion because of his service during the campaign as counsel for the Republican National Committee. As such he was in constant touch with the active management of the campaign and Mr. Hoover sought his advice often in determining matters of policy.

After Republican national headquarters were abandoned, except for a small skeleton crew, Mr. Hoover, before leaving for his home in California to vote, asked Mr. Burke to remain in charge of his personal headquarters. This he did until the final results were known.

The Pittsburgh man is mentioned for the secretaryship of war, because of his long service in the lower house of Congress as a member of the important Military Affairs Committee, which has jurisdiction over all military appropria-

WESLEY OGLESBY

Wesley Oglesby, 14, newsboy of 7312 Forrest way, today suffers serious injuries about the legs and hips. He was the victim of a freak accident because of his boyish interest in steam shovels. Workmen were bringing this shovel from an excavation at 7315 Frankstown avenue when the ramp collapsed, pinning Wesley under the wreckage, as the artist indicates.

GRAFT WITNESS FACES JAIL SENTENCE

The special grand jury searching for evidence of collusion between law officials and law violators began a three-day vacation today. It will reconvene Tuesday, when District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner expects to provide it with further information on the $140,000 clearing house lottery, known to patrons as "the police pool."

Gardner recessed the jury yesterday afternoon after hearing a dozen witnesses who answered summonses to tell what they know of liquor graft and lotteries. For one witness who failed to answer such a summons an attachment was asked. He was Walter Markowski, of 6347 Penn avenue. Gardner expected to hale him before Judge James B. Drew for a contempt hearing, with a jail term in prospect.

TO CONTINUE RAIDS

Most of the witnesses came before the jury after raids by county detectives. Gardner said he expected to continue to obtain witnesses by that method. He planned to send raiding squads into each police district to reach, if possible, the liquor graft at its source.

Gardner expressed himself as better satisfied with the results of the inquisition in the last week than for any previous week. In the story of the police lottery revealed by Justice of the Peace Arthur F. Reed, of Greentree, who it is alleged, printed the tickets, and P. E. (Happy) Moran, who almost uncovered the lottery once, when he was a city detective, Gardner said he had found the best "leads" in the whole probe.

Moran's story was perhaps the most significant. For he told it to explain his statement that "in an investigation I was on I was getting too close to home to suit Walsh." Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh dropped Moran from the police department "for the good of the service."

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Nov. 10.—The dedication of the American Legion airport northwest of this city was postponed from today to next spring because of weather conditions. The 18 government and commercial planes that were to fly here postponed coming because of low visibility.

4 Must Stand Trial In Patronage Quiz

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Overruled in their efforts to quash indictments growing out of the recent Federal investigation of Republican patronage in Mississippi, four Negro defendants, including Perry W. Howard, Republican national committeeman, are slated to face trial in the United States District Court here December 10.

Rumanian Premier Recognizes Regency

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—It was learned today that Premier Juliu Maniu had acknowledged the regency and the 7-year-old King Michael unconditionally in return for his mandate to form a cabinet.

Some observers had feared that M. Maniu, who heads the Peasant Party and is a man of Republican tendencies, might in time attempt to do away with royalty.

Maniu also pledged himself solemnly not to bring up the question of the return of former Crown Prince Carol during the 14 years of King Michael's minority.

Many Improvements Voted in Sewickley

Voters of Sewickley approved a $339,500 bond issue at the Tuesday election. The bond issue is to provide for pump station, filtration system, garbage incinerator, grade crossing eliminations, new fire truck, storm sewer and street lights. The vote certified yesterday was: Yes, 973; No, 310.

Won Her Bet, But Failed to Jump; Hit by Train

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 10.—As a result of a foolish wager, Lillian Ramsey, 18, of this city, is in a hospital at Oberlin, O., in a serious condition.

Coming here from a dance, she made a wager with a fellow student as to which one could sit on approaching railroad tracks nearby the longest in front of an on-coming train.

William B. Robinson, of West Point, Pa., the fellow student, jumped in time and tried to drag Miss Ramsey with him, but too late. She has a broken collarbone, broken ribs and internal injuries.

ALL THEATERS HERE HELP MIDNIGHT SHOW FOR FUND

An immediate and enthusiastic response has come to the announcement that the Variety Club of Pittsburgh will present a midnight show Friday night, November 23, at the Stanley Theater, under the auspices of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, for the benefit of the Welfare Fund. Nearly everyone, it seems, wants to have a hand in making the affair a tremendous success.

All are to be accommodated. Tickets may be had at $1 each at the quarters of the Variety Club (telephone: Court 9550) in the William Penn Hotel, and the tickets may be exchanged later for reserved seats. Special box offices for this purpose will be opened in the Fifth avenue lobby of the Grand Theater and in the Sheridan Square Theater next Wednesday.

All seats will be reserved, and all will be priced at $1.

The show will be the best midnight entertainment ever given in Pittsburgh. The acts will be drawn from all the theaters, and probably

HOOVER TO TOUR FOR AMITY

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.
International News Service.

PALO ALTO, Cal., Nov. 10.—The path of President-elect Herbert Hoover to the White House stretches today over the swamps of the pampas, through 10,000 miles of tropical seas and mountain jungles to historic Pennsylvania avenue.

If plans announced in Washington by President Coolidge are carried out, the President-elect will steam out of San Diego harbor in a week or 10 days aboard the battleship Maryland, one of the newest, fastest and most formidable of Uncle Sam's man o'wars, for a history-making good-will mission through South America.

40-DAY TRIP

The trip will require from 40 to 60 days, depending upon the final itinerary now being negotiated with the various Latin-American embassies and legations in Washington by Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg.

Tentative plans call for a direct run from California's coast to the Panama Canal Zone. Leaving the Maryland at Balboa, the Hoover party may go through to the Atlantic seaboard either by train or aboard a smaller government craft. Returning to the Pacific Coast, Hoover will resume his journey on the Maryland to Valparaiso, Chile.

On his long rail journey across the South American continent he will probably stop at Santiago, the Chilean capital; Lima, the capital of Peru, and then strike out directly over the Andes and across the Amazon to Montevideo and Buenos Aires. An the east coast of South America, another battleship will pick him up to carry him northward, with one or two stops in Central America or Cuba.

This would get the President-elect back in Washington about January 10, if the best possible schedule is achieved, or as late as February 1 under less favorable conditions of travel.

Definite announcement of the itinerary is expected Monday. It may be made in Washington, or at Mr. Hoover's home here.

It is unknown whether Mrs. Hoover will make the trip.

Aside from the fact that President Coolidge has offered the Maryland, and that the craft is now at Santa Cruz, Cal., under orders to prepare for sea duty, there is no definite announcement either of the itinerary or the purpose of the journey.

The White House announcement that Mr. Hoover would take the trip was a surprise to those who anticipated that Hoover would spend most of his time between now and inauguration in resting and preparing himself for the extra session of Congress promised early in the new administration.

Site Accepted for Washington School

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 10.—The Washington School Board has definitely accepted the Highland avenue site for the proposed new Washington High School building, which is to be erected at a cost of approximately $1,000,000. There was much objection to the plan on the part of owners of fine residence properties in the district and others who thought the site would cost too much. Plans will be rushed toward condemning properties and taking other preliminary steps looking to speedy erection of the new building.

BATTLE ON SOGGY GRID

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

A brisk snowfall, followed by almost Stygian darkness—in other words, typical Pittsburgh football weather as we have come to know it in recent seasons—greeted the fans intent upon viewing the annual Pitt-Wash-Jeff gridiron spectacle in the Stadium today, and prospects at noon were strong for another of those scoreless deadlocks that have graced the records of this series during the last two years.

Pitt, with the odds all in its favor, had hoped to break the jinx in today's battle.

The Panthers also had hoped to get a break in the matter of a large attendance following the small turnout of last week for the Syracuse game, but the elements made even this hope a dubious one. Under fair weather conditions a crowd of at least 30,000 was expected. Last year more than 50,000 witnessed the traditional struggle. Two early-season defeats for Pitt and three setbacks and a tie for Wash-Jeff have served to lessen enthusiasm in this year's carbon copy of the event, but the usual colorful setting was expected to draw a throng nevertheless.

This battle is the only one of the day between collegiate teams in this city. Carnegie Tech is playing Georgetown in a crucial battle involving the eastern championship at Albany, N. Y., and Duquesne University is idle. Coaches Elmer Layden and Pat Reagan and Graduate Athletic Manager John D. Holohan, of the Dukes, left last night for New York to attend the Army-Notre Dame game at the Yankee Stadium today. Layden was a star among the famous Four Horsemen of Notre Dame several years ago.

TRADING ORGIES STUN WALL ST.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(INS.)—Wall street buzzed with comment today on the spectacular bull markets which have prevailed since Herbert Hoover was elected President.

Total transactions for the day are now flirting with the 5,000,000-share-a-day mark. This is considered astounding, for a few years ago a 2,000,000-share day was regarded as extraordinary. The total sales yesterday were 4,992,000.

Today's "short session"—only two hours, as is the rule on Saturday—is being watched with interest by traders who are trying to determine how long the bull market movement will continue. The big feature of yesterday's sensational market was a sudden 23-point rise in Radio Corporation of America, which stock kited from $247 a share at 2:44 o'clock to $270 at 2:59 o'clock. Radio's opening price was $237.50 and it closed at $255 bid.

Montgomery Ward was another spectacular performer, advancing from $370 to $388 and closing at $384.

New high records were established in 29 stocks. Only two stocks set new low figures.

Poincare Choosing New French Cabinet

PARIS, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Premier Poincare has given up his efforts to reconstitute his old cabinet and today was going ahead with plans for a new line-up. The premier told his colleagues that the difficulties of patching up the old cabinet were too great and it was at once resolved unanimously that he must be left free to find an entirely new combination in accordance with the requirements of the present situation, in view of the determined opposition of the Radicals.

Hurt Girl Held; Driver Is Fined

SNOW SHROUDS CITY IN MURK

Snow fell at 9:02 a. m. today, the first except for a slight flurry this season, and after the snow there came darkness.

At 10 a. m. downtown Pittsburgh was wrapped in a gray darkness that brought forth many explanations and predictions. Impressionable persons may have been scared. An hour later things cleared up slightly.

Weatherman Brotzman said this: The clouds were hanging low, a southeast wing swung to the north and sent smoke into the clouds. And that's what caused it all—smoke and low clouds.

METRO VOTE IN COUNTY GROWS

Additional Allegheny county districts tabulated this morning brought the lead here on the metropolitan district amendment to 32,606 votes. In the same number of districts the voting machine led in Allegheny county by 37,045 votes.

The proposal to increase Pittsburgh's debt limit from 7 to 10 per cent apparently was approved by the voters of this county, although it seems to have been defeated throughout the state. In 902 districts it led by 4,415 votes, while the plan to assess non-abutting property had a precarious lead of 2,019.

Additional districts only intensified the manner in which the county disapproved the five bond issue proposals.

Returns from 802 of the 1,427 county districts gave:

No. 1—Authorizing state to do its own printing:

No	63,186

No. 2—Bond issue of $8,000,000 for State College:

SMITH BACKERS PROBE MARKED BALLOT STORY

Whatever proof the "Smith-for-President Lawyers' Committee" can uncover to show that duplicate ballots were printed for use here last Tuesday will be laid before District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner within two weeks.

This was promised today by Attorney C. A. Jones, the committee's chairman, who announced the committee would hear witnesses at a private hearing next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Complaints of alleged election frauds, of whatever nature, will interest the committee, but its attention will be focused briefly upon the duplicate ballot story.

The assertion that marked duplicate ballots had been printed for use here was broadcast by the committee in an advertisement on election day. A coupon accompanied the advertisement, inviting citizens to give their names, presidential choice and the district in which they voted.

FILM STAR KIDNAPED, BEATEN

International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 10.—Authorities today were investigating a reported attack by four bandits on Lottie Pickford and Jack Daugherty, well-known members of the Hollywood Film Company.

Miss Pickford, sister of the famous Mary, told police she was kidnaped, beaten and robbed early yesterday after Daugherty had been slugged unconscious. The latter is the former husband of the late Barbara La Marr and of Virginia Browne Faire.

According to her story, Miss Pickford and Daugherty were held up by four bandits as they were returning in Daugherty's automobile to Miss Pickford's Hollywood home.

After slugging her escort and leaving him unconscious in the road, the bandit quartet drove Miss Pickford in Daugherty's car to a lonely spot in the hills, where the men robbed her of her jewelry and then tried to attack her.

She fought until her clothes were torn in shreds, Miss Pickford said. Finally the bandit leader gave orders for the combat to cease, and she was then driven back to the place where Daugherty lay. She revived him sufficiently to drive her home, she said.

$15,000,000 LOSS; 9 KILLED

International News Service.

RIPOSTO, Sicily, Nov. 10.—Mt. Etna's river of molten lava, flowing westward from the volcano to the Ionian Sea, swept past Nunziata today, adding additional thousands to the army of fleeing refugees.

Nearly 20,000 persons are homeless, more than 250 square acres of cultivated land have been inundated by the fiery stream and the damage is estimated at approximately $15,000,000.

In addition to the farm and vineyard land destroyed, the lava covered hundreds of acres outside the ravaged towns and villages.

As the boiling river windowed on the plains west of the Catania-Messina Railway, the onward rush slackened in speed. The lava stream was a mile and a half wide at some places.

NINE KILLED

At least nine persons, three of them women, have been killed.

While Mascali has been completely destroyed, word from the Carrabba district said that not all of the houses in that town had been burned up. Some were still standing.

Santa Venera has been completely destroyed.

The Fascist organization is taking the lead in the relief work. It is reported that Premier Mussolini may come to the scene.

Two separate streams of lava are flowing past Carrabba.

The small towns of Santa Maria and Lastrada are menaced with destruction.

The devastated district echoes to the rumble and roar from the interior of the volcano. A sound like distant thunder rolls over the baked land covered with its thick coating of hardened lava. The heaviest discharge of lava comes from the fissures of the southeastern corner of the crater.

Volleys of stones, lava, steam, smoke and cinders belch from the crater upon the pulsations of the quake-like shocks. There is a fiery Niagara Falls where the stream of redhot lava cascades over the rim of the crater, pouring downward amid billows of smoke and fumes.

The railway bridge at Mascali fell prey to the molten torrent. The flow across the railroad tracks cut communications between Catania and Messina. Steamship service between the two places was inaugurated, four trips being made daily by four ships.

Developments during the past 24 hours showed that this was the most important outbreak of Mt. Etna since 1669 in the point of lava flow.

Watchers spent a sleepless night observing the uncanny effects of the molten mass upon what was the richest fruit and grape bearing land of Sicily. The whole ruined countryside was studded with trees burning like torches, while the relentless sweep of the torrent was punctuated by strange explosions. Crevices were formed and gave forth a strong odor like gasoline.

tions. His experience in this respect is declared to peculiarly fit him for the war ministry.

DEPENDS ON MELLON

Whether he receives the appointment may depend somewhat on the retention of Andrew W. Mellon, of Pittsburgh, as Secretary of the Treasury. While President Harding and President Coolidge both raised no objection to having two members of the cabinet not only from the same state, but from the same city, Pittsburgh (Secretary of Labor James J. Davis being the second), it is not known how Mr. Hoover feels on the subject. Generally, it is the policy of an incoming President to scatter as widely as possible the limited cabinet posts.

Secretary Mellon is generally believed to be slated for further service if he is willing, and thus far he has failed to indicate any desire to retire.

He is the one member of the Hoover official household on whom the unofficial cabinet makers are agreed as to selection.

Postmaster General New and Secretary of War Dwight Davis also have been mentioned for re-appointment, but it is safer to say that no one outside of the President-elect himself has any definite knowledge of the situation, and prospects at the present stage. All current speculation falls more in the complimentary category—guesses that offer some basis for bearing fruit.

Aged Couple Dies In Etna's Hot Lava Flood

ROME, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—A dispatch to Il Tevere from Catani, Sicily, today said an old man and his wife had been burned to death in the lava pouring down the slopes of Mount Etna.

The couple refused to leave their dwelling in the town of Mascali, which has since been destroyed, preferring to die there. They later changed their minds and climbed to the roof beseeching rescue. The lake of molten lava had surrounded the house and there was no possibility of saving them. They were observed to be gesticulating frantically as the roof caved in hurling them into the fiery torrent.

corded for Smith in that district. In the districts where, in the past, election mathmematics have been performed without regard for the Arabic or any other system of numerals, this would have afforded a partial check on frauds, Jones believed.

However, out of several thousand coupons sent in the committee was unable, by cursory examination, to find one instance where the Democratic candidate had been deprived of votes cast for him.

In announcing the committee's plans, Jones told—with some omissions—the details of the duplicate ballot story. The duplicates, he said, were alleged to have been printed in Ohio, just across the state line, and were to have been brought here in fast automobiles the night before the election.

According to Jones, the committee sent detectives to the Ohio city to nip the the ballot plot aborning. The sleuths failed to find a plot to nip, but the committee remained confident that the "reliable information" it advertised still was reliable.

there will be some additional acts from out of town.

The local representatives of the theatrical profession are more than "laying themselves out," as the saying goes, to make the affair one that all who attend will remember to their dying day because of the merit of the performance.

This committee of theatrical men has taken the show in charge: Chairman, Eugene L. Connelly; vice chairman, D. A. Harris; Harry Brown, John B. Reynolds, Frank Buehler, Earl Crabbe, William Finney, Livingstone Lanning, Jack Simon, J. O. Hooley, William C. Pearce, James A. Balmer, Harry Wonders, Mo Glanz and W. A. Wyman.

John H. Harris and J. A. McGreevy constitute the committee in charge of the sale of tickets.

Illustrating the desire universally shown to contribute to the success of the benefit, the Semler Sinema Service, Inc., of New York City, announced yesterday that they would make, free of charge, the movie "trailers" to be exhibited in Pittsburgh theaters next week to advertise the midnight show.

The Welfare Fund seems destined to receive a large sum of money from the show.

RUTH SNYDER'S INSURANCE ON SLAIN MATE NULLIFIED

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—A Supreme Court ruling yesterday nullified the insurance of $95,000 which Mrs. Ruth Snyder took out on the life of her husband, Albert Snyder, for whose murder she and her lover, Henry Judd Gray, were executed.

Supreme Court Justice Mahoney, who handed down the decision ruled that though there was no evidence that Mrs. Snyder was thinking of killing her husband when she took out the insurance, still she got the policies by deceit and for that reason they were null and void. So the Snyders' young daughter, Lorrain, will receive only the amount of the premiums paid—$1,652.28—instead of the value of the policies, of which she was beneficiary by assignment from her mother.

The policies were taken out more than a year before Snyder was killed. Mrs. Snyder arranged an interview between her husband and LeRoy Ashfield, an agent for the Prudential Life Insurance Company, but Snyder agreed to take only a policy for $1,000, which has been paid without question.

It was brought out at the trial, however, that Ashfield got him to sign both the application for the $1,000 policy and another blank application and that Ashfield then traced Snyder's signature on a third application. The blank applications were filled in, one for $5,000 and the other for $45,000, the latter having a clause doubling the amount in case of death by violence.

Justice Mahoney ruled that the two larger policies were void in that Snyder never knew of their existence and that therefore they never took effect in the eyes of the law. He held that the insurance company should not be made to pay them, since it was ignorant that Snyder had not entered into the contract himself.

N. Y. Welfare Worker Admits Fund Theft

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Pending word from police of New York and other cities, W. J. B. Housman, former New York newsboy, who is said to have confessed to the embezzlement of funds from the Hudson Guild, a New York welfare institution, in 1922, was under arrest here today. Housman told police he had been a Boy Scout worker in Richmond, Va., and other cities, and is said to have admitted he had cashed many worthless checks and drafts while posing as a psychoanalyst and welfare worker.

Bad Weather Balks Cross-Country Hop

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Richard E. James, 17-year-old New York aviator, attempting a solo flight across the continent, planned to resume his eastward journey today if weather, which forced him to turn back yesterday, permits. He took off yesterday for Cheyenne, but returned soon afterward and reported bad flying weather along the route.

Bandits Talk Pig Latin In Holdup

Three burglars who kept up a conversation in "pig latin" early today robbed Charles Daugherty, of 809 Union avenue, McKeesport, while he was walking in Third street, Glassport. Leaping from an automobile alongside of their victim, two of the robbers put guns against Daugherty's side and robbed him of his wrist watch, topcoat and $4. The pair conversed in pig latin, and when ready to leave called to the third member of the gang, seated in the machine, also using "pig latin."

VEGETABLES ONLY FOOD

Today five children of Dr. St. Louis Estes, New York physician and health doctrine advocate, are in California, the new temporary home, for fresh air and sunshine. Dr. Estes, shown here with four of his children, allows none to wear clothes until the age of 3 and feeds them raw foods, principally vegetables. None has known a sick day.

PITTSBURGH MAKES ASTROPHYSICAL "EYES" OF WORLD

ROOF CUT TO LOOK AT STARS
TELESCOPIC TUBE UNDER CONSTRUCTION

POLISHING A 60-INCH REFLECTOR
TASK OF MANY MONTHS
ROUGH GRINDING QUARTZ LENS
A TEDIOUS JOB

WORLD'S THIRD LARGEST

The third largest telescopic reflector for study of the heavens is nearing completion today in the "workshop" of J. W. Fecker, one of the world's foremost designers and manufacturers of astronomical and astrophysical instruments. Here is the tube for giant 60-inch glass in the shops, 1954 Perrysville avenue.

POLISHED WITH ROUGE!

The glass reflector for this big telescope requires months and months of polishing with rouge. The reflector's surface must be finished to the 'nth degree of precision, the slightest variation over one-millionth of an inch throwing the whole mechanism out of perfection. Utmost precaution is taken to guard against undue agitation or disturbance in this process and an even temperature must be kept. The room in which the work is done is sealed by double doors.

7-INCH PRISM—$1,000!

Quartz is the only transparent solid through which the ultra-violet rays can pass, but to make lens and prisms from this material is an expensive proposition. Intense heat from electrical sources is used to fuse the quartz, and power bills alone for forming a small six or seven-inch prism run close to $1,000. Here A. H. Lindner grinds a quartz lens.

COSTLY

Labor is the principal item of expense connected with the manufacture of these gigantic instruments through which the brainiest men of the world compute time and distance and make other important scientific calculations.

SCANNING THE SKIES

Tons of material and years of patience and precise toil are required in the erection of a telescope. Here K. Burns, astronomer at Allegheny Observatory, is at the business end of Pittsburgh's largest refractor, in daily use.

POLAND'S 10TH ANNIVERSARY OF LIBERTY

WARSAW, Poland, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—In conformity with a resolution of the Council of the Jewish community in Warsaw, a parade of more than 10,000 Jewish school children and members of Jewish organizations marched to the tomb of the unknown soldier and deposited a silver wreath in the name of Poland's Jewish population.

The parade then marched to the Royal Castle to pay homage to President Moscicki on the occasion of the tenth anniversary of Poland's independence.

The Jewish members of Parliament and the central executive of Poland's Zionist organizations also published a manifesto declaring that Poland's independence anniversary would be entered in the gold book of the National Jewish fund in Jerusalem. The manifesto declared that the Jews of Poland participated in the day of Poland's resurrection as they participated in Poland's sufferings under foreign yokes.

German members of the Diet and Senate will not participate in the anniversary, however, speakers in both chambers declaring that Germans will abstain from today's session of Parliament in honor of the anniversary because Poland's joy on that day is a sad anniversary for the Germans.

Charter Asked for Club to Back Kline

A charter has been asked for the newly organized Sentinel Club, which has been formed, according to some of its organizers, for the purpose of protecting the political interests of Mayor Charles H. Kline in the Hill district. Among those named as organizers are Leo Rothberg, former police magistrate; Representative Joseph C. Marcus, Joseph Engelsberg, Benjamin R. Nieman, Benjamin L. Steinberg and James P. Mortaralla.

Socialist!

F. VANDERBILT FIELD

F. Vanderbilt Field, New York City, has formed a new socialistic organization called the "League of First Voters." The league today still endorses Norman Thomas for the presidency and will continue its activities in spite of the election. Field is one of the Vanderbilt offspring.

Woman Democrat Will Pay Her Bet—and How!

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Nov. 10.—Because she wagered that Al Smith would be our next president, and lost, Mrs. John Allman, of Newtown, near here, will lead a Republican parade of 500 citizens here next Wednesday. The woman, according to the agreement made before last Tuesday, will be attired in the costume of a donkey. Sam Homsey, local news dealer, was on the winning side of the bet and is anxiously awaiting the day next week.

One Brownsville man, James Pollitte, has already paid his bet. He wheeled Jack Striblin through Brownsville's main streets in a wheelbarrow, after he found Al didn't have a chance.

JAPAN'S MIKADO ENTHRONED

KYOTO, Japan, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Hirohito, one hundred and twenty-fourth of the imperial line that reigns over Japan, began his day of enthronement by kneeling this morning before the shrine of the sun goddess, his great ancestress, and invoking her blessing to the end that the "heavenly sun dynasty" continue "unbroken for ages eternal" and that perpetual prosperity and happiness be vouchsafed its loyal subjects.

This morning's ceremony preceded and was preparatory to the enthronement proper this afternoon, when the Emperor will ascend his canopied dais and announce to his subjects and the nations of the world the fact of his accession. The morning observances were essentially religious. Those of the afternoon will be rather political.

Plea He Ran Stills Fail to Save Pal

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Nov. 10.—Despite the testimony of M. C. Williams, of Canton, a prisoner in the Ohio penitentiary, that he was solely responsible for the two copper stills found in operation last July in a woods near Mineral City, a jury in Common Pleas Court today found Ellsworth Judy, Canton, guilty of complicity in operating the still. Judge E. E. Lindsay sentenced him to one to five years in prison and fined him $500. Williams is serving one to three years.

Call Vote Boards To Correct Errors

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Nov. 10.—Election officials of eight districts, four in this city, two in Ellwood City, and one each in Bessemer and South New Castle Borough, were summoned by Prothonotary R. M. Campbell and the return judges to make corrections in their returns. The trouble concerned a few clerical errors and did not effect the results.

"Reds" to Bury Bill Haywood's Ashes Sunday

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Half of the ashes of William D. ("Big Bill") Haywood, powerful and colorful leader of the I. W. W. movement when it was at its height, will be buried here Sunday by the Communist's former comrades.

When Haywood died in Russia last May 18, he requested that his body be cremated and that half the ashes be buried in Russia, his adopted country, and that the other half be returned to Chicago. Karl Reeve, an American student in the Proletarian University in Moscow, brought the ashes to this country. New York Communists will bring them to Chicago. They will be buried close to the graves of the victims of the famous Haymarket riot in 1886.

PGH. MAKES 3D LARGEST TELESCOPE

At one time or another the eyes of the world have been turned towards Pittsburgh and the whole world knew about it. But few persons seem to know that every now and then the eyes of the astronomical world have been produced in Pittsburgh.

Astronomy, or astraphysics, as science prefers it to be known today, to the layman is a hopeless jumble of meaningless signs and figures and as much can also be said for the equipment used in this important work of the country's genii.

And as to equipment—Pittsburgh stands foremost among cities of the world as a producer of the biggest and most accurate telescopes known to science today. These big "sky peepers," some of them weighing upwards of 100 tons, are built right here in the old factory established many years ago atop Perrysville avenue, North Side, by John A. Brashear, one of the world's foremost scientists.

MADE FOR HARVARD

J. W. Fecker, a young man in years, but old in experience, has brought to this city the honor of turning out the second and third largest telescopic reflectors in the world. Today the third largest is nearing completion for Harvard College to be used in its South African observatory. It is a 60-inch reflector of the photographic type and will be used to study the heavens near Bloemfountaine, in the Orange Free State.

Mr. Fecker's "factory" is the only one of its kind in the world. It is the only institution devoted to the production of giant telescopes which builds the big "spy glass" from the ground up and assembles it in its entirety for testing. The whole job is completed under one roof, or rather through the roof, because the enormous size of the big telescopes makes it necessary to practically remodel the "factory" every time a new one is turned out. For the 60-inch "glass," Mr. Fecker has had to cut away two floors and is prepared to take off part of the roof to complete the testing.

YEARS TO MAKE ONE

It requires years of the most laborious effort to turn out a telescope the size of the one being produced at the present time. The reflector, for instance, requires months and months of polishing with fine rouge after it is ground to shape, another tedious process.

Precision is the most important phase of the work. The polishing process, for instance, is carried out to the width of a light wave—one-millionth of an inch—a measurement affected by the slightest variance in temperature. Huge gears used to propel and operate the gigantic telescopes are machined by skilled instrument makers under the direction of Mr. Fecker, another very important detail in the building of these scientific "eyes of the world."

Ground-Glass Murder Plot Is Probed

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Mrs. Annabelle Brownlee of Fairview was released from custody, pending further investigation of charges that she attempted to kill her husband, Alonzo Brownlee, by giving him ground glass in food while he was a prisoner in the Erie county jail. The glass was found shortly after the woman delivered the food, according to detectives.

Mrs. Brownlee was released after she had been questioned by Leroy Zarch, Erie county detective, and a Fairview constable.

Brownlee was indicted by the November grand jury yesterday on a charge of mayhem.

U. S. Congressman From Ohio Dies

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 10.—Former Congressman James Kennedy died here yesterday. From 1903 to 1911 he served the old Ohio Eighteenth District at Washington and helped frame the legislation under which the Panama Canal was built. He was active also in behalf of pure food laws. For 40 years he practiced law in Youngstown.

KEYES LINKED WITH PLOT TO "COVER-UP" FOR AIMEE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Documentary evidence asserted to deal with the quashing by District Attorney Asa Keyes of charges against Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson brought following the investigation of her story of being kidnaped has been before the grand jury investigating the operations of Keyes' office.

A sheaf of information presented to Los Angeles newspapermen by Mrs. Minnie Kennedy several weeks ago was turned over to the grand jury, witnesses disclosed after the group had adjourned last night.

Bank checks, statements and pass books, and other documents are in the hands of the inquisitorial body, all said to deal with the famous case. A newspaper official and a representative of several press organizations in this city were witnesses at the investigation for more than three hours this afternoon.

Although Mrs. Kennedy furnished the information being sifted by the jury, she was represented as not wishing to appear before the body until after her daughter had returned from an evangelistic tour of Europe. Mrs. McPherson is due in Los Angeles late this month.

Recalling the notorious kidnaping story in which the evangelist related that she had been taken to an isolated spot in the desert of Southern Arizona by "Steve and Rose," who never were further identified, before being released many days later, and the profession by Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Sielaff that she instead of the hunted woman was seen at Carmel, Cal., during th latter's absence, the grand jury is reported to have summoned Mrs. Wiseman-Sielaff to appear Tuesday to repeat her story.

The exposure of Lorraine Wiseman-Sielaff as an imposter resulted in the indictment of Mrs. McPherson, and her mother on charges of conspiracy to obstruct justice and conspiracy to commit perjury.

The quashing of these actions is the center of the new investigation.

Chicago Darkness In Daylight Sends Chicks to Roost

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—For more than three hours yesterday Chicago's downtown district was plunged into darkness as black as any night.

The weather bureau reported that the phenomenon, the most pronounced ever witnessed in the loop district, was not the result of storm clouds, although the day was cloudy, but was caused by a ceiling of smoke with no wind to carry it away.

In Oak Park chickens went to roost and at the municipal airport and in the loop aerial beacons were lighted to guide flyers coming into Chicago.

ROOSEVELT'S WIFE TO STAY AS TEACHER

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Part of each week after January 1, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will be mistress of the executive mansion in Albany. The rest of the week will find her in New York City, teaching literature and history at the Todd-Hunter School for girls, of which she is vice principal.

In between times she will help run a furniture factory, serve on a few committees and board of directors and keep up with current history, in which she is keenly interested.

And all the time, as the mother of four boys away at school, she will be on call to go, at a moment's notice, to Groton or Cambridge, Mass.

"A lot of things can happen to four boys away at school," says Mrs. Roosevelt, wife of the Governor-elect of New York.

And so, to be nearby in case any of those things should happen, Mrs. Roosevelt remained in New York when her husband left, today, for a month's vacation at Warm Springs, Ga.

Preparatory to working out a schedule whereby she may adjust her busy and complex life to the demands made on a governor's wife, Mrs. Roosevelt says she is going to start out by getting rid of some of her jobs.

Her work as member of the advisory committee of the Democratic National Committee and head of the woman's national organization ended with the campaign. She is planning to resign from several boards of directors, including those of the Foreign Policy Association, the Women's City Club of New York, and the New York City Housing Commission.

"I haven't worked out a schedule about my teaching," she said last night. "Now I am teaching two hours a day. I suppose I shall have to pole it up, come to New York along about Tuesday night and stay until Friday night or something like that."

The furniture factory, situated on the Roosevelt estate at Hyde Park, N. Y., was started two years ago by Mrs. Roosevelt and two of her women friends to teach a trade to boys of the district. They bought their site from Mr. Roosevelt and have made the factory a paying concern.

Caught 'Cheating,' Schoolboy Kills Self

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Caught raising low marks on his report card, George Clark, 15-year-old high school student, hanged himself here rather than face his mother and stepfather. He had been dead several hours when the body was found.

The boy had changed the marks on his report card before taking it home, and the deception was discovered by school authorities. His teacher gave him a new report card and a letter to his mother explaining what he had done.

On the back of his teacher's letter, the boy wrote a note asking his mother's forgiveness.

RECAPTURE 5 CONVICTS

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Five of the eight men who escaped from the Kanawha county jail early Wednesday morning were back in custody today.

Three of the men, William Howard and M. J. Jones, held for federal authorities, and Charles Bryant, a state prisoner, were apprehended in Athens, O., and returned to Kanawha county, while the others, Abe Loftis and Andrew Hill, federal prisoners, charged with robbing the Maxine, Boone county, postoffice, were held in the Boone county jail.

The men who had not been recaptured were Homer Underwood and George Pauley, federal prisoners, and Leslie Hollandsworth, who surrendered several days ago and was held in connection with a robbery at Falling Rock, where two alleged robbers were killed.

Pgh. Men on C. of C. National Boards

Two prominent Pittsburghers have been appointed members of important committees of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States with headquarters at Washington. W. L. Clause, of Pittsburgh, chairman of the board of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, goes on the national defense committee, and Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Institute of Technology, goes on the national water power policies committee. Each is a special committee composed of 10 or more prominent business men from all parts of the country.

Vet's Insurance Given Common Law Wife

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Nov. 10.—(INS.)—Federal Judge George C. Scott has decided that Mrs. Clara E. Muca, Sioux City waitress, is entitled to the war risk insurance of her common law husband, Benjamin Frank Lair, killed on a French battlefield.

The woman had borne Lair five children before they were separated. Then he enlisted and started for France. But before he sailed from New York he married another woman, who made claim for his insurance when he was killed.

It was shown here that both Lair and his legal wife had failed to have annulled former common law marriages.

RAIDERS HIT IMPOSING CLUB

IMPOSING OAKLAND CLUB RAIDED

College students' revels in this club, The Frontenac, may be no more. County detectives in a surprise visit raided it along with a number of other East End clubs and saloons in seeking evidence for the graft-probing jury. The Frontenac Club, Craft avenue, has been operating in this imposing former residence. Appeals were made to college students in the district.

Lilley Mine Will Resume Work Soon

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Nov. 10.—John H. Moffitt, president of the Lilley mine, one mile west of here, announced today that the mine will resume operations within the next two weeks on a limited scale. The daily tonnage, he said, will be increased each day, until the output aggregates 2,000 tons.

No men will be employed except those living in houses at Lilley mine and those who were in the employe of the coal company before it suspended operations.

Hold Monessen Man On Burglary Charge

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 10.—Donald J. Drake, 22, of Monessen, is held in the county jail here without bail, accused of having broken into the office of the American Railways Express Company at Monongahela. Nothing of value was taken. He is to be given a hearing before Alderman Thomas Ward, of Monongahela.

FARMERS HELD FOR MURDER

TUSCOLA, Ill., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Two Atwood, Ill., farmers were arrested on a warrant charging them with the murder of a farm hand of one of them, with the collection of insurance on the farm hand's life as the motive behind the alleged slaying.

Emil Carroll and his brother, William, are the men under arrest. Warrants charging them with murder were signed by Charles McAlister, a brother of Walter McAlister, 52, employed by Emil Carroll.

Walter McAlister was found dead on October 12, after a freight train had struck an automobile in which Emil Carroll and his employe were riding.

Carroll said he leaped from the car as the train bore down upon it, but that McAlister was unable to jump.

State Sends Checks For Highway Bldg.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Sixteen townships were sent checks by the State Highway Department for a total of $41,241, representing the state's share of the cost of 24 highway improvement projects. Among the payments were: Big Beaver township, Beaver county, $1,771; Richland township, Cambria county, $1,761; Spring Hill township, Fayette county, $766; Perry, $2,250, and Jefferson township, Greene county, $3,409; Sugar Grove, $2,190; Perry, $3,207, and Liberty township, Mercer county, $1,571; Quemahoning township, Somerset county, $2,823; Rockland, Venango county, $2,642; Somerset, Washington county, $6,578.

News From Hollywood Studios and About Bills in Local Theaters

FILM DIRECTORS :-: AND PLAYERS :-: IN NEWS OF DAY

D. W. Griffith has been offered the job of directing Ronald Colman's next picture, "Commanded." But D. W. wants $125,000 if he handles the megaphone and so nothing has been settled yet.

King Vidor is Memphis bound to make exteriors for his all-Negro cast photoplay, "Hallelujah." Daniel Haynes, Negro player, will play the leading role.

Gloria Swanson confesses that she has been to a wedding, her mother's. Mrs. Adeline Lou Burns ventured on matrimonial seas the third time when she wedded C. C. Woodruff, orchestra musician.

Bert Lytell, who is appearing on the stage in "The Lone Wolf's Return," recently completed the film, "The Lone Wolf's Daughter."

Plan French Cabinet Organization Today

PARIS, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—The Havas Agency late last night reported that unless complications arose Premier Poincaire would form a cabinet today containing the same ministers as the last, with three exceptions. M. Louis Marin, former minister of pensions, Edouard Herriot, former minister of public instructions, and M. Leon Perrier, former minister of colonies, would be replaced respectively by Albert Oberkirch, Yvon Delbos and Rene Despard, radicals like their predecessors.

MUSIC, DRAMA AND FUN IN PROGRAMS

"The Desert Song," romance of Morocco, set to a musical score by Sigmund Romberg, remains the attraction in the Alvin Theater for an additional week beginning Monday night. The cast, headed by Alexander Gray, Bernard Granville and Bernice Claire, has a male chorus and a dancing ensemble.

Monday, November 12, Florenz Ziegfeld's latest production, Eddie Cantor in "Whoopee," will begin its second and last week in the Nixon.

Next week's attraction in the Pitt Theater will be the latest stage version of George McManus' famous cartoon creations, "Bringing Up Father." Thursday and Saturday are matinee days.

Bebe Daniels, in her latest photoplay, "Take Me Home," will be shown in the Davis next week. Pearl Regay, dancing star, will headline the program of Keith-Albee vaudeville.

George Carroll will be seen in his well-known tramp character in "Girls of the U. S. A.," next week's bill in the Academy.

Dorothy Revier plays the featured feminine role in "Submarine," undersea screen special, which will be shown in the Stanley Theater beginning Monday. Jack Holt is the star.

Beginning Monday, in the Gayety, "The Little Spitfire" will be offered as the second play of the Gayety Players, with Mary Ann Dentler in the title role.

Teddy Joyce and the Penn stage band will be seen next week in a comedy presentation called "Bars and Stripes." Lamberti, comedy xylophonist, heads the cast. Fay Wray and Gary Cooper in "The First Kiss," will be seen on the screen.

A film production of the Harriet Beecher Stowe classic, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," will be shown with complete sound accompaniment in the Grand next week.

Wallace Beery returns to serious drama in Jim Tully's "Beggars of Life," next week's screen attraction in the Aldine.

Julian Eltinge, impersonator, will top the six-act bill of vaudeville in the Harris. The screen feature is to be Claire Windsor in "Domestic Meddlers."

Steve Freda and Johnny Palace will top the vaudeville in the Sheridan Square the first half of next week. Madge Bellamy and Louise Dresser, in "Mother Knows Best," will be the photoplay feature.

"The Terror," the Warner crook and spook melodrama of the screen, opens in the Regent today. Stanley engagement and crowded houses are expected during the East Liberty engagement.

"The Battle of the Sexes," D. W. Griffith's latest United Artists' picture, will be shown in the Liberty next week.

BIG AIR-CRASH GEM MISSING

OIL CITY, Pa., Nov. 10.—An unset diamond of more than nine carats still is being sought by postal inspectors as part of the loot taken from the wreck of an air mail plane at Polk several weeks ago. Among the recent stones turned in was a rare one known as a lexandrite, set in a ring.

The gem is valued at $8,000. The stone by daylight is green and under artificial light it is red. It was picked up by an Erie resident at the scene of the accident. Government inspectors are being aided by Pinkerton detectives in rounding up those "holding out" the gems.

Portugal Forms Another Cabinet

LISBON, Portugal, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Composition of the new cabinet was announced last night with Vicente Freitas as minister of the interior as well as premier. Other portfolios will be as follows: Dr. Mario Figuiredo, justice; Dr. Antonio O. Salazar, finance; Col. Moraes Saramento, war; Mesquita Guimaraens, marine; Engenieir Bediano, commerce (temporary); Pinto Brava, agriculture, and Dr. Gustavo Ramos, instruction.

BROADWAY PLAYER IS SIGNED AS LEADING MAN FOR VILMA BANKY FILM

By REGINA CREWE.

(Copyright, 1928, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 6.

ANOTHER player from the stage has been snatched from Broadway to shine among the stars of Hollywood. He is Robert Montgomery, recently of the cast of "Possession" and other stage productions. And he has been selected by Director Al Santell to appear opposite Vilma Sanky in her first audible picture. The working title is still "Childs'—Fifth Avenue."

Director Santell entered into negotiations with Montgomery while shooting some stuff for the picture along New York's boulevards, and the deal for him to be Vilma's leading man was consummated when it became apparent that Rod La Rocque was unavailable for the role. Montgomery has been to Hollywood before. In fact he at one time seemed bent upon pursuing a movie career. But things didn't turn out as he expected so he returned to the stage to await the call of the cinema which at last has come.

Cast of Thriller Has Miss Dwan

DOROTHY DWAN seems so much in demand that companies are postponing shooting dates to fit in with her work schedule. The Canadian picture in which Dorothy is to star has been put off pending her appearance as leading woman to Ken Maynard in a thriller called "The California Mail." It is a story dealing with the romance of the Wells-Fargo Express Company in the days when this organization bridged the continent with riders and mail carriers who brought the East and West coasts of the nation into closer touch.

To the surprise of most of the stars who were awaiting their cars after the premiere of "Interference," the announcer called for Al Jolson's bus. Al slipped back into town from his European honeymoon unannounced, his appearance at the opening being something of a surprise party in itself. Ruby Keeler, now Mrs. Jolson, stayed on in New York to rehearse for Eddie Cantor's show, "Whoopee." Al will get busy at once on the Warner Brothers' lot starring in a picture titled "Mammy."

"Car Caller" Tip to Celebs

SPEAKING of the line-up awaiting cars after one of these Hollywood premieres, there are regular batteries of voice amplifiers so that when the "carriage caller" asks for a star's equipage, the actor's name echoes for blocks, and the thousands of fans are tipped off to the various celebs. Some star's names are called a number of times. One wise-cracker insists that in these cases the cars are hired for the occasion and the failure of the stars to recognize their own autos makes it necessary for the drivers to go to the end of the line and start all over. The biggest laugh was when Director Eddie Cline told the announcer to call for the car belonging to the Pacific Finance Company. And the announcer shouted through the amplifiers before he remembered that the Pacific Finance Company owns all the Hollywood vehicles which are being purchased on the installment plan. And their number is legion.

When they get around to making talking pictures for the foreign markets Lew Cody should be in great demand. Lew is one American player who is at home when conversing in languages other than English. He is a great favorite abroad, too, as is indicated by the fact that European vaudeville offers have caused him to cancel his United States tour except in New York and Chicago. He will then journey to London and thence to Paris to stage engagements.

Mrs. Lew Cody, whom you may remember more vividly as Mabel Normand, still is one of Hollywood's best-beloveds. Mabel has been leading a quiet but not secluded existence in her beautiful California home, which remains a center for the movie colony.

Marion Davies In Big "Stunt"

ONE of the greatest personal appearances ever made here will be that planned by the cast of Marion Davies' current starring picture, "Show People." Marion is to visit the theater and so will William Haines, her leading man. In addition it is planned for Charlie Chaplin, Doug Fairbanks, Norma Talmadge, Leatrice Joy, William S. Hart, Mae Murray, Directors Robert Leonard and King Vidor, Estelle Taylor, providing she gets home in time, and a number of others who take part in the film to appear and give the audience a thrill by being "among those present." A great stunt for a great picture.

A really important transaction out at the Paramount studios is the signing of Julian Johnson to continue as head of the Paramount title department. Johnson, for many a month, has supervised all editorial and titling work at the Paramount West Coast Studios, and has titled and edited many of Paramount's outstanding attractions.

WHAT'S ON THE AIR

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

TWO big football games will be broadcast today over Pittsburgh stations.

Topping the list is the Pitt-W. & J. game at the Stadium, which will be put on the air from KDKA at 2 o'clock. Each team has won 13 games and tied two. Special arrangements have been made to "cover" every detail. Between halves the announcer will give scores of other games being played this afternoon.

From KQV at 2:20 p. m. will come play-by-play reports of the Tech-Georgetown match. WCAE will have the Army-Notre Dame game at 1:45 o'clock.

"BLUE DANUBE" WCAE

"The Boy Comes Home" is the title of a one-act play to be presented by the Strollers at 7 o'clock tonight over WCAE. The parts are filled by Gregg Bridges, Claude Morris, Nora O'Connor, Mary Ross and Mae Sweeny. Poetry appropriate to Armistice Day will be read following the play.

Some beautiful selections are promised in a chamber recital at 7:30 p. m.

"Blue Danube Waltz" is a special number on Lew White's organ recital at 8 p. m. The opening selection is the march from Bizet's "L'Arlesienne." A novelty number, "A Midnight Trip Around New York," will introduce a humorous imaginary trip on a Times Square bus, taking the listeners to "East Side, West Side," and bringing them back at "Three O'Clock in the Morning." Other numbers are "Jeannie," "Roses of Yesterday" and a medley of college songs.

Judge John Barton Payne will speak from New York at 8:15 o'clock. He will be followed by The Park Bench at 8:30; the Adler Quartet and Sonia Essin, contralto, at 9, and the Golden Melodies concert at 9:30 p. m.

"Sonny Boy," Al Jolson's song hit in "The Singing Fool," will be a selection in the Lucky Strike Dance Orchestra program at 10 o'clock. Selections from "Rain or Shine," "Funny Face" and "Good News" will be included. The final number will be Victor Herbert's "March of the Toys."

The Twin Pairs of Harmony at 11 and Ben Pollack's Orchestra at 11:15 p. m., conclude the evening's program at WCAE.

LUDLOW AT KDKA

According to an advance notice, Godfrey Ludlow, violinist, accompanied by Cabrera Gainsborg, pianist, will appear in the NBC program scheduled for KDKA at 8 o'clock. The principals in this feature may be changed. If the recital goes through as scheduled, Mr. Ludlow will play "Barcarolle," "From the Canebrake," "Gavotte," "Walnut Tree," "Hermit Thrush" and Chopin's "Nocturne in D."

"Katinka," a musical play in three acts by Rudolf Friml, featuring Jessica Dragonette and Colin O'More, is the Philco Hour production at 9 o'clock.

A Thanksgiving Barn Dance will be given at 10 o'clock, followed by the weekly Arctic and Antartic broadcasts at 11 p. m.

DIXIE BROWNIES KQV

The Dixie Brownies, the stage band attraction coming to the Grand Theater next week with "Uncle Tom's Cabin," will entertain over KQV tonight at 11:20 o'clock. They will give a special program of jazz numbers and plantation melodies.

Other dance orchestras on KQV are Dewey Bergman's Orchestra at 11:01, Flotilla Club Review at midnight, and the Webster Club at 12:30 a. m. Sunday.

Several local artists will take part in the concerts scheduled tonight at WJAS.

Pittsburghers who have followed the Atwater Kent auditions may tune in on WEAF tonight to hear Miss Esther B. Edmundson, soprano, of Mt. Lebanon, compete in the northeastern state eliminations. The program is scheduled to start at 7 o'clock. Fifteen singers will be heard.

SPECIAL AT WEAF

Late last night it was announced from New York that WEAF will give a special Armistice Day program tonight at 11:45 o'clock. An NBC announcer will describe the massing of the colors at the American Legion Victory Ball in the Waldorf-Astoria. A band will play. The program will run to 12:20 a. m. Sunday.

Fans who delight in getting programs from WJZ at 11 o'clock during the Slumber Hour of Music, will hear the overture to Offenbach's burlesque opera, "Orpheus," tonight. A slection from the poetic "Iolanthe"; Waldtenfel's waltz, "Mon Reve," and Mendelssohn's "Nocturne" are other features of the hour. "Song of the Volga Boatman" is a specialty.

This program may be altered some to take care of the special American Legion "Armistice Day Celebration" to be broadcast by the NBC at 11:45 tonight.

Don Bestor's Orchestra will give a special Armistice Day program Sunday night at 6 p. m., over KDKA. P. A. Boyd, of the Westinghouse Company, announced last night that KDKA also would carry the complete program of the American Legion celebration in Washington Sunday night at 9:15 o'clock. Addresses will be given by President Coolidge, Gen. Pershing and Paul McNutt, national commander of the American Legion. WCAE will have this program tomorrow night prior to the Atwater Kent recital at 10:15 p. m.

GIRL KEPT LOSING WEIGHT

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Built Her Up

Scobey, Mont.—"I was working for two years—clerking in a store—and seemed to be steadily losing in weight so was forced to give up my work. A neighbor recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me and I have now taken six bottles and can't tell you how I have appreciated it. I am feeling better and stronger every day. I recommend it to all young girls and if any have the same trouble and will write to me I will gladly answer."—Mrs. Emil H. Gerths, Box 476, Scobey, Montana.

PASTORS PICK ARMISTICE THEMES

A community Armistice Day celebration will be held in the East End Christian Church tomorrow evening at 7:45 o'clock, with the East Liberty Post American Legion in charge of the services. Special speakers will be the Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson, the Rev. Dr. James Cox and Dr. H. Boyd Edwards. The Rev. Dr. John Ray Ewers, pastor, will preside. The vested chorus choir and Mrs. Charles H. Aufhammer, soloist, will sing.

Armistice Day will be observed at Emory Methodist Episcopal Church, North Highland avenue and Rippey street, with special sermons and decorations tomorrow. In the morning the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Wofford T. Duncan, preaches on "The Spiritual Message from the War Days." A delegation from the boys' brigade sings at this service. Dr. Duncan speaks in the evening on the topic "The Marvelous Progress of Peace."

Armistice Day services will be held at Second Presbyterian Church, Eighth street, both morning and evening tomorrow, when the Rev. Dr. George W. Shelton, pastor, preaches on "Jesus and Our Beloved Dead" and "Will There Be Another War?" He will discuss the Kellogg peace pact and disarmament. A special musical program has been arranged for the services.

A two weeks' preaching mission of liberal religion opens at the First Unitarian Church, Ellsworth and Morewood avenues, tomorrow night with the Rev. Dr. Horace Westwood, of Boston, mission preacher of the Unitarian Laymen's League speaking on "The Fundamental Requirements of a Modern Religion." This and all the evening meetings for the next two weeks will begin at 8 o'clock. No meetings will be held Saturdays. This is the second such mission in Pittsburgh to be held by the Laymen's League and is being conducted in co-operation with the First Unitarian Church, of which the Rev. Dr. L. Walter Mason is pastor, and the North Side Unitarian Church. Each evening address will be preceded by a question period, during which Dr. Westwood will answer questions on religion submitted in writing on that or the previous evening.

MUSIC AT EPIPHANY

Tomorrow, Armistice Day, will be celebrated in Epiphany Catholic Church, Washington place, with a solemn high mass at 11 o'clock and a special sermon appropriate to the occasion by the Rev. Law A. O'Connell. The combined junior and senior choirs, in the loft, singing in four voices, will render Lorenzo Perosi's "Missa Pontificalis," under the direction of Prof. John Sedlacek with C. Backman at the organ, accompanied by a full orchestra.

"What Mean These Stones?" is the sermon subject of the Rev. Dr. Clarence Edward Macartney, pastor, First Presbyterian Church, tomorrow morning. In the evening he speaks on "The Spectre of the Catacombs."

The Rev. Dr. G. E. Brenneman, pastor, Smithfield Methodist Episcopal Church, Smithfield street and Seventh avenue, preaches tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock on "Is the Consecrated Life Practical?" Dr. Brenneman speaks at the evening sermon on "Sympathy."

The Rev. Dr. C. Wallace Petty, pastor, First Baptist Church, Bellefield avenue and Bayard street, delivers the second sermon in a series on "Modern Fads in Ancient Settings" tomorrow evening, when he preaches on "Behaviourism Three Thousand Years ago." In the morning he speaks on "Ten Years After," an Armistice Day sermon.

PERSONAL PREPAREDNESS

"Personal Preparedness for Peace" is the topic of the Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Goldenson's sermon tomorrow morning at the Rodef Shalom Temple.

The Rev. Dr. J. A. Orr, pastor, First United Presbyterian Church, speaks tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock on "Shall We War Again?" and in the evening on "The Character of Jesus." Special music will be presented at both services.

At the Trinity Cathedral tomorrow morning at 10:45 o'clock the pastor, the Rev. Percy G. Kammerer preaches a sermon on Armistice Day. A program of special music has been arranged for this service. There will be no evening service tomorrow.

The Rev. Dr. C. A. Voss, pastor, Smithfield Street German Evangelical Church, speaks tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock in German on "Blessed Peace" and at 11 o'clock in English on "A Warless World."

Armistice Day will be observed in the Third Presbyterian Church tomorrow by a minute of silence at 11 o'clock. The Rev. Dr. W. I. McEwan's sermon in the morning is on the subject "Things That Make for Peace." In the evening Dr. McEwan's theme will be "The Narrow Gate."

Two more sermons in connection with the pre-Thanksgiving program which is being conducted by the Salvation Army will be delivered at the auditorium, Second avenue, tomorrow, when Ensign W. G. Crouch will speak. At the 11 o'clock morning service his topic will be "The Great Highway" and in the evening "The Joyful Sound." "The Majesty of Man" will be the topic for the Young People's Legion exercises at 6 o'clock.

At Second St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Pride street, tomorrow morning an English service will be held at 10:30 o'clock and a German service at 11:30 o'clock. The Rev. G. W. F. Doege, pastor, speaks at both services.

The Rev. John Solomon, missionary and speaker, preaches tomorrow afternoon at the New Covenant Tabernacle, Pride street.

Students Clash Over Football Celebration

Westinghouse High School students were no doubt within their rights when they began to celebrate their football victory over Peabody High School yesterday, but they did not use good judgment by staging the celebration last night on Peabody's own grounds.

Opposition was met at the rival school and after several small fights had occurred a riot call brought police to the scene and dispersed the crowd.

POSTMASTER URGES CARE PACKING CHRISTMAS MAIL

Postmaster George W. Gosser, once again, makes an earnest appeal to the public to co-operate with local postal officials and lighten as far as possible the burden of the Christmas mail rush.

"Umbrellas, canes, golf sticks, etc., should be reinforced their full length by strong strips of wood tightly wrapped," the postmaster declared in pointing out some of the ways packages should be prepared to insure safe handling.

"Hats and other fragile objects should be packed in strong corrugated or fibre boxes, while flowers should be mailed in tin or wooden boxes, wrapped in tissue to retain moisture. Sharp-pointed or sharp-edged instruments or tools must have points and edges fully guarded to prevent injury to clerks or damage to other mail.

"The postoffice department is making every effort to handle the Christmas mail with a minimum of delay, but owing to the enormous volume this can only be done with the full co-operation of the public," he said.

U. S. TO GUARD RUM RING JURY

Jurors who will hear the cases of the North Side booze ring defendants in Federal Court next week will be housed under guard at the Pittsburgher Hotel while they are absent from the Court House, it was learned last night. An entire floor of one wing has been set aside for the jurors and guards in the case. This is the first time in history that a Federal jury here has been kept under guard during the entire trial.

From the time the jurors are selected on Tuesday until after the trials are over, they will be under the watchful eyes of special bailiffs. Meals will be furnished at the hotel. United States Attorney John D. Meyer yesterday appointed Joseph A. Richardson, one of his assistants, to assist Ralph H. Smith, the assistant attorney, who is prosecuting the cases.

Pgh "Magicians" Hear George Seibel

Ring No. 13, the "lucky ring," of the International Brotherhood of Magicians, met last night at its headquarters in the Apollo Building. About 30 magicians of the Pittsburgh district were present. George Seibel, dramatic and literary editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, who is a member of the fraternity, told of the magicians Maskelyne, Gombert and Ottokar Fischer, whom he met recently in Europe.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Lettice Lee Coulling Becomes Engaged To New Englander

SOMETIMES a bit of news comes wandering in a little late, but well worth knowing about, all the same. I have just heard about an engagement that was announced a short time ago down in Virginia, and I thought you might know the girl, since she is connected locally and has visited here.

She is Lettice Lee Coulling, daughter of Mrs. William Meade Coulling, of Baltimore, Md., and Leesburg, Va., and the late Maj. Coulling, United States Army, and is also a niece of the Henry B. Rusts, of Murrayhill avenue.

Mrs. Coulling took the occasion of a family reunion held at the home of her childhood, "Rockland," at Leesburg, to announce her daughter's betrothal to William B. Streett, of Framingham, Mass., a son of Mrs. John Rush Streett, of Harford County, Maryland.

Speaking of "Rockland," did you know it is now the summer home of the Rusts, instead of their former place at Cragsmoor, N. Y.? Mr. Rust is Mrs. Coulling's brother, and, as I said before, "Rockland" is their old homestead.

ANOTHER engagement announced just today is of even greater interest to Pittsburghers, since both the girl and the man are local folks. This is the betrothal of Eleanor McCargo to William Lloyd Standish III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Anderson Standish, of Sewickley, which is announced by her parents, the Grant McCargos, of Woodland road. The wedding will take place early in January, I hear.

BUT even though news about other matters may take first place once in a while, we can't neglect the debutante. Still another party has joined that lenghty list of affairs for the buds, I hear. This is a theater party which Dr. and Mrs. Edward J. McCague and Mrs. McCague's brother, George McCook, are planning to give at the Nixon, Monday night, December 3, in honor of their debutante niece, Louise Latimer Reed, daughter of the W. Edgar Reeds.

After the theater there will be a supper at the Pittsburgh Club, and the guests will join in the regular Monday night dance at the club.

THERE is a debutante party tonight, too, you know. The Francis D. Glovers, of Howe street, are the hosts and they will give a dinner dance in the Longue Vue Country Club for Janet MacGregor, daughter of the John W. MacGregors. There will be about 60 guests, I understand.

AND this afternoon Helen West, debutante daughter of the Charles Howard Wests, of Forbes street, was the guest of honor at a luncheon in the Duquesne Club given by Mrs. Sarah Fownes Wadsworth. Ten buds of the season and also Helen's sister, Geraldine West, were guests at the luncheon. Later, the whole party went to see "Whoopee" at the Nixon.

TO get away from the subject of debutantes, I want to tell you about an informal tea which Mrs. Robert M. Keeney is going to give on Tuesday afternoon in her home in Academy avenue. She is entertaining for her mother-in-law, Mrs. Elizabeth G. Keeney, of Warsaw, N. Y., who is visiting the Keeneys.

* * *

MRS. EARLE E. PRUGH, of Indiana, Pa., gave a bridge luncheon Thursday in honor of Miss Mary Helen Pearce, of Windber, whose engagement to John L. Dalbey, of New Brighton, was announced recently. On Tuesday, a luncheon was given in McCreery's for Miss Pearce, and next Saturday night, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Wildermuth will entertain at bridge for her.

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made of the marriage of Miss Mary C. Henderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Henderson, of North Highland avenue, and Richard H. Ray, son of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Ray, of Tacoma street, which was solemnized Monday night in the Henderson home. The Rev. Robert W. Woods, of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, performed the ceremony.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS BRADLEY, of Thirty-eighth street, announce the engagement of their niece, Miss Alice Lenore Munns, to James E. O'Connor, son of Mrs. Catherine O'Connor, of North Linden avenue. The wedding will take place November 28.

THE Pittsburgh Branch of the American Association of University Women will hold a benefit bridge party Thursday night, December 6, in the Hotel Schenley, the proceeds to be applied to the branch's pledge to the $1,000,000 fellowship fund of the national organization, and to a scholarship to the Bryn Mawr summer school. Miss Bernice L. Storey is general chairman.

PITTSBURGH ALUMNAE ASSOCIATION OR PHI WU, national fraternity, and the Beta Theta chapter of the University of Pittsburgh will hold a benefit bridge party Saturday afternoon, December 8, at Webster Hall, the proceeds to go into an endowment fund financing the upkeep of a "Health-mobile" among the southern whites. Mrs. Pauline Lingenfelser Wilson is chairman, with Miss Lucinda Zimmerman and Miss Nellie Jamieson in charge of the candy sale; Miss Virginia L. Garland, tallies and cards; Miss Grace DeWalt, prizes, Mrs. Heintzelman, tickets, and Miss Ethel Lloyd, publicity.

A LARGE number of Dilworth Hall alumnae attended the bridge luncheon held yesterday in the Morrowfield Hotel. Miss Cora Helen Coolidge, president of the Pennsylvania College for Women, and Miss Janet L. Brownlee, of the faculty, were honor guests. Mrs. Paul D. Hutchison and Mrs. Oscar Bieler were in charge.

HEADING the committees in charge of the bridge party to be held Wednesday afternoon in the Hittenhouse for the benefit of the Boys' Welfare League, are: Miss Alice Rogers Ablett, publicity; Mrs. J. Barry Diven, tickets; Mrs. Charles S. Rush, tables, tallies and prizes; Mrs. C. Elmer Bown, candy and cake, and Mrs. Rinehart Mayer, gift table.

Miss Schain to be War-Cure Speaker

MISS JOSEPHINE SCHAIN, who will be one of the morning speakers at the Western Pennsylvania Conference on the Cause and Cure of War, is a graduate of the University of Minnesota, where she received the degrees of bachelor of arts and laws. For the last 10 years Miss Schain has been a resident of the Lower East Side of New York, interesting herself in various phases of social work. She was one of a group that went abroad in 1913 to study the municipal governments of several European cities. She spent the summer and fall of '26 in Europe studying conditions in different countries, attending the Institute of International Relations in Geneva and many sessions of the Assembly of the League of Nations. In several countries she addressed various groups, particularly of women, and had the privilege of meeting high government officials and leaders of important national and international movements. Since its inception in 1924 Miss Schain has been secretary of the National Committee on the Cause and Cure of War, under auspices of which, together with 40 local organizations, the Friday conference in Carnegie Music Hall is being held. There will be four sessions, morning, luncheon, afternoon and evening.

DISPOSITION of the proceeds of their library benefit dinner will be decided upon by the members of the Ingomar Ladies Community Organization on Tuesday when they meet for luncheon with Mrs. Earl Sarver, Woodland road.

MEMBERS of the Chartiers Women's Clubs Association have been asked by their board of directors to leave donations of jelly and preserves at the Congress of Clubs before Saturday. The gifts will be taken to the ex-service men in the Marine Hospital as an Armistice Day celebration. The association will take the hospital as its special Christmas project as well.

THE West Liberty Woman's Civic Club will honor its president, Mrs. Beatrice Williamson, with a dinner in Haller's tea room, Mt. Lebanon, Wednesday evening.

HE'D 'SQUEEZE' OIL FIELDS

NORMAN, Okla., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—A plan whereby producers, he said, might place billions of additional dollars in their pockets was revealed to a meeting of geologists and petroleum engineers at the University of Oklahoma by Ben E. Lindly, of the United States Bureau of Mines experiment station at Bartlesville, Okla.

Lindly's scheme, on which he said he had worked for two years, involves the use of heated natural gas under pressure to volatilize and recover crude oil from sand strata that have been considered drained, but which, he said, contained large quauntities of oil. He said he never before had made public the results of his experiments.

In many fields, the technician said, not more than 15 per cent of the oil is recovered. In few fields, he added, does the recovery run higher than 30 per cent.

His plan is based on the theory that if the oil is raised to a high temperature virtually all of it could be vaporized and forced out of the sand.

FLIERS PLUNGE INTO RIVER

NEW BRIGHTON, Pa., Nov. 10.—William Dickson, 30, of Rochester, and Frank Harding, 32, of New Brighton, had miraculous escapes from death or serious injury late yesterday when a Jenny biplane they were flying over the New Brighton district, landed in the Beaver River after the engine had gone dead a 1,000 feet in the air.

Dickson, the pilot, suffered slight cuts about the face and Harding, the owner, was stunned. The plane landed in five feet of water. Releasing themselves, the men pulled the plane ashore.

The two men took off from the Patterson Heights flying field and were flying over the Beaver Valley, distributing advertising matter when the engine went dead. Dickson tried to volplane back to the field but fearing he would strike the side of the cliff on which it is located, took his chances with the river.

Naval Officer Burnt In Alcohol Blast

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Lieut. W. W. Seagrit, of the Navy, attached to the torpedo school here, and Harry McArthur, a civilian, said to live in Los Angeles, were burned, probably fatally, last night in an apartment explosion which police said was caused by exploding alcohol.

10 Women Mayors Elected in England

LONDON, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Ten women were among the more than 300 mayors elected yesterday. There were no women among the 18 lord mayors, but Norwich, which was the first city to elect a woman to that post, elected for the first time a woman sheriff. Miss Mabel Clarkson, who was chosen for that office, is compelled by duty to attend any execution of a criminal, which occurs in the city during her term.

E. J. Rymer, chosen mayor of York, has declared for a dry mayorality. He promises that the money saved by not serving intoxicants at municipal banquets would be given to hospitals.

BUGS BAER Says

THE election is practically over although there is still some voting going on in the Arkansas hills.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Only a few states managed to keep out of the Republican vaccuum system.

The result of the election is not amazing to students who know how to steer a pencil around an efficiency chart.

The fact that Florida went Republican does not startle economists whose thought transactions and crandial digestions do not involve the possibility of a bone bruise.

That Massachusetts went Democratic was apparent months ago, to the boys who had their seven-tube ears to the ground.

The cracking of the solid South was about due when the campaign treasurers ran out of golden glue.

The West has always been the granary of G. O. P. votes. We concede the result, congratulate the winner and do not even demand a recount.

There is only one thing that requires an explanation and a refund.

How did Alabama change its mind about Underwood?

What power caused those historic 24 votes for Oscar to be switched to another person?

If the political chauffeurs of the nation can explain that, we will all be happy.

The broadcasting pulsations for Underwood started at Madison Square Garden in 1924 and are still throbbing in the low-waved atmosphere. For three entire weeks Alabama was for Underwood. The politicians knew it, the world knew it and little children knew it. But could do nothing about it.

Alabama was for Underwood during that convention, after that convention, and forever and an election day.

That was four years ago. We never received notice that Alabama had changed its mind.

We imagined feebly that Alabama was not one of those fickle sovereign states that changed its mind every century or so.

But, now, when Alabama forgets its 24 votes for Oscar and bolts its radio program, we are forced to admit that nothing in this land is solid and stationary but hitching posts. And they are out of date.

Shift Bell Veteran To Washington Job

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 10.—Harry Gordon Bell, who has been connected with the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania for the last 14 years, has been transferred to the local office as plant wire chief. He succeeds John S. Olson, who goes to Uniontown, Pa.

ACCURACY OF HEARST POLL AMAZING CAMPAIGN ANGLE

By CHARLES N. WHEELER,
Noted Political Analyst.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—The accuracy of the Hearst nation-wide poll on the presidential outlook becomes simply uncanny to the laymen as nearly complete figures from Tuesday's election are tabulated.

Here are some examples of accuracy that certainly will never be surpassed, if equaled, again in our lifetime:

In the final table printed last Sunday, the Hearst papers indicated the plurality of Mr. Hoover in the popular vote at 5,883,154.

The latest tabulations last night give Mr. Hoover a plurality of 6,100,000.

Just to emphasize those figures, perhaps they should be placed under each other, thus:

Hearst poll indication	5,883,154
Actual result to date	6,100,000

The final official total popular vote may be a little higher than estimated in the Hearst poll, but the percentage indication of the division of the totals so nearly conforms to the actual result that one almost needs to employ higher mathematics to indicate the infinitesmal variance.

It's like figuring the exact second of the sun's eclipse, the figures are so large and the accuracy so noteworthy.

North Carolina returns are equally astounding, when put up against the Hearst poll forecast.

That any sort of a revolution could put the Tar Heel state in the Republican column was not believed by 10 persons in the United States, probably.

The Hearst poll, nevertheless, on last Sabbath morning named the probable Hoover plurality that would be rolled up in North Carolina as 46,000. The latest figures last night indicate that when the official returns are all tabulated Mr. Hoover's plurality will be not far from 50,000, and it may be within 1,000 of the figures named in the Hearst forecast.

In the Hearst poll barometer, also of last Sabbath, two days before the election, it was figured that Pennsylvania would roll up a plurality for Mr. Hoover of 1,079,114. These figures were stuck right out there in big type and in the face of the repeated claims by impartial observers that, while Smith might not carry the Keystone state, the result would be very close.

The returns from 8,233 precincts out of 8,571 in the state, as totaled last night, give Mr. Hoover a plurality of 956,230. The missing 338 precincts probably will show the official Hoover plurality in the state at just about an even 1,000,000.

Perhaps these figures should be placed in juxtaposition, just for emphasis:

Hearst poll forecast	1,079,114
Returns, with 338 precincts missing	956,230

While the Hearst forecast runs this way through nearly the entire 48 states of the Union, New Jersey, perhaps, may be singled out as a further evidence of the greatest newspaper achievement ever recorded in the way of forecasting a national election.

The Hearst poll forecast, also two days before the election, gave Mr. Hoover a probable plurality in New Jersey of 229,520. This figure was offered in the face of surface indications of a landslide for Gov. Smith in Hudson county and all along the coast and that entire section of New Jersey that looks across the bay and the Hudson River into the city of towers.

The last tabulations last night show that New Jersey has rolled up a Hoover plurality of upward of 300,000.

Incidentally, some statistician has figured that a switch in the popular vote of less than 500,000, if proportionately distributed, would have elected Gov. Smith. By taking the other side of the picture we find that a switch in the popular vote of less than 200,000, if proportionately distributed, would have given Mr. Hoover an unanimous vote in the electoral college.

ROOSEVELTS SAIL ON NEW EXPLORING TRIP

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Col. Theodore Roosevelt and his brother, Kermit Roosevelt, sailed last night on the liner Homeric on the first leg of a journey to the unexplored lands along the Mekong River north of Indo-China, in search of rare animals for the Field Museum of Natural History in Chicago.

Col. Roosevelt, who last year hunted the rare ovis poli in India, said he hoped on this expedition to obtain specimens of the boat goat, described as an antelope swifter than the Swiss chamois.

The expedition will be organized in Calcutta, India, and by next June the Roosevelts hope to be in Saigon, Indo-China, to meet the expedition to the East Indies under Harold Coolidge, Jr., of Boston. Both expect to be joined at Saigon also by their wives.

PROGRAM

Variations in E major (Harmonious Blacksmith).....Georg Friedrich Handel
Scherzo in E minor.....Felix Barthoddy-Mendelssohn
Carneval.....Robert Alexander Schumann
Valse in A flat, Op. 34, No. 1;
Nocturne in E flat major, Op 55, No. 2; Fantasy.Frederic Francois Chopin
The Sanctuary.....Dvorsky
March.....Serai Prokofieff
Tarantella "Venezia e Napoli".Franz Liszt

Josef Hofmann played another piano recital in Syria Mosque last night, and, as always, convinced us that he comes all too seldom. The fine audience gave him a rousing welcome, and he rewarded them generously with well chosen encores.

Excepting Siloti, no other pianist plays with such superb ease. His control of all dynamics of the keyboard seems unlimited; there is no nuance of which he is not master. There are times when his playing is unapproachable by another pianist, and then, strangely enough, he can assume a pedagogic attitude, during which one may well imagine listening to the merest conservatory student.

The program was not the most engaging Hofmann has ever given us. He did, however, give us a touch of the moderns, and arrived at a fair climax with Liszt. Hofmann understands too well the limitations of his instrument, builds grand sonority and dazzling brilliance without ever offending good taste in the matter of Liszt.

The Handel variations were truly pianistic. He made no attempt to suggest the harpsichord. His Mendelssohn had all the finesse of a miniature. One might take many exceptions to the interpretation of Schumann's "Carneval;" here Hofmann's analytic mind plays him a trick in parts, where he is so careful to clarify the counterpoint that it almost becomes an affectation. Many of his characters were downright obstreperous rather than impassioned.

The Chopin Valse was as dull a performance as anyone could expect. The Nocturne was poetic, and the Fantasy satisfied all expectations, for it was well considered in every phrase. Dvorsky is no other than Hofmann himself. I doubt whether the "Sanctuary" will be played by others with as much interest. Prokofieff's "March" is amusing as most of his works, and had a most entertaining reading. Hofmann seemed glad to play all his favorite encores, Schumann's "Warum," Chopin's "Berceuse," the "Butterfly" Etude, the "Minute Valse," and Beethoven's March from "The Ruins of Athens." He has always been the student's and teacher's delight, while the casual listener may well be astonished at the accomplishments of this one-time boy wonder who made good.

Religious Sonata On HeinrothProgram

Dr. Charles Heinroth will include in his program this evening Reubke's Sonata, "The Ninety-fourth Psalm." He terms it, "One of the most remarkable works of all musical literature, a product of a mere youth in the middle nineteenth century, yet truly original and fairly breathing the modern spirit."

The program:

Overture to "Der Freischutz".....Weber
Andante Sostenuto from "Symphonie Gothique".....Widor
Allegro Con Grazia from "Symphonie Pathetique".....Tchaikovsky
Sonata, "The Ninety-fourth Psalm".....Reubke
Rondino.....Beethoven-Kreisler
Carillon.....DeLamater
Festival March.....Miller

WELFARE DRIVE EXCITES WIDE INTEREST

Workingmen and women, as well as social leaders and capitalists are rallying to the support of the Welfare Fund of Pittsburgh in its campaign for $965,679 for Allegheny county's philanthropic needs, it developed yesterday when Chairman A. W. Robertson announced the plans for the industrial canvass. For the first time since the patriotic drives during the war, teams have been organized among the workers in stores, factories and large industrial plants to assist in the financing of the 25 social service agencies in Allegheny county.

Employes in large concerns as well as the workers in smaller groups have taken their own initiative in forming teams to conduct their own canvass for the Welfare Fund.

First among these were the employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad in the Pittsburgh district, where 15,000 men will take up the work of supporting the Welfare Fund.

Teams have beene organized among the large group in the Joseph Horne Company and have called a meeting for Monday to plan for their participation in the campaign.

Other industrial workers' bodies, including those in the H. J. Heinz Company, the Pittsburgh Railways Company and other large concerns are preparing for the canvass.

The attention of the entire country was centered on Pittsburgh's great welfare canvass last night when a dual station radio entertainment was given over WCAE and KDKA, under the sponsorship of the Welfare Fund. More than 300 artists, including prominent local musicians and vocalists, vaudeville entertainers and play folk from all of the theaters, took part. The play, "Brass Tacks," which made a pronounced hit at the opening dinner of the campaign, was repeated at a radio comedy. It was given under the direction of Mrs. Lane Thompson.

Politics Denied in M'Keesport Shakeup

There were no political reasons behind the demotion of John Brennan from chief of the McKeesport police force to a patrolman, according to Mayor George H. Lysle, who had ordered the chief demoted. Mayor Lysle said he had been dissatisfied with the conduct of the police department for several months and came to the conclusion that something was wrong. The demotion of Brennan was done entirely for the good of the department, the Mayor said.

The appointment of John J. Whalen to Brennan's former position is expected to be approved by City Council at a meeting Tuesday night.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

WHO'S WHICH

By L. LAMAR MATTHEWS

BARBARA WELLS stood in her pretty home, reading a postal card that was addressed to her husband. The card, which was signed "Aunt Katie," said:

"I am arriving in your town Tuesday and of course I am coming straight to your house. I want to see your wife and I'm longing to see my dear nephew again."

"Why on earth did she have to pick this particular time for her visit?" Barbara grumbled, "The very day that I'm entertaining!"

She remembered hearing Richard speak of his Aunt Katie.

"She's just as plain as an old shoe," he had said good-naturedly. "Ran a boarding house and sent all of her children to college."

What would aristocratic Mrs. Ashton think when she was introduced to a common place landlady—Richard's aunt?

Barbara Wells worked hard for the social position she occupied. Now she had this chance to inveigle society leaders into her home. Katherine Speake, distinguished lecturer was coming Tuesday noon. As chairman of the reception committee it was Mrs. Wells' privilege to do the honors. So she had invited Mrs. Ashton with other leading women of the city to meet the lecturer. And here was Aunt Katie inviting herself for a visit!

While she stood pondering the situation Richard came home from work.

"What's the matter, Babs?" he asked, noting the frown on his wife's face.

She handed him the card. His face lighted with pleasure. Then seeing her expression, the light faded from his eyes.

"What's the big idea?" he demanded.

"Dick, you know that Tuesday is the day that I'm entertaining for Katherine Speake. She is coming here to lecture Tuesday night. I'm giving a tea for her in the afternoon."

"Well?"

"Well," she mimicked, "How does your Aunt Katie fit into that program?"

"I see," he answered coldly. "You are ashamed for your fashionable friends to meet my aunt. All right, my dear. They won't see her at all. I'll take her out for lunch and keep her entertained until your party is over."

"Oh, Dick, you are a darling!" cried Barbara.

"You're a sweet girl with a yellow streak right down the middle of your back," he snapped as he left the room.

Tuesday came and with it the train that was to bring Mrs. Wells' guest and Mr. Wells' aunt.

Richard was standing at the car steps when Aunt Katie came from the train.

Barbara with other members of the Katherine Speake reception committee stood nearby. But without a glance in their direction Richard hurried his aunt into his automobile.

"I want you all to myself for a little while," he declared, "and I've planned a luncheon for two at the Roadside Inn."

"Good boy!" Aunt Katie answered. "You must have known what a treat it would be to get away from jabbering crowds."

Richard looked at his aunt in surprise.

"Since I've been making speeches I never have an hour with my own kith and kin," she replied.

"Speeches? Do you make speeches?" gasped Richard. "My Aunt Katie Brown?"

"Katherine Speake," she corrected laughing. "I'm a modern woman now and I use my own maiden name for lecture purposes."

Then she explained.

"About five years ago I began talking to the women in our factory district. My speeches seemed to go over and at last I was asked to go to neighboring towns and talk to the women. From that, the Department at Washington heard of me somehow, and asked me to take up some field work for them. I kept studying and thinking and making speeches, until now I'm lecturing all over the United States on all phases of women's work."

"So my Aunt Katie Brown is the celebrated Katherine Speake," Richard marveled. "Barbara would love that."

While Richard and his aunt enjoyed their leisurely luncheon a very much perturbed committee wondered and worried about their lecturer.

Mrs. Wells' tea, which was scheduled for 4 o'clock, progressed painfully—without any Katherine Speake.

Just before the last of the callers took their departure Mr. Wells arrived with his aunt. Barbara saw them coming and met them at the door.

"Aunt Katy, this is Barbara," Richard said pleasantly. Then quite formally, "Mrs. Wells may I present Mrs. Katherine Speake?"

Barbara looked confused.

"Well, who's which?" she murmured as if to herself.

Aunt Katie kissed Barbara and hurried with her into the living room.

Richard chuckling softly slipped out of the back door.

After the visitors left he came back home, where he found his wife and his aunt in the kitchen.

"I asked Barbara to let me make you some old-fashioned gingerbread while I was here," Aunt Katie declared. "I have to catch that midnight train for Washington, and this will be the last chance I'll have to do any cooking for a long time."

Aunt Katie was kneading the dough and missed the tableau behind her back.

"I am so ashamed," said Barbara's blue eyes.

"You ought to be," answered Dick's brown eyes.

Then Aunt Katie turned round with a roll of dough in her hand.

"I liked your Mrs. Ashton very much, Barbara," she said. "She and I had a nice long talk together. She seemed quite pleased to know that you are my niece. Said she was going to invite you and Dick out to her country place."

"Mrs. Ashton!" whispered Barbara, reverently.

"Dictator supreme of our whirling social world," said Richard.

"I've always noticed," continued Aunt Katie beginning to knead the gingerbread again, "that the biggest people you find anywhere are the simplest and most unpretentious."

"And now will you let that be a lesson to you?" Richard demanded looking straight into Barbara's eyes.

"I most certainly will," she answered humbly.

Then he kissed her, and slipping his arm around her drew her into the glow of Aunt Katie's beneficent smile.

Giant Passenger Plane Passes Test

BRISTOL, Pa., Nov. 10.—(A.P.)—A giant 22-passenger tri-motored transport airplane built by the Keystone Aircraft Company yesterday successfully made its first official test flight with Clarence Chamberlin and George Haldeman, trans-Atlantic fliers, as passengers.

Lieut. Edwin McReynolds, designated by the Army Air Corps to pilot the ship on the flight, reported that the big ship "handled perfectly." The plane is said to be the largest transport craft that has been built in this country.

STOLEN LOVE

by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Joan Hastings, seventeen and beautiful, lives with two old maiden aunts and one of them, Aunt Evvie, tells her of her unmarried mother's tragic love affair and death. Joan falls in love with Bill Martin, a penniless young man, and she is sent away to school. Bill, an innocent victim of a bootlegging gang, is sent to jail and Joan, begging for bail money from the aunts, confesses everything to them. She is put on a train for school in charge of a woman friend of Aunt Evvie's. Bill, freed, bids goodby to his mother, leaving no address and befriending Rollo Keyes, a rich young spender, is given a job by his father. Joan, escaping from the train, reaches his home just after he has gone. Concealing her presence from her aunts she gets a position in a department store and later works as a model in a smart shop. There Mrs. Barstow, a rich society woman, sees her, likes her and asks her to tea. She meets Curtis Barstow who immediately becomes interested in her. Joan goes to see Mrs. Martin and learns that Bill has written but has not asked for her. She thinks he no longer cares. Bill comes home and discovers that Joan is close at hand. Joan meets Bill again and discovers Ruth Gillespie, one of the girls at the shop, is deeply in love with him. Mrs. Barstow puts herself out to be nice to Joan for her son's sake. Joan becomes hysterical when Bill visits her and offers to marry her. Mrs. Barstow invites her to spend a week-end at her cottage in the mountains. When she returns, Ruth questions her about her love affair with Bill. Bill disappears after he has an argument with Rollo's dad. Joan refuses to accept Curtis after he proposes to her. Later, however, she becomes engaged to him. Curtis' mother visits Aunt Evvie and questions her about Joan. Joan constantly thinks of Bill and plans to break her engagement, but changes her mind.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

HE was so kind, so good. It would be so empty without him. Without his comforting arms, his pleasant, smiling eyes. If only there was some way of keeping him, and telling him, too . . . some way of making him understand, without hurting him. Some way that she could tell him, and stop being a hypocrite. It was so hard, being a hypocrite. So hard to suddenly stop being honest, and start being dishonest. . . . Surely he would understand. . . . Curtis, so kindly and loyal. . . .

Everyhing was so clean and fresh and big here, so warm and glowing in the sunset. Surely this was the time to tell him. While the red ball of the sun hung low over the water, and the gray shadows came nearer, blotting out the harsh, bright light of the day. This was the time . . . now. . . .

"Curtis—" She lifted up her eyes.

His face was stony. More stern and set than she had ever seen it before.

She put out her hand and touched his sleeve softly. "Curtis, are you angry? With me?"

He moved uneasily. "No, why do you ask?"

"You looked angry. It frightens me. What were you thinking about?"

"Nothing in particular."

"Yes you were. Tell me, Curtis."

"To be honest, I was thinking about Eugenia, and the particular kind of idiot she is to have that Howard girl around. I don't like it. It's an insult to the rest of you."

"Oh—" A little cry, torn out of her throat.

"Don't look so stricken, Joan! I'm not being cruel. The simple truth is that if the Howards weren't the Howards you'd all be drawing your skirts aside as she passed—all of you—"

"No, Curtis. Nobody would—"

"Oh, yes, they would, Joan. They wouldn't step on her if she weren't Connie Howard, but being Connie they shut their eyes instead—or pretend to. Rankest kind of snobbery. Injustice. I hate injustice."

"Curtis. She's so young. And her eyes are so heavy. It makes me writhe when I see her suffering, because...Oh, Curtis—understand me—please do—understand—"

He took her twisting, supplicating hands in his. "Joan, we came here because you weren't well and this thing upset you. Don't argue about it, dear. It doesn't concern us—"

"Doesn't concern us—"

"No, it doesn't. If there's one time in our lives when we can be selfish and forget other people's troubles it's now, when we're entering into our own happiness. That's life, Johnnie. Don't drag that rotten Howard affair in. Forget it. And besides I hate to hear her name on your lips. Oh, I know you're tender hearted, Johnnie, but don't let your sympathies run away with you. Don't champion her and don't make a friend of her. I don't want to see her with you—that's flat—"

"You're hard, Curtis. I'm afraid of you when you're hard—"

"Nonsense. Have I ever been hard to you?"

"No." She tried again, but without hope. Without hope of making him see.

"But you are hard towards her. We have no right to judge, Curtis, we who do not know—"

"I'm afraid her story is pretty well known," he said dryly.

"But why she did it—that's what we don't know. How do you know the love that she might have had for him? Love does things to people, Curtis. Queer, terrible things. Maybe she wasn't a bad girl, just loving him so much . . . and wanting to give and give. . . . and thinking upside down. . . all mixed up—"

She heard her own voice . . . throbbing . . . husky. . . . it had sounded like that a long time ago, when she took a boy's tanned face in her hand and kissed it and said, "I'll never be sorry—ever—" That was what love did to her. That was the way it tricked her. As it did Constance Howard . . . only people knew about Constance, and nobody knew about her, no one need ever know, unless she told. And if she did . . .

Her eyes searched his again, piteously. So hard to know what to do . . . so hard. . . .

He was looking steadily out to sea. The coldness had gone from his face. He looked tired and lonely, and a little bewildered. He did not understand.

A little rose-colored cloud on the dim mood that she had set on her hand. Another. The big white stone seemed to spread under her blurred vision, to melt into her tears.

He turned his head and saw that she was crying. "Don't," he said. And his voice was husky and throbbing as hers had been. He loved her . . . poor Curtis . . . poor Curtis . . . "Don't cry, Johnnie darling, don't let anything or anyone in the world come between us . . . Don't! Just love and trust me, Johnnie, even if we can't see everything just the same way—"

When he released her from his arms the red ball that was the sun had sunk into the sea.

"Let's go home, Curtis. I'm so cold—"

He felt her cold fingers. "Why, so you are. Why didn't you tell me?"

He raced all the way home, where they were to dine with his mother, but even then they were late.

"I telephoned Gene Laird an hour ago," Mrs. Barstow said. "I've been so worried about you. I thought you were coming directly here from there. You knew I had planned for an early dinner, Curtis."

Joan felt her displeasure, but Curtis didn't. He only laughed. "I have to have Joan to myself once in a while, don't I? When I bring her here you want to talk clothes or tea parties. Awfully satisfying to me."

They sat down at the big table with its heavy white cloth and silver candelabra and the mirror like a lake under the cut glass flower bowl. So old-fashioned. So much like the old house in Sausalito.

Joan nibbled at her food in dreamy abstraction. Mrs. Barstow was discussing the list for a big dinner with Curtis. Names. Names. All unfamiliar to Joan, and besides she was so tired, too tired to listen.

Then Mrs. Barstow's voice again, a shade more insistent. "Joan, I've asked your aunts, the Misses Van Fleet, of course. Your family must be represented."

"They won't come, they won't come!" Joan's heart sang cheerfully, in a monotonous, pleasant little tune all the while that Mrs. Barstow talked about the Misses Van Fleet, and how important it was that they should be represented at the big family dinner for Joan and Curtis.

Of course, it wasn't a family dinner at all. Outside of the Moss' and the Thompsons and the Giddings they weren't relatives, but a sort of inner circle of Barstow friends. The clan called together to look over Curtis's choice of a bride.

Joan watched the preparations nervously. "Miss Evelyn will have to be at Curtis's right, but that leaves Gladys Giddings . . . no, that won't do . . ." And through all Mrs. Barstow's murmurings, and scribbled notes, and little breathless exclamations, Joan kept repeating to herself, "They won't come, they won't come! I know they won't!"

Once she ventured, "I haven't seen my aunts since I left home. They were very angry with me. You know I ran away. They were sending me East to boarding school, and I got off the train . . . did I ever tell you that?"

Mrs. Barstow didn't remember. "You migh have, I don't know. It's quite immaterial, of course. They will come and be very charming to you, they'll have to at a time like this. I hope you won't allude to the quarrel in any way, Joan—"

"It's going to be a terrible evening." Curtis smiled. "You'll never see so many stuffy old persons gather together in one place again, Joan. Think you can stand it?"

WHEN CHILL WINDS BLOW

Drawn by Dorothy Flack

WHEN chill winds blow 'tis not the weaker sex that minds them! Not a-tall! For then's the time they know they look their best. The mischievious little winds blow and scurry 'round them whipping the roses into their cheeks and blowing the stray locks over their dancing eyes! And merrily they go their way, knowing that every eye is turned toward them and that more than one admiring glance is turned in their direction!

'Tis only the sterner sex that shiver and shake and act thoroughly miserable! They huddle their heads down into their upturned coat collars and wish to goodness that it was Summer again! But even so, they MUST turn to see all the loveliness that parades past in a devastating procession.

And Dan Cupid lurks about ordering the winds and the flurries because he knows that somehow or other he's going to benefit from these chill winds and perhaps, who knows, he may recruit two more subjects for his vast Love Army.

So here's to the winds that blow and to Little Dan who orders them about. He calmly appropriates every season to his own self and then—watches the ever-old, ever-new Game of Love.

Sayings of Mrs. Solomon

The Happy Widow

MY DAUGHTER, waste not thy pity upon the Golf Widow.

For, verily, her lot is easy, and all her ways are ways of pleasantness.

Go to. Other wives may have their sorrows and afflictions. But where GOLF is, there is sweetness and light—and a good digestion!

HELEN ROWLAND

Lo, what golfer complaineth at the ringing of the alarm clock, or waiteth to be called unto seven times seven times?

Nay, he ariseth at dawn, and sneaketh out of the house, while the family yet reposeth. He maketh his own coffee, and complaineth not. He fortifieth himself at the font within his locker, and all the world looketh rosy!

* * *

Optimism is his middle name; and, in his bright lexicon, there is no such word as "rain!"

The grouch knoweth him not; and dyspepsia is a stranger unto him. His liver worketh more beautifully than a new car, and his figure keepeth its slenderness and symmetry. Embonpoint cometh not nigh unto him.

Other men may vent their morning-after grouches upon their wives; but the golfer bloweth off the carbon of his brainstorms in the open, where it is safe. His moods and his complexes are known only to his God and caddy!

Other husbands may be full of alibis and deviousness. But the golfer confineth all his lying to boasting of his GAME, and deceiving his fellow-players. He hath no imagination left!

Yet his wife feeleth no jealousy, whatsoever his wanderings and howsoever long his absence. For she knoweth that he prefereth a pleasant day and a beautiful course, unto a moonlight night and a beautiful woman.

And a word of approval from his caddy is more thrilling unto him than the smiles of 20 sirens.

Go to. Every man hath his pet folly, whereby he worketh off the original sin within him. And some choose wine and some tobacco and some choose love and some choose poker. But GOLF exceedeth them all!

For the golfer is a son of Joy; and no man can be both a serious golf-player and a foolish husband!

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

After Theater Eats

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. When one is at a night club, what is it proper for one to order to eat?

2. How should a double-deck club sandwich be eaten? A single one?

3. When one is introducing one young man to a group of four or five girls, is it necessary to repeat his name each time?

4. How should one present one man to another?

5. What should a young lady say when she is introduced to a young man?

6. When leaving, what should the young lady say when the man says he is pleased to have met her?

7. When a couple are in a restaurant should the young lady give her order to the waiter or to her escort?

8. How should a girl thank her escort for the lovely evening he has shown her?

JUST JERRY.

IF you will be kind enough to send me an addressed envelope, I shall be happy to mail you a copy of the pamphlet that I have compiled on this "After-Theater Eats," in which I have listed everything that I could think of, from "a roll and coffee," to aristocratic foods "under glass!"

2. With a knife and fork, of a small size or of the medium size.

3. No. Say, "Miss A. Mr. Z;" "Miss B, Mr. Z;" "Miss C. Mr. Z;" "Miss D, Mr. Z." After saying the name of each girl and looking at her, look at the man whom you are presenting.

4. Mention the names: "Mr. Allinton, Mr. Lake."

5. First, dear Jerry, the girl is not introduced to the young man, for it is correct to introduce the man to the woman. And the correct thing to say, when acknowledging any introduction, is "How do you do."

6. "Thank you. It was delightfull to meet you too," or, "I am so glad to meet you, too."

7. To her escort. He is her host.

8. Just like that. "Thank you so much for the lovely evening," or "Thank you so much for such a happy time" or "You were most kind to take me to the dance, and I had a glorious time." But don't, please, use the expression, "the lovely evening that he has shown" you. This is taboo. Say, "has given" you. Promise me that you will get this expression out of your vocabulary? It is terrible!

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

A SIMPLE STYLE FOR A NEW DRESS.

A becoming collar, and the choice of long or short sleeves with suitable cuff finish are not the least of the good points of this model. It has convenient pockets, and a comfortable gathered skirt, which lends fulness and freedom in walking or running. Crepe de chine with facings in a contrasting color, or in a matched shade of satin would be nice for this. Jersey weaves, flannel, checked or plain suiting, and cotton prints are all desirable materials.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. To make the 8-year size with long sleeves will require 2¾ yards of 27-inch material together with ¾ yard of contrasting material for facing on collar, cuffs and belt. If made with short sleeves 2½ yards will be required together with the contrasting material.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

A Continuation of Love's Embers

Dicky and Madge Draw Nearer as They Watch Junior

ALL my bitter resentment against Dicky melted away at his anguished cry that if Junior went away from us it would have killed him. I realized suddenly that, terrible as was my own suspense, Dicky's suffering was even greater, for his grief and fear for his boy was added the awful feeling that if he had not permitted Junior to climb the high tree against my wishes and those of the other women in the house, the fall would not have happened.

I did not turn my eyes from the unconscious figure of my little son, for I still had the eerie feeling that I must hold him in my vision every instant until he came to himself. But I put up my hand, groping blindly for my husband's. He grasped it so tightly that it would have hurt if at that moment I had been capable of feeling pain. I tugged at his hand and he bent his head to mine.

"Don't say that!" I whispered, "It isn't true. You did what you thought was best for him."

He did not answer in words, but he sat down upon the arm of the big chair in which he had put me, and, releasing my hand for an instant, put his arm around me and drew my head back against his shoulder. Then he caught my hand again in his free one, and thus holding me tightly, kept vigil with me.

His nearness, his tenderness loosened the tension of my nerves, lessened a trifle the feeling I had that my heart was in the grasp of a vise which was slowly tightening around it. Vaguely, I felt nearer to him than I had done in years. For the moment all our differences were forgotten. We had but one thought—every faculty of mind and body was focused upon the effort to bring back our boy to himself, if only by the sheer force of united wills.

It was less than half an hour afterward that I saw Junior's eyelids twitch slightly. Katherine rose quietly from her chair and spoke in an almost inaudible murmur.

"Neither of you must speak when he opens his eyes. He won't know you at first, but he's coming round. Better stand back a little."

Dicky stood up and almost lifted me from the chair which he noiselessly pushed aside. Then he drew me back so that Katherine would not be hampered by us, but still keeping a position which permitted us to watch our little son's face.

It seemed an eternity after that first flicker of his eyelids before Junior opened his eyes wide. But as Katherine had predicted there was no recognition in his big brown eyes, so like Dicky's own. I suppose there really was no expression whatever in them, but to me it seemed that they were pathetically puzzled and searching.

I had to fight the hysterical impulse to call my boy's name. I think it was the strong steady clasp of Dicky's arms which enabled me to keep my poise. Then I saw Katherine writing something upon a slip of paper. A moment later she slipped it to me along the bedrail, below the range of Junior's eyes, and I realized the infinite pains she was taking that no sound or sight of anything should disturb him.

He could not possibly see me, however, and I read the slip and passed it to Dicky.

"You said the doctor wished to see him when he came to himself. Have somebody telephone him, but shut all doors so the call can not be heard here, or by Mother Graham. She must not come up here for a while."

Dicky read the slip of paper, nodded, went out of the room, returning again so quickly that I guessed Harry Underwood must have taken over the task of telephoning. But we heard no word of the process, nor did Dicky's mother come rushing upstairs as we knew she surely would have done if she had known that the physician had been summoned again.

I never have felt so helpless as in those minutes of watching, while my boy's eyes looked at me in dazed, unrecognizing fashion. There was nothing I could do to help him, though I felt that I gladly could have severed any member of my body in order to aid him. And never since the day that he was put into my arms after Grace Draper had kidnaped him, have I felt such a rush of grateful happiness as I did when the dazed look gradually left his eyes, and when he looked at me and murmured, "mother?"

Horoscopes

Sunday, November 11

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds promise of great activity and and powerful adventures of an enterprising and constructive nature; and while this initiative may call for some whirlwind action, with many unforeseen developments and changes, it may also result in financial hazards unless great prudence and conservative handling of funds be exercised.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of bold initiative and strenuous adventure, possibly of an unplanned nature, but unless the finances are judiciously managed and extravagance and lavish outlay avoided there may be disaster.

A child born on this day may have splendid traits of enterprise, power and resources.

Monday, November 12

MONDAY'S astrological map holds promise of recognition and reward for labor and application conscientiously performed. These favors and returns should not be nullified by a predisposition to impulse, haste and unamiable temper. In the personal afflictions there should also be fortuitous conditions, and be careful as to sudden changes.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of recognition and preferment from employers or those in authority. These advantages should not be thwarted by impulsive and rash acts or hasty words or moves.

A child born on this day may be steady, clever and accomplished in many lines and should reach responsible position.

How to Keep Well

By Royal S. Copeland, M. D.

To Be Plump or Not Depends on Your Age

MORE and more scientific study is being given the plump and thin question. For years fatness has been deplored and debated by multitudes of men and women. But now the scientists are really getting to the bottom of it.

DR. COPELAND

During the past 10 years I must have written and spoken a thousand times about the dangers of overweight. Wherever I go I hear the subject discussed. We talk about it, but what do we do to overcome it?

Here is an interesting quotation from a recent writer on the subject: "Concerning the degree of fatness or thinness which is best for human health, the scientists and physicians have more definite conclusions to announce. Dr. Morton Hahn, of Berlin, in an address to a medical audience in Vienna a few months ago, summarized what science has to say about this. The ideal weight depends, Dr. Hahn said, upon the age of the patient. For persons past middle age, Dr. Hahn concluded, the ideal thing is to be slightly underweight. Elderly persons live longer if they are thin; they die more quickly, on the average, when they are fat. On the other hand, young people do better to be somewhat overweight instead of underweight. This gives them a reserve of internal food to draw on for the extreme exertions which are more frequent when one is young; also in case of serious illness.

"According to this idea," the same writer adds, "the present cult of slimness begins at the wrong end of the community. The young girls and youths who are so careful of their figures would probably do better to think more of their resistance to disease or to fatigue."

I join in this conclusion: "On the whole, the dieting of the flappers is something that the medical profession frowns on as apt to be overdone. For grandmothers and grandfathers, indeed for anyone over 40, the prescription would be much more good. If young people were willing to be plump and old people determined to be thin, it would probably be a fine thing for national health."

Disturbances in the glands of the body, or peculiarities in their operation, have a good deal to do with whether we are plump or skinny. But upon our appetite, and its control, depends to a large extent what sort of figures we will have.

To eat everything that appeals and as much as desire dictates, seals the fate of the individual. One cannot eat ravenously and frequently without storing up a surplus.

It is a common thing to excuse indulgence of a hearty appetite by saying: "I don't intend to suffer just for the sake of being thin." But it isn't necessary to suffer. By the proper selection of foods, appetite can be fully satisfied and yet no surplus fat is accumulated.

It is only a matter of sticking to it a few days to find out that certain foods, you may have always disliked, are not so bad after all. Look into the matter and see if you cannot arrange a series of meals that will please your appetite and yet regulate your weight.

Disappointed Snooks

DEAR MISS GALE:

I've read your advice so much that I thought I would come for some advice also. I am 18 years old. I do not smoke, pet or run around. Now here is my problem: I've been going with a fellow for nearly two years. His parents do not like me at all. He'll come down and tell me about the arguments he had with his parents for coming down to see me. Then we'll go together for a while, then in a couple of weeks he'll tell me again about his parents' objections. He's done this so many times that I am heart-broken. Shall I drop this fellow or shall I go with him on the sly? Please advise me, as I love this fellow dearly. He is 21 years of age.

DISAPPOINTED SNOOKS.

This boy is treating you very badly, my dear. He is extremely thoughtless and discourteous to tell you about his parents' objections, and is apparently just trying to worry you. Why not tell him that since his parents object to you, you will not see him again. If he really likes you, he will be eager to change his ways so that you will still see him.

Lonesome Betty

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a reader of your column and would like some of your wonderful advice. Last summer on my vacation I met a very nice young man with whom I fell in love. After I came home he promised to write to me and as I never received a letter from him yet, do you think it would be all right for me to write him, as I care very much for him?

LONESOME BETTY.

It is his place to write first, my dear.

GEORGETOWN FAVORED OVER SKIBOS

PITT-W. & J. TRADITIONAL FIGHT TODAY

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

Pitt Looks Winner
Victory Not Easy
Wash-Jeff Spirit

Skibos' Tough Job
Army-Notre Dame
Defeat of Old Fitz

YEAR OF MANY GRID SURPRISES

EVEN though the comparative records of the rival teams to date would appear to indicate victory for Pitt over Washington and Jefferson in their twenty-ninth annual football meeting at the Stadium this afternoon, it does not follow by any means that the Panthers will find it possible to attain such success at any gait bearing the faintest resemblance to a romp.

Carl Aschman.

You never can tell about a modern football game. No one dreamed that the Dukes would beat the Presidents; the Navy, which had scored only once in its first four games, was not conceded the ghost of a chance to escape a slaughter at the hands of Penn; and only last Saturday another amazing upset occurred, when Michigan, after losing all of its first four games, turned in and whipped the hitherto unbeaten team of Illinois.

AND those are only three of numerous surprises that have been sprung this season, showing the uncertainty of present-day football. The Panthers themselves, it will be recalled, were figured as certain to be outclassed by Carnegie Tech and as having only a toss-up prospect against Syracuse; yet they outplayed the Skibos most of the time, lost by only one late touchdown, and beat the Orange by 18 points.

It is true that Wash-Jeff's showing this season has been below the standards established by that college on the gridiron in the past. Since their victories over Bethany and Waynesburg in the first two numbers of their 1928 program, the Presidents have not won a game. They lost to Duquesne, Carnegie and Fordham in a row and tied with Lafayette a week ago.

HOWEVER, that doesn't mean a walkover for Pitt today by any means. Against any other opponent the Red and Black may be only a football team, but when facing Pitt it is W. & J., and that spells a great difference, as on such occasions an unusual spirit is displayed that causes the Presidents to rise above their adjudged possibilities.

So it may be expected that Capt. Carl Aschman and his mates, with all their cripples of the last few weeks, recovered and back in the lineup, will give the Panthers a real fight this afternoon.

W. & J. HAS not scored against Pitt in the last three years, but in the last two seasons it also held the Blue and Gold pointless, showing that the Presidents may generally be counted upon to flash uncommon defensive strength, at least, against their old local rivals. Pitt ought to win, if the form shown against Carnegie and Syracuse is maintained, but it will not be surprising if the Panthers are forced to extend themselves to the limit for everything they may get.

Paul Liston.

CARNEGIE also has a real battle on its hands today in the clash with Georgetown at Albany, N. Y. It is a game of unusual importance as having a possible bearing upon the championship of the East for 1928, as neither team has yet been defeated nor tied.

The Georgetown machine, which has a Western Pennsylvania cog, by the way, in the person of Paul Liston, left tackle, a graduate of Washington High School, topped its previous impressive showings last Saturday by beating the powerful outfit of New York University.

IN VIEW of that achievement by Lou Little's gridders, it is clear that the Skibos will have to step on it today to get even as good as a draw and thus come out with their season's slate unmarred by defeat.

The Plaid defense, in particular, is likely to be severely tested, as Georgetown holds the distinction of being the leading scoring outfit of the year, having amassed 247 points in six games against Mt. St. Mary's, Susquehanna, Lebanon Valley, West Virginia Wesleyan and New York U., whereas only nine points have been registered by its opponents.

ONE of the outstanding games of the entire grid season, and one of the most popular of the annual fixtures, takes places in New York today when the Army and Notre Dame come to grips at the Yankee Stadium. It is supposed to be an off year for Notre Dame, whereas the Army has trounced Boston University, Southern Methodist, Providence, Harvard, Yale and DePauw in the order named without a slip. But the edge thus indicated for the Soldiers is no assurance of a one-sided affair this afternoon. Even in off years Knute Rockne's teams have been known to upset the

Hornsby to Sign Cub Contract Wednesday

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Rogers Hornsby will officially become a member of the Cubs next Wednesday when he will arrive to talk terms with President William L. Veeck. The signing, however, is only a formality as the Cubs took over the contract Hornsby had with Boston, which called for an approximate salary of $40,000 a year. It has two years to run.

Orange to Save Star Players for Colgate

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Syracuse will meet the charge of the undefeated and untied Ohio Wesleyan eleven today with a patched-up lineup. Sebo and Stevens, regular halfbacks, will be held out, and it is unlikely that either Novak or Vanness, Orange guards, will start. Coach Andreas is reserving his halfback aces for the Colgate game next week.

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

WHEN a team that has been beaten twice meets a team that has been beaten three times and played a tie, what may be expected?

In the case of Pitt, the party of the first part, and W. & J., the party of the second part, who clash in the Stadium this afternoon, it is likely that they will pull out a large crowd of the faithful to witness their annual gridiron battle. This meeting is entirely surrounded and suffused with tradition and color—and these two considerations crowd all other into the background.

Less than 15,000 persons paid to see Pitt turn in its brilliant 18-0 victory over Syracuse last Saturday, but today's crowd should be at least twice as large, and, if the weather is favorable, may be even larger than that.

PRESIDENTS STRENGTHENED

True, W. & J.'s defeats by Duquesne, Carnegie Tech and Fordham and its 13-13 deadlock with Lafayette have taken away much of the glamour from the appearance of the Red and Black, but, then, Pitt also has lost to Carnegie Tech, although it put up a great battle with the Plaid two weeks ago, and also has bowed to West Virginia, and these defeats leave an element of doubt as to the outcome today. W. & J. will have its strongest front available for the first time since its battle with Carnegie at Forbes Field, three weeks ago, having nursed Jay Douds, the eminent tackle; Capt. Carl Aschman, its center, and Morty Robinson, its star halfback, especially for this occasion.

Almost anything may happen—and usually does—when Pitt and Wash-Jeff get together. In the last two years, for instance, the elevens have battled to scoreless ties—and Pitt last year had one of its greatest teams, with Capt. Gibby Welch at the helm. It went undefeated until the post-season Tournament of Roses' game with Stanford in California on New Year's Day. W. & J., flashed a fine comeback to hold Herb McCracken's Lafayette Leopards to a 13-13 split on the latter's field last week, and, strengthened, may toss a neat suprise bombshell into the camp of the Panthers today despite the fact that Coach Sutherland's proteges looked formidable enough to whip any opponent in outclassing the Orange last Saturday.

PITT LINEUP INTACT

Pitt will start with the same lineup that has been in there for the last two games, which means that Pug Parkinson, the regular fullback, again will be on the sidelines at the opening whistle. Edwards will be at fullback and Baker at quarter, with Uansa and Williams, the yard-eating halfbacks, on the job. Parkinson's injured ribs have come along to the extent that he may be injected later, if needed. So long as things go however, Dr. Jock will stand pat on the team that looked like a world-beater a week ago. Nebraska must be met at Lincoln, Neb., next week and Penn State is on the calendar for the usual Thanksgiving Day engagement, and the Panther coach is anxious to keep intact a well-functioning machine for these tests.

The winner today will take the edge in the series between Pitt and W. & J. Each has won 13 games and the last two battles, as before noted, have resulted in no-score, dead heats. Since 1920 Pitt has won four of the meetings, W. & J. two and the other two have been ties.

With Carnegie Tech battling Georgetown at Albany, N. Y., the Pitt W. & J. battle is the chief gridiron morsel in the tri-state district this p. m. The Dukes are

NAMESAKES CLASH

CHARLEY EDWARDS

Pitt fullback and former quarterback, who will vie with W. & J.'s Edwards—Leslie E. (Bus) Edwards—in the battle between the traditional rivals at the Stadium today. Each is the best punter and passer in his team's regular backfield, and the duel between them will be the more interesting on this account. Charley hails from Moundsville, W. Va., and Bus from California, Pa.

BUS EDWARDS

Who will be the general of the Presidents against the Panthers. He has been doing heroic work against odds all season, and, with Douds and Aschman back in the Red and Black lineup today, should be able to lead his team in a bitter fight. But for the fact that the Pitt Edwards recently has been shifted to fullback, he and Bus also would be quarterback rivals today.

O. S. U., IOWA FIGHT FOR LEADERSHIP

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Two undefeated teams, Ohio State and Iowa, meet in the big Ohio horseshoe at Columbus today for the unchallenged lead of the Western Conference gridiron championship.

The loser will become an also ran and the winner will take its place as the only 1000 per cent team in the Conference, because Wisconsin, although undefeated, has a 19-19 tie game with Purdue to tarnish its record.

Three other strictly Conference games will be fought, with Purdue tangling with Northwestern at Evanston; Chicago engaging Wisconsin in one of their traditional games at Madison, and Indiana mixing with Minnesota at Minneapolis.

Michigan and Illinois will collide with non-conference enemies. The Wolverines, bolstered by their upset victory over Illinois, go to Baltimore to battle the Navy, while Illinois moves to Indianapolis to tangle with Butler in the dedication of Butler's new stadium, which, when completed, will seat 60,000.

While victory for either Ohio State or Iowa team does not necessarily mean the championship, the game at least will clear up the situation for the present. The game will be fought before a crowd of upwards of 60,000.

The edge favors Ohio State because the team scores quickly with deception and finesse, while Iowa's game is to start walloping and keep right on battling down the opposition with power, hard blocking, meanwhile waiting for a break that will enable the blond speed boy, Oran Pape, to get into the game and gallop away on one of his sensational runs.

GOALIE MILLER JOINS PIRATES

By CARL W. SHATTO.

WITH Joe Miller at goal, the Pirates will be put through their last hard drill of the training campaign on Duquesne Garden ice late today. The former Pittsburgh amateur star who is to supplant Roy Worters, suspended holdout, as the local net guardian arrived here this morning.

Miller, who first achieved stardom when a member of the P. A. A. and Pittsburgh Hornet sextets, and who performed brilliantly for the Rangers in the last world series when Chabot, the New Yorkers' regular goalie, was injured, comes to Pittsburgh from the New York Americans, but as the property of the National League and not of any particular club. It is likely that he will tend the Pittsburgh nets throughout the season, and he is a performer of such proven ability that it is not likely that Worters' absence will work any great hardship.

SEEK NEW STAR

Within a few days the Pirates may receive further reinforcement in the person of Paul Thompson, promising young wingman of the New York Rangers. Benny Leonard, owner of the local franchise, is in New York negotiating with the world champs and it is likely that Thompson will be added to the Cleghorn forces before the opening game with Boston here next Thursday night. The prospective Pirate is a rangy, rugged performer who appears to be without a weakness. To quote Manager Odie Cleghorn, he gives promise of becoming one of the league's outstanding stars within a few years. Negotiations for Thompson may not be closed until early next week.

There is no doubt but that the Pirates will be in the proverbial pink of condition for the opening league fray. Manager Cleghorn drove his charges for an hour without a letup last evening, and at the finish of the gruelling session every man appeared to be as strong as at the start. "Rail birds" watching the scrimmage, said that they never had seen a Pittsburgh team in such fine condition for a season opening.

HOLWAY A "REGULAR"

As in previous workouts, Bert McCaffery and Toots Holway, new star obtained from the Maroons, held down the defense posts in the "regular" lineup. Holway appears to have beaten out Johnny McKinnon in the race for the berth left vacant by the departure of Marty Burke, and it is about a 100-to-1 shot that he will be in the Bucs' starting lineup Thursday night. Holway did not win out without a struggle, for McKinnon is in better condition and is playing better hockey than ever before.

While the Bucs were doing their skating, Duquesne Garden attaches were busy installing 1,100 new seats at the rear of the arena. These new seats, to sell at 75 cents each, are to be reached through a new entrance off Neville street. The cutting of the "tax" is likely to result in a general increase in hockey popularity here.

Manager Cleghorn, well satisfied with the showing of the Bucs in last night's scrimmage, wore a broad smile at the conclusion of the workout, but Herb Drury, spare center, smiled not at all. Herb had his smiling apparatus somewhat damaged on Thursday when he had three troublesome teeth extracted. Teeth pulling, Herb says, is a great tonic, resulting in a general toning up of one's system.

Calza Mat Victor

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—George Calza, Italian heavyweight wrestling champion, won two out of three falls last night against Joe (Toots) Mondt, Colorado heavyweight. Mondt won the first fall in 24 minutes and 50 seconds with a double arm lock. Calza took the second in 8:40 with a headlock and the third in 2:15 with six consecutive headlocks. Both weighed 223 pounds.

Major Basketball Leagues Merge At Meeting

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—A reorganized American Basketball League will operate in professional basketball this season instead of the proposed eastern and western circuits, it was announced yesterday. After a joint conference between the holders of franchises in the old American League, which recently withdrew to the Middle West, and the National League, which was to take its place in the East, it was decided to join the two into one organization. The combined circuit will retain the name of the American Basketball League.

The league will operate teams in Chicago, Cleveland, Fort Wayne, Ind., Rochester, N. Y., New York and Brooklyn, which were in the old league. Trenton and Paterson, N. J., will be the newcomers, New York will be represented by a new team under the colors of the Hakoah Club instead of the Celtics.

John J. O'Brien, former head of the Metropolitan Basketball League, has been elected president of the new circuit.

Pitt, Tech Games To Be Broadcast

Both the Pitt-W. & J. and the Carnegie Tech—Georgetown football games today will be broadcast by radio. KDKA will be on the air with the Pitt battle from the Stadium, and KQV will broadcast the Tartan game at Albany, N. Y. Kickoff for both is at 2 o'clock.

Station WCAE will broadcast the Army-Notre Dame game from New York.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 10.—The Irish and the Scotch are ready to make a gridiron holiday for the good people of Albany. Some of the thousands who greeted Governor Al Smith upon his return to the Executive Mansion here after his defeat for the presidency, who paraded the streets of the city with tears streaming from their eyes as they escorted their Al from his train to his home, will wipe away their tears today and turn out this afternoon to see the elevens of Georgetown University and Carnegie Tech as they battle at Chadwick Stadium. This game is one of the day's football plums and Albany considers itself extremely fortunate that it is to see two of the three undefeated major elevens of the East in a death struggle.

GEORGETOWN FAVORITE

Georgetown is here with the aid of Chick Meehan's New York University eleven dangling from its belt while Carnegie lays claim to great greatness while pointing to triumphs over Wash-Jeff and Pitt. Old Georgetown has been installed a slight favorite in the wagering. This is a condition that is causing Lou Little much worry. No coach likes to be on the long end. The boys here are willing to risk their coin to the extent of odds of 10 to 7 and 10 to 8 on the Irish. These are tremendous odds for a game like this one threatens to become. Despite Georgetown's triumph over New York, the Hilltoppers do not appear to be that much stronger than the Tartans.

The game threatens to develop into a battle of lines. Tech, with a heavy, though inexperienced forward wall, will be ripping away at a fast, hard-hitting, smart and well-veteranized Georgetown weapon.

Coach Waddell, of Tech, plans to start the same line that went into the game against Pitt, with Tony Sweet and Ted Rosenzweig at the ends, Len Schnupp and Highberger at the tackles, John Dreshear and Don Lovewell at guards and Saul Meilziner at center. On the Georgetown line will be found Ken Provincial and Tomanini at ends, Mooney,

ALFRED COPS TITLE

ALFRED, N. Y., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Alfred University harriers romped to their third consecutive New York Conference title over a four-mile course here yesterday. Hamilton was second, Hobart third and Rochester fourth. Wilbur Getz, Lock Haven, Pa., Purple captain, won the individual title in 24:35.

AHLETE IS ELECTED

LAWRENCE, Kas., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Bernard (Poco) Frazier, track and cross country captain at the University of Kansas, was elected constable of Wakarusa township in Tuesday's election. Frazier also tied with another candidate for justice of peace.

YOUNGWOOD HI DEDICATES FIELD

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

YOUNGWOOD, Pa., Nov. 10.—Youngwood High School football stars dedicated their new football field with a defeat yesterday, but the local team was the victor in one sense. The undefeated Hurst High team achieved a 20-to-14 triumph over the Youngwood gridders in a thrilling tussle that featured both clubs in an aggressive fight, the home boys holding a lead as late as the final quarter.

The seating capacity of the new field was taxed to capacity and hundreds stood on the sidelines as the evenly matched clubs fought it out. Hurst winning in the fourth quarter when it scored the last touchdown of the game. The invading host appeared to outweigh the home gridders and the superior strength told at the finish.

Youngwood, coached by Bus Wesbecher, former Wash-Jeff star, and Hurst, coached by Alva Pershing, late of Lafayette, showed the benefits of the expert instruction they have had from the two stars of the sport. The lineup:

Hurst—20.		Youngwood—14.
Byers	L. E.	K. Clawson
E. Ahlhorn	L. T.	Crusan
Bronson	L. G.	Miller
Brown	C.	Orner
Staub	R. G.	Weaver
Croffey	R. T.	Colonna
McPhaill	R. E.	Hackley
Dzuroff	Q.	Prinkey
Lewis	L. H.	Charlesworth
Snyder	R. H.	C. Clawson
Seni	F.	Wilkenson

Score by periods:

Hurst	7	6	0	7—20
Youngwood	7	0	7	0—14

Substitutions: Hurst—Smith for Dzuroff, Kromer for Snyder, Staub for Smith, Youngwood—Lemon for Tice, Tice for Colonna, Sassig for Wilkenson, Sullivan for Hackley, Steiner for Weaver, Zink for Clawson. Touchdowns—Lewis 2, Dzuroff, Colonna, Hackley. Points after touchdown—Seni 2, Prinkey 2. Referee—McCallum, Leechburg. Umpire—Gensamer, Rutgers. Head linesman—Henderson, Pitt. Time of quarters—12 minutes.

CARNEGIE

the kicking star, and Liston, a former Washington (Pa.) boy, at the tackles; Capt. Jerry Carroll and the hefty Cordoyano at the guards and either Wynkoop or Morris at center. The former is the likely choice to start.

HARPSTER TO LEAD ATTACK

Capt. Howard Harpster and his educated toe and accurate arm will lead the attack of the Tartans. He'll pass as usual, punt as usual, and run the club as usual, and if they get the ball down on the goal line he'll likely dive through the center of the line for the touchdown he has set himself to score in each game.

Letzelter, the reformed fullback, will be at one of the Tech halves. Gleen Moorhead is slated to start at the other, though Dutch Eyth may get a last-minute call. John Karcis, the 235-pound battering ram, will be at fullback.

Lou Little plans to start Steve Barabas at full and Duplin at quarter, with his two midgets, Bozek and Shupak, at the halves. These two lads looked pretty good in the Georgetown drill yesterday. They are light, but are extremely fast, and have been very prominent in the Hilltoppers' attack in games this fall.

The local gridiron is not so hot. It is part baseball diamond and part outfield, very uneven and in spots very rough. As it is laid out, the team defending the eastern goal is certain to be at a great disadvantage early in the afternoon, for the sun streams over the western stands squarely into the eyes of the players.

The team with its back to the sun will have a splendid chance to get away with some forward passing, as it will be extremely difficult to break up any sort of aerial play under such conditions.

CROWD UNCERTAIN

The stadium will hold about 17,000 fans. The advance sale has been shaky, there having been less than 6,000 seats sold up until late last night. Albany folk tell me, however, that the town is unfamiliar with this football racket and think that the idea is to buy the ducats when you arrive at the ball park, like one does for baseball. The backers of the game, the owners of the Albany Eastern League baseball club, are hoping to put this game across, and if they are successful, will bring a major game to this city each week in 1929. Georgetown and Tech have been guaranteed $17,500 each for this game. Seats are selling at $3.50 a throw, which is a pretty stiff price to toss in the benign faces of the uninitiated of football.

Dex Very, well known in Pittsburgh, has been named to referee the tussle. Dave Fultz, of Brown, will be umpire. G. N. Bankart, of Dartmouth, is the head linesman and J. J. Buckholt, of Holy Cross, the field judge.

The kickoff, for those of you Pittsburghers who wish to hop an airplane to make an eleventh hour assault on the ticket booths here, is scheduled for 2 p. m.—sharp.

KERR FAVORS TECH

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 10.—If playing conditions are favorable, Coach Andy Kerr of Wash-Jeff favors Carnegie Tech to defeat Georgetown in their game at Albany, N. Y., today. He asserts that the Georgetown attack against New York U. was disappointing, and predicts that Capt. Harpster of Carnegie will find Georgetown weakness and take advantage of them.

Kerr believes the Army-Notre Dame game will be close, but thinks the Cadets should win. Penn and Harvard are evenly matched, he says, with the breaks likely to decide the issue. Kerr picks the Navy to beat Michigan, Ohio to defeat Iowa, Wisconsin to win from Chicago, Northwestern to down Purdue, Nebraska to trim Oklahoma, Dartmouth to humble Brown, and Minnesota to lower Indiana's colors.

Kerr considers the Fordham-Boston College game an even affair, and figures Syracuse in for a possible surprise against Ohio Wesleyan, unless the Orange team is near the top of its form. Princeton, he thinks, should have an easy time with Washington and Lee, while he declares the Maryland game will be but good preparation for Yale before meeting Princeton. Kerr is of the opinion that Pitt should rate a big favorite over his own team, W. & J.

not scheduled and will look on from the grandstand as the guests of the Pitt management likely visioning the day, in the not distant future, when they will be recognized to the extent that they will be given a place on the Pitt card as well as on that of W. & J. Kickoff is at 2 p. m.

W. VA. PLAYS AGGIES

West Virginia University entertains the Oklahoma Aggies at Morgantown, on top of its 17-0 conquest of Lafayette last Saturday and 18-0 triumph over Fordham in New York last Tuesday. These Mountaineers are good, and have been ever since Davis & Elkins bumped them off in the opening game, 7-0. The Aggies figure to be just another victim, although the redoubtable Eddie Stumpp will be missing from his quarterback berth for the Mountaineers.

Waynesburg and Grove City will give the fans on Monongahela a treat today, clashing at the high school field in that city. The Grovers are undefeated in this section and have practically clinched the minor college title of the tri-state district. Waynesburg has yet to win a game, but owns a tie with the big Bethany eleven and has been showing improved form in recent games.

St. Francis, another unbeaten eleven, will attempt to make life miserable for Sam Henderson's D. & E. Scarlet Hurricane at Cumberland. Thiel happy over the tie with Allegheny last Saturday, invades Buffalo today to face St. Canisius.

Geneva and Allegheny have an idle afternoon in store. The Covenanters and Methodists meet in an Armistice Day battle at Reeves Stadium, Beaver Falls, Monday. The Geneva Freshmen play at St. Vincent's College at Latrobe today.

ONE CONFERENCE BATTLE

Bethany and Westminster, both well scarred from defeats, have a Tri-State-Conference game on tap at Bethany today. The United Presbyterians remain the lone stone in the path of Geneva in its chase for another Conference championship. The Bisons, despite a 34-0 setback at the hands of Salem a week ago, figure to give the Blue and White a hard afternoon.

Penn State meets George Washington University at State College and Herb McCracken's Lafayette eleven plays Rutgers at New Brunswick, N. J.

West Virginia Wesleyan battles Salem College at Clarksburg, W. Va., Monday, and so rest up today.

AFTER GAME IN EAST

The Duquesne board of strategy is visiting New York to see Army and Notre Dame in action. Elmer Layden, Robert Reagan and Graduate Manager John D. Holahan left in Holahan's car yesterday. While in New York Holahan will discuss business with an eastern college he has on the string for next year's schedule. He is hoping to open negotiations with more than one club and will give out the results on his return. The Duke schedule is pretty nearly filled and only a few dates remain.

BIG GAMES IN EAST

Harvard Tackles Penn, Navy Meets Wolverines, Army-Notre Dame Battle.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—All along the eastern football battle line today, from Cambridge, where Harvard takes on Penn, to Baltimore, where Navy wages intersectional war upon the Wolverines of Michigan, the big things of the season are at hand.

The biggest single assemble totaling some $6,000 will be found filling the Yankee Stadium in New York, where the annual extravaganza between Notre Dame and the Army holds an added attraction this year in the question as to whether Rockne's comparatively unimpressive team can check the all-conquering Army's winning streak.

On its merits as a football game alone, the battle between the undefeated and untied legions of Georgetown and Carnegie Tech at Albany, N. Y., ranks with the best.

The nearest thing to a favorite in these four outstanding games is the Army, which conquered Notre Dame last season, but over a period of years has found the Rockne eleven hard to beat.

In the other three games there is no favorite. There is little to choose between the records of the Navy and Michigan, which have lost three and four games, respectively, but the braces shown by the Middies in beating Penn and by the Wolverines in trimming Illinois gave assurance that the football will come close to the standard of past years in quality.

DARTMOUTH PLAYS BROWN

Two more games that look like tossups are those between Dartmouth and Brown at Hanover and between Pittsburgh and Washington and Jefferson at Pittsburgh. Over a period of years few rivalries have been more closely fought.

The Dartmouth-Brown embroglio finds Dartmouth a little ahead with 11 victories to 10 and one game a tie since they began to play football in 1894.

Yale and Princeton take it easy in preparation for their classic battle next week at Tigertown. The Royal Bengals tackle Washington and Lee today, while Yale sharpens its fighting edge in a game with Maryland.

Syracuse, too, is pointing for a big game next Saturday with its ancient rival, Colgate. The Orange may have its hands full against unbeaten Ohio Wesleyan, which last year held the Orange to a tie. The Colgate foe is Hobart.

Another game of note is that between Villa Nova, which shares with the Army, Georgetown, Carnegie and Boston College, the honor of being unbeaten and untied, and Temple. Boston College rests in preparation for a game with Fordham Monday.

Saylor Wins on Foul From Lee at Erie

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Young Saylor, Pittsburgh, won on a foul from Canada Lee, New York, in the sixth round of a 10-round bout here last night.

Johnny Kusic, Youngstown, O., outpointed Eddie Ruttman, Akron, O., in six.

Honeyboy Shimar, Williamsport, fought a six-round draw with Joe Louder, Pittsburgh.

Cliff Becker, Jamestown, N. Y., won by a technical knockout over Kid Brown, Conneaut, O., in the second round.

CARD COMPLETE FOR MONDAY'S RING SHOW

The card is complete for the boxing show at Motor Square Garden Monday night, consisting of a 10-round windup, an eight-round semi-final, one six-round bout and two opening four-rounders. It is well balanced and should provide plenty of fighting action.

Young Rudy, of Charleroi, gets his first chance to star in a Pittsburgh show when he answers the gong against Eddie (Kid) Wagner, veteran Jewish star, of Philadelphia, in the 10-round main bout. Two newcomers here, Henry Firpo, of Louisville, and Frankie Palmo, of Cincinnati, middleweights, clash in the semi-final. The six-rounder will be between Tug Phillips, of Fayette City, and Young Tiger Flowers, Negro welterweight.

In the four-rounders, Young Guido, of Sharon, opposes Georgie Peck, of the North Side, and Frankie Lanz, of Sharpsburg, meets Frank Mason of Braddock.

Andy Stahura, of Braddock, and Battling Glazy, of Donora, box the 10-round windup of an Armistice Day boxing matinee under the auspices of the American Legion at Windber this afternoon. Bobby Burns, of Swissvale, and Johnny Chiodo, of Johnstown, will meet in the semi-final.

Al Fay, of Charleroi, brother of Ray and Harry Fay, boxing under the management of Jack Kearns, meets Wild Jim Griffin in a 10-round preliminary to the George LaRocco-Tiger Payne bout in New York tonight. Pat Freeman and Billy J. Sullivan, young heavies, clash in Cincinnati.

Promoter Jim McGirr has clinched a match between Howard Mayberry, of Donora, and Eddie O'Dowd, of Columbus, for his 10-round windup next Thursday night.

Speaking of Sports

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

ONE of the best stories told about the late Arnold Rothstein, who died the other day, the victim of an assassin's bullet, has to do with his coming to the rescue of Anne Nichols when the latter was on the rocks with her "Abie's Irish Rose" show, which subsequently piled up a fortune.

Miss Nichols was desperate for financial assistance and tried in many quarters to obtain help. Among others who were asked to buy an interest in the venture was Tex Rickard. He declined on the ground that he didn't know anything about the theatrical business and never had felt any inclination to be what is commonly known as an "angel," or one who stakes a show. He thus did himself out of a chance to make a cleanup on a small investment.

Finally, Miss Nichols went to Rothstein, the notorious gambler. He listened to her tale of woe and wrote out a check for $10,000. Full of gratitude, Miss Nichols said that when her show became a success, which she was certain it would be, Rothstein would be cut in for a "piece" of it. Fighting shy, Arnold waved aside the very thought.

"Not me," he is reputed to have declared. "I don't want to have anything to do with any theatrical enterprise. What do you think I am, a gambler?"

Rothstein was accused of pulling many a sharp trick in the sporting world to achieve a betting coup and none of the charges ever bothered him much with the exception of one. That was to the effect that he had had something to do with accomplishing the only defeat of Man o' War, the great thoroughbred, by Upset.

That one burned him up and he took the trouble to deny it.

"Don't let anybody ever tell you I fixed that race," he told newspapermen on one occasion. "Man o' War was my idol. I used to go to the track especially to see him run. I got a kick out of him. Put the fix on him? Not me. Say I'd give plenty to see him run again. There was a RACE horse!"

CARNEGIE TECH will have its eyes peeled for a gent wearing a jinx number in its battle with Georgetown at Albany, N. Y., today. That fellow is No. 13, who goes by the odd name of Provincial. He plays left end and weighs 173 pounds and is a ball hawk. He ruined New York University last Saturday by picking up a fumble on his 13-yard line and scampering 87 yards for the only touchdown of the game in the first quarter. And throughout the remainder of the battle he was in evidence every moment. N. Y. U. couldn't keep him out of the plays. He smeared end runs, tackled men behind the line of scrimmage and harrassed the kickers and passers. Teddy Rosenewig, the Tech right end, will start against him today.

Yale lost money during the last fiscal year on a net athletic income of $348,549.10. The Flis should have had Dempsey instead of Tunney lecture on Shakespeare. Rickard lost money on Gene, too.

WHEN Leland Stanford's eleven bowed, 10-0, to Southern California, last Saturday, Howard Jones, the U. S. C. coach, a brother of Tad, the former Yale mentor, scored his first victory in five starts against teams coached by Pop Warner. He had lost three times and tied once.

Jones has been coaching for 20 years, at Syracuse, Yale, Ohio State, Iowa, Duke and Southern California, and has beaten every leading veteran coach with the exception of A. A. Stagg, of Chicago.

News reports telling of the transfer of Rogers Hornsby from the Boston Braves to the Chicago Cubs, credit William L. Veeck, president of the Chicago Club, with giving up some $200,000 and five players in exchange for the Rajah, but the great price, although a record-breaker, was only a small fraction of the fruits of the loyalty and enthusiasm of the Chicago fans.

Whether or not any professional team is a brilliant success or a dull dud depends, in the final analysis, upon the fans. Big business men become big by turning profits into the business which produced them, and major league baseball is one big business which owes much of its amazing growth to this practice.

HAD the increase in the Braves' payroll burden which the acquisition of Hornsby entailed been answered with a corresponding increase in baseball interest in the Hub, the Rajah undoubtedly would have remained in Boston. But Boston fans failed to meet the first installment due on their diamond gem, and so it is not surprising that Rogers has been shipped to the home of fans who have paid in full and in advance.

The Cubs have not won a pennant in recent years, but the baseball interest in Chicago, measured by attendance figures, has been greater than in any other National League city. Chicago fans have made it possible for the club to pay big prices for stars and have evinced a willingness to support the stars. If the Cubs win the pennant in 1929 they will do so for fans who are more than deserving of it.

No games tonight.

Eichenmiller, of Crookston's, set down Mackin, of Clarke's, 45 to 28, while Greenwood, of Ellis, was taking over Pitfield, of Dimling's, in the Pittsburgh Three-Cushion Billiard League last night. There are no games slated for tonight.

DELANEY HURT, SLATTERY GO IS OFF

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Jack Delaney has suffered a sprained shoulder and will be unable to go through with his bout with Jimmy Slattery, of Buffalo, set for Madison Square Garden November 30.

Joe Jacobs, Delaney's manager, said Delaney had suffered the injury while hunting near his New Hampshire camp. The "kick" from a gun floored Delaney, according to Jacobs, and the former light-heavyweight champion landed on his right shoulder, injuring it severely. Delaney will be unable to fight for six weeks.

Tigers Sign McBride To Assist Harris

DETROIT, Nov. 10. — (INS.) — George McBride, who was one of Ty Cobb's assistants when the famous Georgian was in charge of the Tigers, yesterday was signed as one of Stanley Harris' assistants for next season.

McBride formerly played shortstop for the Washington Senators and is an efficient coach. He will assist Harris in developing his infield.

DOUGLAS PLAYS CELTICS

TODAY'S GAMES.

DISTRICT LEAGUE.

Douglas at Celtics.
Swissvale at Pittsburgh.
Rovers at Twin Boroughs.

SCHOLASTIC LEAGUE.

Patterson at Carnegie Smilers.
Rover Juniors at Thistles.
Roger Cubs at Langley.
Castle Shannon at Westinghouse.

WEST PENN JUNIOR CUP.

Thoms Run at Jeannette.

By TOM BIRKS.

As the leading loop in the section, the District League will stage several games today. Clan Douglas at Celtics will be the Lawrence Park attraction. Swissvale again will show its stuff at Homewood and, seeing that these two clubs will possibly provide the winner of the league, a good game should ensue. The Pittsburgh Rovers will travel to Twin Boroughs and the Strip aggregation should cop the points involved.

The Scholastic League again will offer a full schedule of games, and seeing that the high school boys are finding real form, some games worth while should result.

Jeannette once more swings back into the soccer limelight today. The Jeannette team will entertain Thoma Run. Some years ago Jeannette was quite a power in local soccer when practically all of the Madison stars went to the Rubber Town. This might be their comeback.

dope many a time, and the Irish are apt to prove a tougher foe this afternoon than many of the dopesters have tipped them to be. The whole complexion of the contest will hinge on whether or not Rockne's defense is able to stop Christy Cagle, the sensational Army star, whose remarkable work against other teams this fall has caused him to be hailed as a second Red Grange.

Christy Cagle.

IT IS related by C. E. McBride of Kansas City that Capt. Hamilton of the Oklahoma eleven approached an official during the game with Iowa State at Ames. He was steering one of his players by an arm, "May I call the coach in," the Sooner captain said, "I wish to make a substitution." Ad Lindsay, coach of Oklahoma, came in. "I can't remember the signals, coach," said the sturdy Kitchell, quarterback of the Oklahomans, the player in question.

"What's the trouble?" Lindsay asked. "Guess I got a bump on the head," Kitchell replied. "I feel all right but I just can't remember a signal" and he smiled a wan smile as he spoke. Coach Lindsay, of course, took the player to the side line. Kitchell had been "signalless" since making a hard tackle a few minutes before his departure from the game. Later the Oklahoman quarter got his bearings and returned to the lineup.

THE opinion expressed by William Muldoon, New York boxing commissioner, that Jim Jeffries had purposely pulled one of his gloves loose near the end of his 25-round bout with Tom Sharkey, in order to get a rest, and that he should have been given only a draw, brought up another story involving Jeffries. This was told by Jeff's trainer, Billy Delaney, immediately after the Californian had beaten Bob Fitzsimmons for the title.

Putting all he had into a fearful left hand swing Fitz landed on Jeffries' jaw bone, just below the right ear, in the ninth round. The Californian reeled and clutched the ropes. A second later the gong ended the round, and he tumbled helplessly into his chair. "Jeffries wanted to quit then and there," said Delaney, "but I wouldn't let him. I persuaded him to continue, and Fitz, who was all in physically, was knocked out in the eleventh.

Bob Fitzsimmons.

"DID John L. Sullivan have a real fighting heart?" Commissioner Muldoon, who knew the Boston slugger like a book, was asked. "Sullivan was a great fighter when he felt sure of winning," Muldoon replied. "But if things went against him in any round he always became just a little bit worried. Jack Sharkey might have been a champion if he had the fighting spirit of Jack Dempsey. When he knocked out Maloney a year ago last summer he looked like a fine prospect. In the first two rounds of his bout with Dempsey, Sharkey fought like a champion, but he didn't have the right kind of heart to carry on."

Intersectional Grid Menu Not to Yale's Liking

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—The Yale Alumni Weekly said today that Yale will not open its doors to "intersection" football, because the team next fall will go to Georgia to play at the opening of the stadium at University of Georgia.

"What we should object to and expect the majority of Yale men would be with us against, would be the inauguration by Yale of 'intersectional' football as a regular thing," the Weekly said.

"Yale's policy is to permit out-of-town appearances within reason, provided such engagements do not interfere with the college work of the participants.

"The university is not at all interested in matching its football teams with leaders in other sections of the country for the purpose of seeing which type of game is the better. The sport is played for the good of the undergraduates and not the public, however friendly that public may be."

Woman Denies Hiring Smith Worker

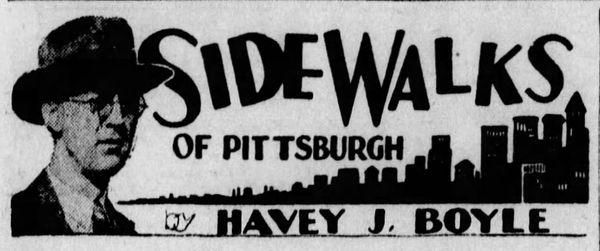
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1928

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH



By HAVEY J. BOYLE

READERS of newspapers published in the smaller towns are more often entertained with feuds between rival owners than is the general case in large cities. The country editors for a long time considered their journalism as a very personal affair. The faults of the opposition, or fancied vices, were fair game for the rival editor to exploit with trenchant pen. And while occasionally an editorial bomb is still thrown at the opposition among the small-town editors, the practice is not so general as it used to be.

The last figure in a Western Pennsylvania feud died the other day in Johnstown. He was "W. W." Bailey, editor of the Johnstown Democrat. Just a year ago the other figure in the Johnstown feud died, Anderson R. Walters, editor of the Johnstown Tribune. Besides being rival newspaper owners they were rivals as political leaders. Each opposed the other many times as candidate for Congress. Each had served in Congress, with Mr. Walters having served the longer period.

OF OPPOSITE political faiths and of opposing journalistic dogma, readers of those two Johnstown newspapers were privileged to hear quite frequently the opinions of the owner of one paper concerning the owner of the rival newspaper.

The editorial shafts, however, would have misled the average observer to believe that such a feud was a bitterly personal affair. Strangely, it wasn't. Outside of the political and journalistic arena they were good friends, each holding a certain admiration for the other, a fact, however, that seldom, if ever, found the light of type.

PROMINENT men coming to visit Mr. Walters in Johnstown would be taken over to Mr. Bailey's to be made acquainted. And vice versa. But this in no way interfered with sly digs at each other in the midst of a political campaign or in other matters where their newspaper policies differed.

In one of their political battles the election was so close that the House of Representatives had to make a decision in the contest, with Mr. Walters winning that time.

Cambria county residents and other Western Pennsylvanians who used to follow the progress of the Walters-Bailey feud will hear with regret of the passing of Mr. Bailey.

THE small-town feuds were far more impersonal than in the larger cities, probably because onlooking neutrals "kidded" the feudists. City newspapermen have their loyalties to their particular paper, but they fraternize freely.

Sometimes on rival sporting pages the insiders know that a sentence or two is not intended for the general public, but for a dissenting scribe on another paper, but these instances are few and far between.

Strangely, while it is a small-town proposition generally, in New York, the largest city in the country and the capital of American journalism, the omniverous newspaper reader will find that the big-time columnists have quite a time of it slamming each other around.

BURNED OUT FAMILY TO GET HOME

The family of John Adams, World War veteran, is to have a home-coming tomorrow. The youngest child, Junior, aged 3, will be brought back to the family hearth from a temporary home on the North Side.

Flames 10 days ago left the family destitute after destroying all its possessions in the little apartment at 319 Cedarville street.

The home-coming is to take place in new quarters in the rear of 429 Pearl street, where the mother, Mrs. Margaret Adams, and two other children, Dorothy, 8, and Johanna, 10, now live. The father is a patient at the United States Marine Hospital, but it is understood he will visit with his family when Junior is returned.

The family's new home has been furnished by a downtown furniture store, with beds, dresser, washstand, table, chairs, linoleum, stove and carpets. Friends, known and unknown, have contributed bedclothes, dishes and clothing.

Mrs. Adams is the sole support of the family.

WILKINSBURG HOME AFIRE

The home of O. L. Bartlett at 1937 Penn avenue, Wilkinsburg, was damaged $700 by fire which occurred while members of the family were absent late yesterday. A pet dog left in the house by the family was rescued by firemen. The house is a three-story frame structure. The fire originated in the basement and spread through a clothes chute to the roof.

WOMEN OF BETH SHALOM PLANNING DANCE

MRS. GOODSTONE MRS. ROSENBERG MRS. SILVERBLATT

Officers of the general committee arranging for the Beth Shalom Sisterhood's annual dance have announced the affair for next Wednesday night at Webster Hall. The officers are: Mrs. M. J. Goodstone, president; Mrs. J. Rosenberg, general chairman; Mrs. H. Silverblatt, vice chairman; Mrs. I. Lincoff, ticket vice chairman; Mrs. H. Elinoff, refreshment chairman. Other members of the committee are Mrs. M. Lewis, Mrs. A. R. Kletz, Mrs. I. Skirboll, Mrs. A. Azen, Mrs. M. Goldstein and Mrs. J. Braemer.

SAYS SHE VOTED FOR G. O. P.

Miss G. G. Trill, of 439 South Aiken avenue, who was said to have refused to pay a Smith worker during the presidential campaign, today revealed that she had voted the straight Republican ticket. She denied that she ever made any arrangement to pay anything to anybody for campaign work.

Charges had been filed before Justice of the Peace George Shields, of Wilkinsburg, by Eugene Heltary, of 339 Ladson street, who accused Miss Trill of conspiracy and Mrs. Margaret R. Metz, 138 Stratford avenue, of conspiracy and false pretense. He said they had agreed to pay him $2,000 for organizing the Hungarian vote of Western Pennsylvania for Smith. The cases were to have been heard last night, but were postponed until Tuesday.

Miss Trill said her knowledge of the trouble was extremely limited. She and Mrs. Metz shared the same downtown office, into which, she said, came Heltary with his campaign plans. Mrs. Metz, she said, shared in the Smith enthusiasm. Miss Trill said she understood Mrs. Metz paid about and agreed to communicate with national Democratic headquarters.

A short time later a reply came back from the national headquarters, referring Mrs. Metz to the state Democratic headquarters. Mrs. Metz dropped the matter there, Miss Trill said, not even taking the letter to the state headquarters. Miss Trill said she knew of no arrangement for the payment of $2,000 to Heltary. She believes her name was placed in the information made because it appeared jointly on the office lease.

RESENTS KICK, ASKS DIVORCE

Injured so badly by a kick on the spine which she says was administered by her husband and will result in an operation, Margaret C. Gilchrist, 805 Hazelwood avenue, has asked Judge Thomas D. Carnahan, of Common Pleas Court, to divorce her from James Reymer Gilchrist. Her husband was always humiliating her in front of others, she testified. The kick administered by her husband, she told the court, laid her up in bed for several weeks. On another occasion her husband choked her and told her he would kill her if he could get away with it. Mrs. Gilchrist is 26, was married in 1924 and left her husband in December of 1926, she said, because of his treatment.

PLAN BENEFIT PLAYLET

Rehearsals are being held by members of the Swissvale Philanthropic Society, who are to appear in "The Old Homestead," a play to be produced November 22 and 23 for the purpose of raising money to be applied to charitable work. The presentation will be held in the Swissvale High School auditorium. The play committee reports that the cast is doing exceptionally good work.

At the recent election held by the organization, Mrs. G. B. Tomilson was elected president. Mrs. J. R. Dierst was named first vice president, and Mrs. Carl Smith elected second vice president. Mrs. J. F. Sanderson, Jr., and Mrs. G. A. Norris were named secretary and treasurer, respectively. The directors are Mrs. S. N. Smith, Mrs. G. Seitz and Mrs. R. Fowler.

Truck Kills Husband, Asks $15,000 Damage

Florence Marnik, whose husband, Stanislaw Marnik, was killed August 7 last when he was run down by a truck of the Hermes Groves Dairy Company, has brought suit for $15,000 damages. Mrs. Marnik, who lives at 1302 Muriel street, is the mother of three children. Marnik was struck while crossing Penn avenue at Tenth street and Cabot way. Attorney O. K. Eaton represents the plaintiff.

I. O. S. D. Installs Officers Sunday

Officers of the Grand Lodge of the Independent Order Sons of David will install officers of the Henry Shermer Lodge of Braddock Sunday afternoon at ceremonies in the Eagles' lodge room. The local organization was formed only recently and its officers were selected by the grand lodge. The local officers are: Joseph Shermer, president; Jerome Steinitz, vice president; Hyman Gershunt, secretary; Amanuel Lazear, prelate; William Berkowitz, guard, and Dr. E. Schachter, medical examiner. M. Kostman and S. J. Klein, grand master and secretary of the grand lodge, will be in charge of the services.

Supported Husband Granted Divorce

Pretty Gertrude L. Whitmore, 506 Third street, Breckenridge, has been granted a divorce from Ralph A. Whitmore, whom she told Judge Thomas J. Ford had never given her any money during their married life. Judge Ford asked the libellant who had kept him all the time and Mrs. Whitmore said she had supplied the money, as she worked every day. Mrs. Whitmore, a stenographer, was married in 1926 and deserted the same year.

N. Braddock School To Hold Art Exhibit

The students and faculty of Scott High School, North Braddock, will hold an art exhibition beginning next Wednesday in effort to raise funds to purchase pictures for the school building. Reproductions of famous paintings, color prints and carbon photographs will be on display daily from three until 9:30 o'clock in the school auditorium. H. G. Means, supervising principal, and John W. Cameron, high school principal, will be in charge.

FUND STARTED FOR KIN OF EDGEWOOD POLICE CHIEF

The family of Police Chief John L. Nye, who was killed Monday after many years of service in Edgewood borough, will not be in want, a fund having already been started for them by community leaders. Immediately after funeral services were held Thursday, a group of citizens met and appointed a committee to raise funds to care for the chief's wife and children.

The borough officials say that they cannot lawfully give financial aid but they have endorsed the appeal which will be made to every resident of the borough. The money will be deposited with the Swissvale Trust Company and the fund will be administered as may be decided on by the committee.

The appeal, which extoles the 16 years' service of Mr. Nye, is signed by the committee of which A. L. Humphrey is chairman. Other members of the body are Dr. Adolph Koenig, United States Attorney John D. Meyer, Sidney J. Watts, John F. Miller, R. C. McElfish, O. E. Craig, John S. Dailey and Burgess W. D. Stewart. W. D. Bowers, of the Swissvale Bank, will act as treasurer.

EAST END CHURCHES PLAN ARMISTICE DAY PROGRAMS

A special missionary rally will be held tomorrow in St. Andrew's Lutheran Church, Center and Morewood avenues, with an address on "China and Our Missions," by the Rev. Max Zschiegner, missionary to China. The Rev. Zschiegner recently returned to this country on a furlough after spending seven years in China.

The Peacock meetings being held at Second United Presbyterian Church, Negley and Stanton avenues, have been growing steadily in interest and attendance since they opened two weeks ago. At the morning service tomorrow, Dr. Peacock speaks on "Dwelling In the Secret Place of the Most High." His evening subject will be "What It Means to Be a Christian." The services will continue throughout the coming week.

ARMISTICE DAY SERVICES

Armistice Day services will be held in the majority of the churches in the East End district tomorrow. At the First Evangelical Church, Center avenue and Graham street, the pastor, the Rev. Norman C. Milliron, speaks at the morning service at 11 o'clock on "The World War, Ten Years After." He also speaks at the evening service.

An Armistice Day sermon will be given by the Rev. Homer C. Renton, pastor Oakland Methodist Episcopal Church, Forbes and Boquet streets, tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. In the evening at 8 o'clock the Rev. Renton preaches on "Conscience."

"What Is There In Religion?" is the Rev. J. L. Fisher's sermon theme tomorrow evening at the Central Christian Church, Dithridge street, near Fifth avenue. He speaks at the morning service at 11 o'clock on "The Law of the Tithe."

The Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr, pastor, Shadyside Presbyterian Church, speaks tomorrow morning at 10:45 o'clock on "Ten Years After the Armistice" and in the afternoon at 5 o'clock on "Baptized for the Dead." Special music will be presented at both services.

The theme of the children's sermon tomorrow morning at the Sixth Presbyterian Church, Forbes street and Murray avenue, will be "Soldiers of Peace." The regular morning sermon subject is "Lest Ye Forget," and will follow the children's sermon. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. Henry H. Forsyth, also preaches at the evening service at 8 o'clock.

MRS. CLEMSON SINGS

Mrs. Christine Miller Clemson sings at the special Armistice Day service tomorrow evening in Point Breeze Presbyterian Church, Fifth and Penn avenues. The pastor, the Rev. Dr. Percival H. Barker, gives a patriotic sermon on "Because I Love America." At the morning service Dr. Barker speaks on "Keeping Faith With Our Soldiers."

The Rev. Dr. W. E. Howard, pastor, McCandless Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, preaches tomorrow evening on "Ten Years Afterward." Members of the W. Ralph McNulty Post Veterans of Foreign Wars will attend.

"World Peace" is the sermon subject of the Rev. W. E. Allen, pastor, Lemington Presbyterian Church, Vassar street, tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. His evening theme is "The Best Robe."

The Rev. Dr. William J. Reid, pastor, First United Presbyterian Church, Fifth avenue and Trackery street, preaches tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock on "A Better Use For Swords." "Seeing Light" is his topic for the evening sermon at 8 o'clock.

At the Church of the Brethren, Greenfield avenue, the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Galen B. Royer, preaches tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock on "The Cup of Blessings."

A patriotic service will be held at Hazelwood Christian Church, Glen Caladh and Gertrude streets, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. The Rev. George D. Massey, pastor, speaks at this service as well as at the morning service, when his sermon theme will be "The Unending War."

A program appropriate for Armistice Day will be held at South Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church, Wilkinsburg, tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, when the pastor, the Rev. Sheridan Watson Bell, speaks on "Ten Years After the Armistice." The Rev. Bell speaks in the evening at 7:45 o'clock on "Dogma and Deed."

MUSICAL PROGRAM

A special musical program will be presented by the quartet of First Presbyterian Church, of Wilkinsburg, tomorrow evening at 7:45 o'clock. The sermon themes of the Rev. Dr. George Taylor, Jr., pastor, will be "The Progress of Peace and "Wherein Lies the Destructive Power of Sins?"

At St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Wilkinsburg, the Rev. Dr. William Porkess, pastor, will preach at the morning service on "Imitation" and at the evening service on "A Neglected Missionary Weapon."

The Rev. Dr. Albert E. Day, pastor, Christ Methodist Episcopal Church, preaches the second of a series of sermons on "Prayer" tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock. His theme will be "Prayer, Science and Personality." In connection with the morning service there will also be a brief ritual of remembrance for Armistice Day. Dr. Day begins a new series of sermons in the evening on "Conquest of Fear."

An Armistice Day address will be given tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock at Edgewood Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Waldo Lloyd, pastor, speaks tomorrow evening at 7:45 o'clock on "Journeys in Bible Lands."

Returns Purse When He Finds Rosary

A purse containing a dime and a Rosary was all the loot obtained by a youth who, early today, snatched the purse from Mrs. Julia Scott, of 136 Forty-fifth street. Either disgusted with the small gain or conscience stricken, the thief followed the woman home and returned her possessions.

The robbery occurred in Fortieth street, near Davidson street, and the youth fled into the darkness with the purse. Five minutes after she had reached home Mrs. Scott heard a knock on the door. When she opened the door she found the purse hanging to the knob, the contents safe.

HURT IN TAXI ASKS $50,000

Harriett J. Pointer, 5626 Rural street, injured in an automobile collision September 4 last, has brought suit against Ernest M. Neidberger for $50,000 damages. The accident occurred at Baum boulevard and Millvale avenue, the taxicab in which she was riding, being run into by the Neidberger car. She claims through her counsel Walter L. Dipple, that she was hurt about the back, hips, and head.

Will Hold Window Dressing Contest

A window dressing contest, to open Saturday, December 8, will be sponsored by the East Liberty Chamber of Commerce for residents of the East End section and East Liberty merchants. Hundreds of prizes will be awarded business men having the most attractive and novel window displays catering to the Christmas trade, and to those who enter the contest. The details will be announced later, Manager A. Patrick Flood, of the Chamber, said yesterday.

Fall Kills Husband, Wife Asks $20,000

Because her husband fell into a ditch and was killed, Mrs. Elizabeth Yuhasz, of Duquesne, has brought suit against the Fort Pitt Construction Company through her counsel, Marshall & Marshall, for $20,000 damages. She claims that John Yuhasz lost his life because he fell into a hole dug by the defendants. She claims they were negligent in not taking proper precautions to avoid accidents.

Declares Wife Cruel, Sues for Divorce

Ralph E. Moser, 340 South Highland avenue, has brought an action in divorce against Sarah Fern Moser, charging her with cruel and barbarous treatment. They were married in 1912.

Will Rogers Says

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 10.

When the editorial writers get all through analyzing all the various reasons for Smith's defeat, religion, prohibition, Tammany, brown hats, prosperity, wisecracks, Raskobs and all the rest of them, maybe one of them will accidentally hit on the real reason, a Democrat.

Hoover would have beat Coolidge, if Coolidge had been running on the Democratic ticket.

While in Northampton, Mass., the other day to vote Mr. Coolidge found a house that rented for $32 a month, and took it. He is not only a President, but a detective.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

Stock Tug-of-War Is Fierce; Views Clash Very Sharply.

By B. C. FORBES

THE "Hoover bull market," which optimists proclaimed was bound to come, started off furiously in the first hour of business on the morning after the election. Since the, there have been ups and downs. Opinion is just as sharply divided today as it was before the election as to what will happen in Wall Street. The bulls continue bullish. The bears continue bearish. Among the latter are nearly all responsible bankers.

The fierce speculative tug-of-war, involving record-breaking dealings, thus is still on, without conclusive indication of which way the battle will go during the next two months. Wisdom councils keeping in such a position that you will not be caught badly whichever way things go.

THE 1,100 membership of the New York Stock Exchange should be increased.

WALL STREET contributes the next lieutenant-governor of the state of New York, Herbert H. Lehman. He is an excellent type of citizen, able, educated, wealthy, public-spirited, charitable, humane. The investment house of which he is a partner, Lehman Brothers, has built up an enviable reputation for honorable dealings and for sound judgment. Many of its followers have made a great deal of money by participating in 'ts underwritings.

Wall Street is not a bit afraid that this representative from its midst will not give a successful account of himself in high public office.

WALL STREET guessed the presidential election result accurately.

OWEN D. YOUNG, recently visioned the day when labor will be the employer of capital and capital the employe of labor. In other words, he looked ahead approvingly to the time when those who actually run a business enterprise, who do all the work, will be the real bosses, the real controllers, the real owners.

Comes the announcement that a company doing $75,000,000 worth of business a year is to pass into the hands of its employes as the sole controllers. This company 's Graybar Electric, heretofore owned and controlled by Western Electric.

"The ownership of the company will be in the hands of the Graybar management corporation which was recently organized to enable the officers and other employes of the Graybar Electric Company to purchase the business," states Edgar S. Bloom, president of Western Electric.

The capital will consist of $3,000,000 of common voting stock and $6,000,000 non-voting preferred stock. The entire common voting stock will be owned by the employes, who will be given the option of purchasing the stock outright for cash or by annual instalments for five years or by payments of $2 per share per month deducted from salary.

A. L. Salt will continue as president of Graybar, which is the largest distributor of electrical supplies in the world, employing some 600 salesmen, operating more than 70 distributing houses, and dealing with more than 35,000 customers. The catalog covering the items handled consists of over 1,200 pages.

This is an extremely significant development. In my opinion, it will prove the forerunner of many other similar developments within the next few years. Managers and other employes of successful enterprises are becoming better able to purchase shares, and it is only logical to look for a rapid expansion of employe-ownership, even to the extent of majority or outright ownership and control.

CHARLES M. SCHWAB was quoted here recently as urging upon employers the importance of paying greater attention to "human engineering." J. F. Wright, Detroit, writes:

"You will be glad to know that there is an organization here known as 'human engineers,' teaching what we call 'human engineering, or reading the price tags of life.' For 15 years we have worked with men and women in prison and for the past seven years have been working with children from the fourth to the twelfth grades, inclusive, in public, private and parochial schools. So far as we know, we are the only outside organization in the world that has ever been invited or permitted to go into public, private and parochial schools during school hours and discuss morals. F three years we demonstrated this work in New York schools. We have two classes in Rome, Itrly, and six in Smyrna, Turkey, and we find that we get the same action and reaction in all parts of the world, proving that human nature is much the same."

IT'S A long lane that has no turning.

Pennsylvania Crude Raised.

The Joseph Seep Agency, Standard Oil purchasing unit in this territory has advanced the price it will pay for Pennsylvania crude oil 15 cents a barrel. The new prices are: Pennsylvania grade in New York Transit lines, $3.60, up 15 cents; Bradford district in National Transit lines, $3.60, up 1 cents; Pennsylvania grade in National Transit lines, $3.50, up 15 cents; Pennsylvania grade in Southwest Pennsylvania lines, $3.50, up 15 cents; Pennsylvania grade in Eureka Pipe lines, $3.40, up 15 cents; Pennsylvania grade in Buckeye Pipe lines, $3.25, up 15 cents. This is the fifth advance in Pennsylvania crude this year. The present price of $3.60 for top grade is 20 cents above the high of 1927 and 95 cents above last year's low of $2.65. In 1926 the high price was $3.90 a barrel, 30 cents above the present price, and the low was $3.15. The low for this year was $2.80 a barrel, having been in effect from December 15, last, to June 13. Bradford crude sold as high as $4.50 a barrel in January, 1924, and the low previous to last year was $2.85 in August, 1924.

Inactivity in Steel Scrap.

The steel scrap market continues inactive here. Heavy melting steel scrap No. 1 is quoted $17.25 to $17.75. Quotations are now $17.25 to $17.75, compared with $18 a short time ago. Consumption continues heavy, but some mills are fairly well supplied for several weeks, according to Daily Metal Trade.

Finished Steel Stronger.

The advance in price of sheet bats from $34 to $34 presages a general mark up in finished steel. Already new buying is stimulated by the prospective increase in rolled steel prices. It is expected steel mills will move up on an average of $2 to $3 a ton for the first quarter. Heavier buying at prevailing levels therefore is predicted over the remainder of the present quarter.

Valley Outlook Bright.

The steel industry in the Mahoning Valley looks like it is in for an active first quarter. Republic Iron and Steel has 9 out of 13 open hearths in its melting at its Youngstown plants, against the entire 13 two weeks ago. Some of these furnaces, however, are down for repairs and relining.

Trade Scope Widening.

Dun's weekly trade review says: The outburst of great speculative activity that followed the national election has had no counterpart in strictly commercial movements, although the buoyant tone of general trade and of sentiment reveals a further strengthening. Exceptions to that trend are by no means completely absent, yet their influence is more than offset by the wholesome progress that is occurring in a widening circle of business enterprises. Plans for the future expansion of operations also are engaging closer attention, and the composite outlook, with allowance made for the unsatisfactory features which still prevail, is such as to stimulate confidence. One phase that recently has attained a larger prominence and significance is the more advantageous position of some of the weaker industrial units, particularly in certain markets where the level of quotations has for a long time left either a small margin over costs or where the difference has been so silent as to be practically imperceptible. Weekly bank clearings, $10,605,329,000, an increase of 17.6 per cent over a year ago.

Stocks Rush Up — Produce—Live Stock

BOOM SEEN IN UTILITY LINES

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

MORE rapid development of the utility companies in the future is seen by many investment bankers. That the stocks of utility companies which have been lagging behind the industrials in the recent upward movements may show increases in value more comparable with other investments is also being considered as a possibility.

The election of Herbert Hoover with increased Republican strength in Congress is the development underlying these predictions. Smith's attitude on government ownership of the power companies was regarded with alarm by many.

But the election eliminated the possibility of government interference in the power industry and gave the country a president with both business and engineering experience. This is interpreted as an indication that no monkey wrenches will be thrown into the development machinery of the power industry.

ONE large investment house in a bulletin to its personnel says: "Signalizing the expectation of freedom from onerous government interference for the next four years, utility stocks have been in the past two days (to November 8) the strongest group on the stock list and we expect the general tone of the public utility list to continue stronger than normal for some time to come, until the ground they have lost, comparatively with the industrial section of the list is made up.

"The normal growth of the country in terms of consumption of the necessities of life, is figured roughly at 12 per cent per annum. The light and power industry is now growing at the rate of about 10.8 per cent per annum, and disinterested authorities expect continuance of this rate for many years to come. The business, itself, is as steady as the business of providing food and clothing, and has the additional advantage of being free from price fluctuations. During the past year the public utility business has been undervalued. It seems to be coming into its own."

THE expectation for future growth in power demand in Pittsburgh can be seen in the expansion plans of the Duquesne Light Company. The present installed generating capacity of the company is 381,000 kilowatts. The initial unit of the James H. Reed plant on which work is just starting will be 60,000 kilowatts with provision made for the addition of more units to provide 300,000 kilowatts for further growth in the future. Thus the Reed plant will eventually double Duquesne Light's capacity.

In the twelve months ended September 30, the company showed gross revenues which were 5.9 per cent greater than in the corresponding preceding twelve months. The connected load on September 30, was 8.4 per cent greater than a year ago, and the generating capacity 27.4 per cent greater.

If the predicted growth in the power industry materializes this will ultimately be reflected in increased earnings for copper companies. The wave of electrification which appears to be gaining momentum will also add to greater copper consumption. The $10,000,000 electrification program of the Pennsylvania Railroad is the most sensational development of this kind but there are hundreds of less widely advertised project by which power is replacing steam in every industry.

STOCKS DASH UP 1 TO 18 POINTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The "Hoover Market" moved higher today under a tremendous accumulation of buying orders in the oil, motor and railroad shares. A few soft spots cropped out here and there as a result of heavy week-end profit taking sales, but gains in the most active issues ran from one to 18 points. Radio corporation common soared 18 points to 268.

Railroad shares assumed increasing prominence as a long line of investment and speculative issues were accumulated by large and small operators. Canadian Pacific ran up to 75¾ points to 233, Union Pacific moved up 4 points to 220¾ and St. Louis Southwestern climbed 4 points to 266, all new high records, while Jersey Central, Atlantic Coast Line and Chesapeake and Ohio advanced 3 points or more. Although September earnings were somewhat disappointing, the increase of car loadings since that time, coupled with operating economies, led to hopes of a much better showing in the last quarter of the year.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Bullish aspects of the government crop report did much to send corn prices higher early today and other grain kept company. With buying active, March and May deliveries of corn could season high price records established only the day before. Opening at ¼c to ⅝c gain, corn later advanced a little more. Wheat started unchanged to ⅛c up and afterward was moderately all around. Oats also were firmer. Provisions, too, tilted upward.

Notable strength developed at times in the corn market today as a result of official figures showing that farm reserve stocks of corn are the smallest with one exception in 20 years. Talk was also current that the early grading of the new crop will not force movement of corn to market on account of poor keeping qualities, and that holding of corn by growers on account of expected agricultural relief measures at Washington will thus be intensified.

Assertions were likewise heard today that as a result of early ice of the 1928 corn crop beginning four weeks ahead of normal, as much as 125,000,000 bushels of new corn have been disposed of before the season for corn drying started. On today's price bulges, however, the corn market ran into selling on resting orders, and reactions were numerous.

WAGNER DENIES RUM PLOT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Senator Robert F. Wagner, of New York, denied as a "terrible outrage" the allegation of a prohibition agent in a prohibition case in New York City that he had "fixed" enforcement agents to secure protection for a restaurant.

John J. Mitchell, a prohibition agent, in testifying in a prohibition violation case against Luigi Cardi, the restaurant proprietor, mentioned the Senator's name as having been cited by a waiter in the establishment as a person who secured protection for serving of liquor.

"It was a complete falsehood," Senator Wagner declared. "It is a terrible outrage as I never heard of the restaurant people nor the restaurant.

"It is unthinkable that such a statement should be made and it is an absolute lie and manufactured out of whole cloth. Of course it is ridiculous in its nature to think that I should be implicated in such a charge."

Senator Wagner added that he planned to ask the Senate when it convenes to investigate the repetition of "hearsay gossip by witnesses in the courts," especially in prohibition cases. "I believe there was politics behind this," he said.

SCRANTON 1ST IN EISTEDDFOD

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Hyde Park Choir of Scranton, directed by Luther Bassett, was the victor in the main competition of the opening day of the National Eisteddfod here. Before an audience of 4,000 that jammed the Ninth Regiment Armory, the Scranton choir received the award for the mixed choir competition in which its contestants were the Sheldon Choral Society of Wilkes-Barre and the Plymouth Community Choir.

It was close between Hyde Park and Sheldon, each being given tremendous ovations as they completed their tests. The adjucators were Dr. Daniel Protheroe, of Chicago; Dr. Hollis Dann, of New York City, and Prof. L. Powell Evans, of Atlantic City, N. J. Dr. Dann in announcing the adjudication declared all three choirs were credits to their communities.

Ohio Miner Crushed Under Fall of Rock

DOVER, O., Nov. 10.—Henry Botts, 35, unmarried miner, was crushed to death when a rock fell on him while working in a coal mine on the Zoar road, three miles north of here. The victim is a member of Botts Brothers, East Palestine clothiers.

PRODUCE MARKET

Movement of fruit and vegetables at the local wholesale produce district was liberal today and the quotations were about unchanged.

Poultry supplies were nominal, with the demand fair, market about steady and quotations unchanged.

Eggs and cheese were steady and butter was firm. No change was made in the quotations on these markets.

Car lot supplies were heavy, a total of 798 cars being on track. Arrivals included 23 cars of apples, 1 cabbages, 2 cantaloupes, 2 celery, 45 grapes, 1 lemons, 6 lettuce, 3 onions, 5 oranges, 2 spinach, 24 potatoes, 1 sweet potatoes, 4 tomatoes, 3 cauliflower and 1 cranberries.

ONLY A FEW DAYS LEFT TO WIN $1,000 AD PRIZE

The names of the winners of the 586 prizes awarded by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph for the best advertisements by amateur writers, submitted during the sixth period of the $15,000 Zain Ad Test, will be announced tomorrow. Specimens of the prize-winning ads will be published Monday.

The sixth period expired last Wednesday night. First prize for the period is $100 in cash.

The seventh and final period of the fascinating test is now under way, with a grand prize of $1,000 in cash to be won. If the winning ad should chance to deal with the business of a certain company—one of the 39 about which the advertisements must be written—the lucky person will receive, in addition to $1,000 from the Sun-Telegraph, a credit of $1,000 on the purchase of property from the company. Another firm offers a $500 merchandise prize as an inducment to write about its business. There are many other special awards.

You will find elsewhere on this page a list of the 39 local business concerns about which the ads must be written. You must write of their business as a whole or about their products or services. You will also find on this page the rules for the test and the list of special prizes.

To be eligible for the $1,000 prize you must have written at least one ad about each of the 39 participating firms and, if you have already written about them all, but have not won a $100 prize (including the one to be announced tomorrow), you should send in some more ads. All ads must be in the office of the Sun-Telegraph not later than Thursday night, November 15, at midnight.

As professional advertisement writers and newspaper employes are not admitted to the test, and as you are not expected to know anything about the technical aspects of advertising, you will have as good a chance to win a prize as any other inexperienced writer.

You may write your ad as a simple statement, a phrase, slogan, jingle, letter, essay or story. The thousand dollars will be paid for the idea, and it is possible that you may express it very briefly—in just a few words.

You should make yourself thoroughly acquainted with the stores and business of the 39 co-operating firms. Learn their selling points. Study their commodities. You can do this best by visiting their stores and asking questions. All will be glad to help you with suggestions.

In writing about the Union Savings Bank, Frick Building, you will do well to emphasize its tremendous resources, which serve to protect depositors. You might call attention to the strength of its board of directors, made up, as it is, of the foremost business men and capitalists of Pittsburgh. Call at the Union Savings Bank, "where savings are safe," and learn how to promote thrift.

You should write two ads about the Stevenson and Foster Company, 421-27 Seventh avenue—one about their business as printers, and the other about their business as stationers and dealers in office supplies. Visit the store; for in no other way can you get an adequate idea of the variety and superior quality of the goods carried, which include blank books, fountain pens, envelopes and a multitude of other things.

The music stores of the S. Hamilton Company, at 815-817 Liberty avenue, 6008 Penn avenue, East Liberty, and 723 Wood street, Wilkinsburgh, will repay a visit, because of the interesting things you will see and learn. With modern devices such as Hamilton's carry-radios, phonographs and mechanical pianos—everyone can have the best of music in their homes whenever it is desired. Hamilton's also supply the needs of those who prefer to play their own music.

Write each ad on a separate sheet of paper, which should be at least as large as a postal card, preferably commercial letter size. Put your name and address on the back of each sheet and also on the flap of the envelope in which you mail them. SEND THE ADS TO THE ZAIN AD-WRITING TEST, CARE OF THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH, PITTSBURGH, PA.

PROBERS INDICT SECOND PHILA. LEGISLATOR

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—Another Republican ward leader and member of the state Legislature has been indicted on evidence unearthed by the special grand jury investigating bootlegging and police corruption.

William B. Smith, in 29 counts, is charged with extortion, maintaining a gambling house and conducting an illegal lottery. Mark Johnson, a Negro, had testified to the grand jury that he and Smith had been partners in a lottery known as the "number game."

Smith is the second Republican leader indicted in the graft inquiry here. The first, Matthew Patterson, sentenced to five years in the county prison, has an appeal pending.

Both Smith and Patterson were re-elected to the Legislature last Tuesday.

District Attorney Monaghan said today that good progress was being made in clearing up the mystery surrounding the 15 accounts in which more than $10,000,000 was deposited in the Union Bank and Trust Company under fictitious names. This money is believed by the prosecutor to have belonged to rum runners.

Revelations of the grand jury appear to have little effect on the gangsters, the murder of two of whom brought about the inquiry. In two days gangsters' guns have claimed two victims, one of whom is likely to die.

The latest victim, as yet unidentified, was shot down on a street corner last night by occupants of an automobile. Varying their usual practice, the gunmen halted their car, lifted their quarry aboard and sped away, leaving the police no clue except the wounded man's pistol, picked up where he fell. How badly he was hurt remains a mystery.

Freedom Man Held As Hit-Run Driver

ROCHESTER, Pa., Nov. 10.—Walter Anderson, 1415 Fourth avenue, Freedom, was held for court at a joint hearing and coroner's inquest held here in connection with the death of Sebastian Camerata, Italian, 27, alleged to have been struck by an automobile driven by Anderson. Charges of failure to stop and render assistance and involuntary manslaughter were preferred against Anderson. Bond fixed at $2,000 by Justice of the Peace W. A. Wehr was posted by Anderson's mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary Mengel.

Fay King Tells Her Ambitions, Recognizing Her Limitations

ONE OF MY GREAT AMBITIONS WAS TO BE A CIRCUS RIDER BUT THE HORSES WERE MORE SCARED OF ME THAN I WAS OF THEM!
ANOTHER AMBITION OF MINE WAS TO FLOAT AROUND IN ONE OF THOSE TANGLY-TEAGOWNS
FAY KING
AND OH! TO BE ONE OF THOSE DEVASTATING BLONDES!

By FAY KING

MY FIRST ambition was to be one of those glorious creatures that careens around a circus arena.

I came near realizing that ambition, too. My boss owned a circus as well as a newspaper—and he let me appear in both. But when I wanted to give up the paper for the circus, he fired me from the circus.

I never see a graceful actress sweeping across the stage in one of those mervelous chiffony tea gowns but what my ambition to do likewise springs up anew.

But being a hopeless nitwit who catches the narrow sleeve of a woolen bath robe on every doorknob, I'll never be able to romp around in a bolt of chiffon even if I had the floor space.

EDMUND BLAIR MISS SARAH LEWIS C. T. JOHNSON

These well-known advertising experts judged the ads submitted by amateur writers during the sixth period of the $15,000 Zain Ad-Test and selected the 586 winners, whose names will be announced tomorrow. The judges were Edmund Blair, of the Blair Company; Miss Sarah Lewis, of the A. P. Hill Agency, and C. T. Johnson, of the Farrah Agency.

GIRARD HEN IS CHAMPION

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Leading Lady, trapnested hen No. 380, belonging to Theodore Wirtanen, of Girard, has completed what sets a United States year's record, according to County Work Farm Agent Paul S. Crossman, of Erie county, with 347 eggs to her credit. This white leghorn is exceeded by a Canadian hen with a record of 348 eggs and an Australian hen with 353 eggs. The hen commenced laying as a 6-months-old pullet and established an unequaled record of 175 eggs in 175 days. Her weight yesterday at the close of the year's record was 4 pounds and 14 ounces, or 6 ounces more than the standard of the breed. During the 10 months of her laying period, her eggs averaged 24 ounces to the dozen, standard weight.

ALLEGHENY GENERAL FUND MAY BE $100,000 OVER

A memorial gift by graduate nurses establishing the assembly room in the new nurses' home as Alumnae Hall, a gift of $60,000 from the Pennsylvania Railroad and scores of new memorials featured the closing meeting of the Allegheny General Hospital campaign yesterday. Auditors today were checking the results, reporting that the fund probably will pass the $5,000,000 mark by $100,000 or more.

The nurses' organization, under the leadership of Miss W. Emma Scheidemann, some time ago undertook to raise at least $25,000 to establish a memorial either in the hospital or in the nurses' home which is to stand in the rear of the new structure on North avenue. At their first gathering they raised $17,000 and through a special committee, headed by Mrs. Joseph T. Flynn, have brought the fund past the $25,000 goal originally set. The assembly room will give graduate nurses a permanent meeting-place, while the new nurses' home as a whole will offer recreational facilities for graduates and students, as well as finer living quarters for those nurses to be housed in it.

For the best ad written about their firm this period, the HARRIS AMUSEMENT COMPANY will give a private box of 11 seats at the Sheridan Square Theater. For the second best ad a private box at the Harris Theater, and for the third best ad a block of 12 seats at the Harris South Hills Theater, Dormont.

For the best ad written about stationery and office supplies during the seventh period the STEVENSON & FOSTER COMPANY will give $10 worth of merchandise, to be selected by the winner at their stationery store. For the best ad on printing for this period, the STEVENSON & FOSTER COMPANY will give $10 worth of merchandise. This selection may be made from Christmas gift stock, fancy or general stationery, or greeting cards.

THE HALLER BAKING COMPANY will give one five-pound Haller's Holiday Fruit Cake, in a decorated metal box, to the person writing the best ad about their firm during the last week of the Zain Ad-Test. For the five next best ads Haller Baking Company offer a book of 10 tickets of Haller's Special Family Bread to each winner.

THE MAUSOLEUM CONSTRUCTION COMPANY will give a single compartment on the foyer floor of their Mausoleum to the winner of the $1,000 prize if the prize-winning ad is written about the Mount Royal Memorial Mausoleum.

2 AVALANCHES KILL 3, HURT 4

SEATTLE, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Two avalanches at the Great Northern tunnel under construction in the Cascade mountains east of here killed three men and injured four, one seriously, it was learned when the injured arrived at a Seattle hospital, yesterday.

The dead, Gus Thomas, 30, Kellogg, Ida, mucker boss; Peter Kobich, 30, Denver, Colo., laborer; J. S. Roberts, 47, address unknown, laborer.

The injured—Andrew Wilson, 20, Leer, Mich., internal injuries, condition serious; G. P. Smith, 26, Denver, serious cuts and bruises; Barney Ray, Waverly, O., severe cuts; Joseph O'Neill, 19, address unknown, cuts and bruises.

FOUR HELD IN SHOOTING

Four men were held for court last night by Justice of the Peace E. W. Dickson, of Coraopolis, accused of participating in a shooting at Glen Willard two weeks ago. Jack Gray, 48, of Madison, Fla., shot in the head during the battle, was ordered held under $1,000 bond, and Joseph Somers, 40, of 1204 Fayette street; George Dumas, of Cleveland, and Rufus Howe, 35, of Coraopolis, held under $1,500 bond. Dumas and Howe are Negroes.

Rebuild Church Burned After G.O.P. Meet

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—B. G. Vorhees, chairman of the Republican State Committee of Missouri, announced last night that the committee had forwarded a check for $1,500 to the congregation of a Negro church in Pemiscot County, Maryland, to rebuild its church destroyed by fire.

A Republican rally was held at the church last week at which Walter Lathen, St. Louis Negro, spoke. Later that night bullets were fired into his room, but he was uninjured. Shortly afterward the burning church was discovered. Feeling ran high in the county and two federal agents were sent there to prevent an outbreak.

SMITH TO RADIO NATION-WIDE MESSAGE

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Gov. Smith will deliver "a message to the American people" over a nation-wide radio hookup Tuesday night.

Announcement of the address was made by Democratic national headquarters, but no one professed to know what its nature would be. A statement the Governor made at Albany in a conference with reporters led many to believe that it would be non-partisan and made in an attempt to heal the wounds left by the political campaign.

"Every man, when elected to office," the Governor said, "is entitled to a full, fair chance to make good, and Mr. Hoover should have every assistance from every citizen."

The Governor's first thought last Tuesday night, one of his close political advisors said, was not how the defeat affected him personally nor primarily how it would affect his party, but how the bitterness engendered in the campaign might be dispelled.

In a way, the talk probable will be the Governor's political valedictory to the people. He announced after his defeat that he would never run for public office again.

UNIDENTIFIED MAN KILLED

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Kanawha county authorities are endeavoring to identify a man struck and fatally injured here today by an automobile driven by Dr. John A. McClifter, of the Marshall College faculty.

The man was struck when he stepped into the path of the automobile as it was being driven to the Marshall College-New River State School football game. He died in a Charleston hospital without regaining consciousness.

McClifter, after the accident, reported to a justice of the peace court and with his companion, Dr. M. P. Shawkey, president of Marshall College as his surety, furnished bond for future appearance in connection with the accident.

Weather Conditions.

Cloudy weather is general east of the Mississippi River and it is raining or snowing in Western Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia. The skies are mostly clear over the Plains states and the southwest, and cloudy and rainy over the far Northwest.

A ridge of high pressure extends from the Lake region southwest to Arizona, and there is a high over the Middle Atlantic coast. Separating these high pressure areas is relatively low pressure extending from Florida northward over West Virginia and Ohio to Canada. The barometer is also low over the Northwest. There is no cold weather on the map this morning; the temperature over all the northern states ranges between 32 and 40 degrees.

River Conditions.

The rivers are practically stationary at low stages. Stage at Pittsburgh is 10.6 feet; Dam No. 2, 8.4, and Dams No. 6, 7.6. The dams are up.

FOX CHAPEL RESIDENTS PLAN MODEL COMMUNITY

They're going to shoo the automobile petters and the debris-littering tourists from Fox Chapel communities. "They" are residents and property owners of the district and they have organized into the Fox Chapel District Association. A charter for the new organization is now on file in the prothonotary's office.

The shooing, however, is secondary to the prime purposes of the association, which the by-laws set forth as follows: To preserve the natural beauties of the Fox Chapel district; encourage, foster and promote, as well as safeguard, restrict and protect its development and improvement; promote the civic betterment and general welfare of its inhabitants in any and every lawful manner, and to make it an ideal district in which to live.

The Fox Chapel district lies at the back of Aspinwall and includes portions of Indiana, O'Hara, Harmar and Hampton townships. Within the district boundaries are numerous public and private enterprises of note, including the Shadyside Academy, the Rogers' Aviation Field, the Fox Chapel Club, the Pittsburgh Hunt Club and the Pittsburgh Field Club.

The association, it is pointed out, in addition to the facilities of the various townships involved, will maintain private police and fire departments.

Farmers of the district are co-operating with the association in the carrying out of its purposes.

One of the scenic show places of the district is the Darlington estate, known as Guyasuta Run, which has been set aside as a bird preserve and a Boy Scout reservation.

Ralph E. Flinn is president of the association. Other officers are I. F. Lehman and George C. Campbell, vice presidents; Herbert G. Lytle, secretary, and F. LeMoyne Page, treasurer. All of these men are permanent residents in the district. Arthur Van Buskirk is the association's attorney.

FUNERAL RITES FOR 2 FLIERS

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Funeral services for Capt. C. B. D. Collyer, who was killed with Harry Tucker last Saturday night when the monoplane Yankee Doodle crashed in Arizona, were held yesterday at the Brick Presbyterian Church, on Fifth avenue. Burial will be in Arlington National cemetery today.

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Funeral services were held yesterday for Harry Tucker, millionaire sportman and aviation enthusiast, who was killed Saturday night in the crash of the record-breaking monoplane Yankee Doodle in the Bradshaw mountains, near Prescott, Ariz.

Tucker's mangled body was cremated at Phoenix, and the funeral services, held at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Sarah Johnston, were private and simple.

The Yankee Doodle, carrying Tucker as a passenger, and Capt. C. B. D. Collyer as pilot, was attempting a non-stop record flight from Los Angeles to New York when the plane crashed due to motor trouble and a blinding rain storm.

FRENCH VISITOR DEPARTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Maj. Georges Scapini, war-blinded member of the French Chamber of Deputies, who represented France at the American Legion convention in San Antonio last month, sailed for home early today on the liner Carmania.

The veteran, who had expected to remain in America to participate in Armistice Day observances, explained that he felt it his duty to return at once because of the French cabinet crisis. Before sailing he expressed his thanks to the American Legion, the American government and people for his reception. Among those at the pier to bid him farewell was Edward E. Spafford, former national commander of the American Legion.

SHOT, MOTHER OF 7 DIES

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Mrs. Jennie Rizzo, 46, mother of seven children, died yesterday from bullet wounds inflicted last September by Louis Russo, a boarder in the Rizzo home, when she refused to elope with him to Italy.

Mrs. Rizzo repeatedly had repulsed the boarder's advances. On September 21, he again begged her to go with him to claim an inheritance in Italy. Enraged at her refusal, he shot her four times and then killed himself.

TRAPPED UNDER STEAM SHOVEL

Caught beneath a steam shovel when it toppled over while moving out of an excavation at 7315 Frankstown avenue, Westly Oglesby, 14, of 7312 Forrest way, was injured seriously. He is in the Pittsburgh Hospital suffering a crushed left leg. The accident occurred last night.

The shovel, owned by a Homestead contractor, was moving up a wooden framework when a plank beneath it slipped, causing the shovel to fall. The Oglesby boy with a number of companions were nearby watching the work at the time and the victim failed to leap to safety.

Baltimore Chinese Freed in Killing

BALTIMORE, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Richard Chill, 29-year-old Chinese laundryman, was acquitted of the murder of Lee Suey, fellow countryman, who was found slain in his restaurant on the night of August 19. The verdict was rendered by Judges George A. Solter and Albert S. J. Owens, before whom the trial was held in lieu of a jury, before the defense had introduced any testimony.

Pennsy Asked to Put Guard at Crossing

GREENSBURG, Pa., Nov. 10.—The Pennsylvania Railroad Company was requested to keep a watchman on duty continuously at the dangerous Seward crossing, by a coroner's jury which conducted an inquest into the death of six persons killed there on October 29, when their automobile was struck by a train. The jury returned a verdict of accidental death.

LINDY LANDS IN MEXICO CITY FOR REST FROM HUNT

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh rested today in the first capital that he conquered almost a year ago in his good will tour of Central America and the West Indies.

Just as darkness was descending over Valbuena Flying Field, the airman swooped down upon it from the north, where he had been hunting at Terrenates ranch, in the state of Chihuahua. The Volcano Popocatepetl and the encircling mountain range were still crested with the crimson of the setting sun when Col. Lindbergh taxied across the field.

Flying with Col. Alexander J. MacNab, military attache of the United States embassy, as his passenger, Lindbergh completed a flight of some 800 miles in 8 hours and 20 minutes.

Dwight W. Morrow, United States ambassador, was not present, remaining at the capital out of respect for the desire of Col. Lindbergh to make this visit purely personal to avoid official functions and formalities.

Both Col. Lindbergh and Col. MacNab wore hunting clothes. Col. Lindbergh laid aside his helmet and put on an old slouch hat before entering a limousine from the United States Embassy.

The airman was welcomed at the embassy by Ambassador Morrow and his family.

"It goes without saying, I am glad to be back in Mexico City," Col. Lindbergh said. He added he did not know how long he would stay and that further plans were yet to be formulated.

Emilio Portes Gil, provisional president-elect, will be the guest of honor at a dinner at the United States Embassy on Monday night, at which Col. Lindbergh, members of the cabinet and other prominent persons will be present.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

JOE ANDERSON STOPPED BY GRIFFITHS

DETROIT, Nov. 10.—(INS.)—Tuffy Griffiths, Chicago's lightheavyweight meteor, was a rung higher on the pugilistic ladder today by virtue of his sensational victory here last night over Joe Anderson, of Kentucky.

It was Griffith's fifty-first consecutive victory.

Anderson, conqueror of Ace Hudkins, called it a day in the fourth round. To save him further punishment, his seconds tossed a sponge through the ropes, thereby charging Anderson with the first knockout of his career.

It did not take Tuffy long to get started. As early as the second round he had his opponent in a bad way. Anderson started out to box, but soon began to swap swings when Griffiths seemed to express a preference for that style of milling.

That proved the Kentuckian's undoing, for Griffiths was too strong for him. Frequently he got inside Joe's leads and shook him up with rights to the body.

ANDERSON FLOORED

Towards the end of the round, Anderson went down for a count of one, near his corner. He came out for the third, but appeared very tired and groggy. For a short time he stepped around and succeeded in holding Griffiths off, but the Chicagoan was not to be denied. He had Anderson reeling about the ring under a shower of rights and lefts when the bell sounded.

As soon as the fourth round opend Griffiths caught Anderson on the chin with a right cross that turned him around. Joe tried to cover, but his opponent pounded him with rights and lefts to the head and body.

Like a panther after its prey, Griffiths tore into Anderson and soon the Kentuckian toppled to the floor in Griffiths' corner. He was up at the count of two, but Griffiths crowded him all over the ring.

MANAGER STOPS BOUT

When Anderson staggered to his corner at the end of the fourth round, he told his manager, Jimmy Daugherty, that he was in bad shape and could go little farther. Then Daugherty performed the act of mercy.

The surprising victory over the tough conqueror of Hudkins advances Griffiths a notch nearer his cherished title bout with lightheavyweight champion Tommy Loughran.

WESTINGHOUSE TOPS PEABODY

Westinghouse, defending champion, practically assured itself of the Section 1, City League, title again this year by defeating Peabody High, 31 to 0, yesterday. Misplays on the part of the East End team were costly.

Oliver High rosed out Perry, 7 to 0, while South Hills and Carrick battled to a scoreless tie in Section II encounters.

Other games saw Homestead, Dormont, Monessen, Aspinwall, Pitcairn, Duke Preps, Glassport, Crafton, Freeport, Bellevue and North Braddock, among others, winning.

SHADY SIDE TO PLAY.

Shady Side Academy will stage its annual home game of the Tri-State Prep League at 2:30 this afternoon at the home grid beyond Aspinwall; the University School of Cleveland will be the attraction.

Ohio University To Have Stadium

ATHENS, O., Nov. 10—Erection of the first unit of a sports stadium for Ohio University, to seat 12,000 persons, was authorized by the Board of Trustees of the University today. Local banks will have charge of a bond issue for $150,000, the sum necessary to construct the first unit, work on which will be begun at once so that it can be completed in time for the opening of the 1929 football season.

Concrete tiers approximately 100 yards long and about 60 feet high in the rear will be erected on either side of the playing field as the first step in the project. Forty rows of seats will be provided for each section. When development of the university makes expansion necessary, the U part of the stadium will be completed, providing for a total of 25,000 permanent seats. Additional seating capacity for approximately 3,000 persons will be provided by temporary bleachers which can be erected in the open end of the stadium.

Devine Tops Columbo

WORCESTER, Mass., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Harry Devine, Olympic boxer, completely outclassed Cap Columbo, of Manila, champion of the Atlantic and Pacific fleets, in a 10-round bout here last night. Devine carried nine of the 10 rounds. The second was even.

SOUTH TO SEE BIG GAMES

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—A lot of air will be churned about today with forward passes, but the flying ovals should do much to clarify the Southern Conference gridiron atmosphere. Doubtless Georgia Tech and Vanderbilt, deadlocked with two others for leadership in the title race, will look upward often in search of victory. Both teams have strong lines which should make the running attacks hazardous.

While the Tech affray centers the widest attention of Southern games, some 30,000 being the pre-game attendance estimate, the Florida-Georgia encounter at Savannah is running a close second. The aerial game there is also expected to be a big factor.

Florida, in a tie with Vanderbilt, Tennessee and Georgia Tech for first place, will be battling to maintain its championship pace, while Georgia, also unwhipped in the Conference, also has ambitions.

Tulane and Auburn at New Orleans, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and Virginia at Blacksburg, North Carolina and South Carolina at Chapel Hill, Tennessee and Suwannee at Knoxville, Alabama and Kentucky at Montgomery at Clemson against Virginia Military Institute at Lynchburg are other games expected to attract between 5,000 and 12,000 each.

U. S. Army Team Wins Challenge Cup

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—The United States Army team today won the Westchester challenge cup from a field of 12 foreign army and American civilian combinations in the second day's events of the forty-third annual national horse show.

During the first two days of the show 13 Army entries have scored five victories.

The entries from Holland, winner for the past two years, offered little competition in today's cup event. A Canadian team was awarded the reserve medal. The American team included Lieut. E. Y. Argo, riding Miss America; Maj. Chamberlin, on Dick Waring, and Capt. W. B. Bradford, on Joe Aleshirem.

Okla. Has Chance To Upset Nebraska

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Oklahoma this week has the opportunity to cast the Big Six football race into a turmoil. The Sooners tangle at Norman with the undefeated Nebraska Cornhuskers, potential Big Six and national champions. If Oklahoma, known as the "upset" team of the circuit, should defeat the Huskers today, it would achieve perhaps the greatest upset of its career.

The other conference fray of the week-end brings Missouri and the Kansas Aggies together in Manhattan. Missouri won two games, displaying a powerful offensive, then dropped two in a row without scoring.

Kansas leaves its home state and conference ranks to play Marquette in Milwaukee. Iowa State has an open date.

Pitt, Tech Harriers Seek New Laurels

The varsity cross-country teams of Pitt and Carnegie Tech are seeking new laurels in meets over the Schenley Park course today. The Tartans, undefeated in five meets this season, are attempting to wrest the team title from Geneva in the annual Allegheny Mountain Association championships, and the Panthers are opposing Penn State in a dual meet.

Geneva is Tech's only rival for the team title, but Westminster, Carnegie Freshmen and unattached runners are disputing the right of Tech and Geneva team members to the individual honors.

The A. M. A. championships will get under way at 1:45 p. m., or after the Penn State-Pitt meet is concluded.

George Washington Ready for State

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Both Penn State and George Washington used the practice field here yesterday for short workouts on the eve of the game which marks the final appearance of the Nittany Lions on their home gridiron, today.

The visitors, comprising a squad of 21 men, arrived yesterday morning and got into uniform early. The Lions were let off with a light drill, while the second team spent a lengthy period going through a scrimmage, followed by signal practice.

Raceland Racing Plant Is Sold

ASHLAND, Ky., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—The racing plant of the Tri-State Fair and Racing Association at Raceland, near here, was sold at public auction yesterday for $200,000 to the S. and S. Lyric Company, of New York, to satisfy a $219,000 mortgage claim held by the New York concern.

Appraised at $400,000, the property, including 340 acres of land, brought only the one bid by John T. Deitrich, representative of the New York mortgage holders.

Allentown Admitted To Eastern League

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—At a meeting of the Eastern League directors, held in this city, it was voted to admit the city of Allentown, Pa., to the circuit for next season. Allentown is to take the place of Waterbury, Conn. The Waterbury franchise was forfeited to the league last July and at yesterday's session the franchise was awarded to Allentown by League President Herman J. Weisman and the directors.

Osk Till Kayoes Williams in Ninth

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Osk Till, of Buffalo, scored a technical knockout over Bobby Williams, Syracuse middleweight, in the ninth round of a scheduled 10-round main bout here last night. Till floored Williams four times in the eighth.

Joe Gainor, Syracuse, decisively outpointed Tibby Noble, Wilkes-Barre, in the six-round semi-final. They are middleweights.

MARSHALL COLLEGE WINS

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Marshall College's "Thundering Herd" stampeded in the fourth quarter here yesterday and defeated New River State school, 13 to 0, in their fifth annual gridiron battle.

LAYDEN AT ARMY GAME

MOUNTAINEERS HOLD 'THUSE

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 10.—One of the greatest pre-game 'thuses on record was held here last evening. After a solid hour of rousing talks and head-splitting yelling, 2,000 West Virginia students paraded through the streets and then assembled near the old athletic field, where the torch was applied to a huge pile of wood gathered by the freshmen. This afternoon at 1 o'clock, a parade approximately 3,000 strong, consisting of members of the R. O. T. C's, eight bands, and some 1,500 high school football players, guests of the athletic department, will march through the main part of the city and thence to the stadium. It is estimated a crowd of between 15,000 and 20,000 will witness the annual "West Virginia Day" game which will find the Mountaineers facing the Oklahoma Aggies in the second intersectional clash of the season.

German Twp. Bows To Redstone, 21 to 13

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Nov. 10.—Trailing until the final quarter, Redstone, with Steve Smith back in the battle line, uncorked an offense which German was unable to stop and won, 21-13, yesterday in a game filled with breaks. Steve Smith went into the game with several broken ribs, but was the star for his eleven, while Owens, who ran 80 yards after receiving a punt, was the bright light for German. The lineup:

Redstone—21.		German—13.
Richonsky	L.E.	Donley
James	L.T.	McCulla
Rohland	L.G.	Yoda
Vehmich	C.	Rossi
Burns	R.G.	Marinch
Assad	R.T.	Papuga
Rapelee	R.E.	Mathews
Morrison	Q.	Springer
Masso	L.H.	Shutterly
Dufuglo	R.H.	Owens
J. Smith	F.	Kuzma

Score by periods:

Redstone	0	6	2	13	—21
German	0	13	0	0	—13

Touchdowns—Donley, Owens, Smith 2, Dufuglo. Safety—Donley. Points after touchdown—Donley 1 and Zmissed 1. Referee—Darby.

P. A. A., Homestead In Dual Meet Tonight

The powerful swimming teams of Homestead Library and the Pittsburgh Athletic Association are to entertain local aquatic fans at a dual meet in the P. A. pool at 8:30 this evening. The meet is the first dual competition in which the P. A. A. natators have engaged in recent years, and the program is exceptionally attractive. Speed swimming, fancy diving and a water polo game are on the bill.

The water polo game is to be played under rules recently adopted abroad. The new rules, it is said, make for a faster and more spirited competition and place a bigger premium on skill. The lineup follows:

P. A. A.		Homestead.
Hyslop	G.	Leach
Wright	B.	Marks
Low	B.	Gora
Geisinger	C.	B. Martin
Graham	F.	Smith
Pentek	F.	Loughlin
Weaver	F.	M. Schaltenbrand

Referee—William Simondinger.

Noted Women Stars Enter Bermuda Play

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Nov. 10—The entries of Miss Helen Payson, of Portland, Me., winner of the Canadian ladies' championship in 1927; Miss Ada Mackenzie, of Toronto, Dominion champion in 1925 and 1926; and Miss Maureen Orcutt, holder of the Women's Metropolitan championship and runner-up for the U. S. women's championship in 1927, have already been received for the second annual Bermuda women's championship which is to be held at the Riddell's Bay Golf and Country Club, on January 2-5.

All three competed in the event last year, Miss Payson being the winner after defeating Miss Orcutt in one of the early rounds and then defeating Miss Mackenzie in the final.

Only Two Coast Loop Tilts Carded

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Gridirons of the Pacific Northwest will bear the brunt of football's surge along the coast today. Only two coast conference engagements are listed and both will be played in that section.

California, riding on the crest of a victorious season that finds it undefeated and tied with Southern California in the conference race, tackles the Washington Husky on his home field in Seattle.

In the other conference tilt, Washington State and the University of California, of Los Angeles, meet on a neutral field at Portland.

MISS TURPIE FINALIST

SHREVEPORT, Miss., Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Miss Marion Turpie, Southern and Louisiana state women's golf champion, and Mrs. Harry Morgan, of this city, were ready today for the 36-hole final round of the annual women's golf tournament. Miss Turpie won her way into the final by defeating Mrs. Abby Cahn, of Shreveport, 6 and 5, while Mrs. Morgan was defeating Mrs. E. R. Bernstein of Shreveport, 3 and 2.

CYCLE STARS MEET

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—(AP.)—Freddie Spencer, bicycle sprint champion of America, and Franco Georgetti of Italy, American motor-paced champion, will settle their rivalry tonight in a one-mile match race at the Coliseum. The special match will serve as an appetizer for the international six-day bike race, which starts tomorrow night.

JOCKEY FOUND DEAD

WOODSFIELD, O., Nov. 10—Paul Mann, jockey who was known on county fair race tracks throughout Eastern Ohio, is dead today of injuries sustained Thursday. He was found lying beneath a bridge on the Monroe county highway, from which it is presumed he fell while enroute home the night before.

Kid Pancho Wins

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov. 10—(AP.)—Kid Pancho, of San Antonio, Tex., took the judges' decision in a one-sided 12-round fight here last night from Joe Lucas, of Detroit.

WHY PITTSBURGH IS GREAT
Industrial Eminence Is Matched by Cultural Progress

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER
To Your Friends in Other Cities

Uncle Sam Has Played Fool in Europe Long Enough; Germany Knows Where We Stand; Let Allies "Get Wise"

THIS country need not demonstrate its friendship for the German Republic.

We would not accept an acre of land or a cent of tribute from the vanquished nation upon whom our Allies imposed the heaviest punishment since Scipio Africanus and his Roman legions gazed upon the smoking ruins of Carthage.

We refused to sign the Versailles Peace Treaty. Instead, we made our own peace of reconciliation with Germany. We supplied the sinews of finance for the marvelous German come-back in the field of industry and commerce.

It ought to be a little difficult for the Allies to represent the United States as the obstacle to a reduction of the $625,000,000 annual reparations burden. Nevertheless, the attempt is to be made to represent us in exactly this light.

THE stage is set for a Big Show, in which, under the glare of world-wide publicity, Uncle Sam is to be shown up as the villain. Officially the Show bears the title of "Meeting of International Financial Experts to Revise the Total and the Annual Amount of German Reparations."

NOW what are the lines that the Allies have rehearsed and which they will broadcast at this meeting?

1. "The Allies love Germany and will only collect from her in reparations the four thousand million dollars they have agreed to pay America, plus a sum for reconstructtion of war damages in France and Belgium. If the United States will cancel or cut its demands on the Allies, they will make a corresponding cut in their demands on Germany. But, of course, if the United States insists on being a Shylock, then German resentment should be directed at the United States."

Will Uncle Accept the Role?

AH, SAM - YOU'RE JUST THE MAN WE NEED - WE HAVE A DANDY PART FOR YOU

All of which means that the American taxpayer is invited to take over the four billions debt owed to us by the Allies, so that France and England can make a generous gesture to Germany.

Not so good.

THE second part of the role the Allies will play is interesting. They will say before the world:

2. "After the German reparations total has been thus reduced, we will accept a lump sum payment, in billions, discharging the German reparations debt to us. The money to pay us is to be raised by German Government or German railway and industrial reparations bonds, to be sold to the investing public, principally the American investing public."

All of which means that when the smoke is cleared away our people will be found having paid off Germany's war tribute and holding a bagful of German indemnity bonds. The German resentment, now directed at the Allies, will be diverted to us and will endure as long as Germans must go on toiling to pay interest and principal on these bonds.

Not so good, either.

THE President and the Secretary of the Treasury have declared that there is no connection to be established between the war tribute levied on Germany by bloodthirsty war victors and the Allied debt of honor to the United States, already more than cut in half by our generosity.

The United States Government should make it abundantly clear that it has nothing to do with the American financial experts who accept the invitation of Allied nations to go abroad and participate in the ceremony of pinning on Uncle Sam the Imperial Order of the Raspberry, First Class.

Political Boss, on Run, Should Be Kept Going

Speaking to Pittsburgh district alumni, Dr. Clarence Cook Little, president of the University of Michigan, said the radio spells the doom of the ward boss and political czar.

He described the new situation as part of a general move in America away from blind authority. "We have," he said, "begun an age of liberalism."

What Dr. Cook speaks about is more a tendency than a fact, but is only prevented being an actuality through the indifference of the people. There will be "bosses" in politics just as long as people are willing to concede that they do control things and will not make a serious attempt to get rid of them.

If all of those capable of voting in Pittsburgh were to exercise the greatest privilege of citizenship, that of the ballot, the people, not bosses, would control.

Prepare to Begin Work On Bond Improvements

The County Commissioners made another step advancing the improvements authorized in the $43,680,000 bond issue when they authorized the employment of three designing engineers. Norman F. Brown, director of public works of the county, made the request for a senior engineer, at $3,900 a year, and two junior engineers, at $3,420 a year each.

There are five major projects and 30 minor structures among those authorized by the voters, as well as other projects which call for additional help.

The public, of course, wishes to see these matters pushed to completion as early as possible, but the program as a whole is a big one. It calls for a great deal of advanced detail preparation. The people are glad to know the county department of public works is getting busy.

The Hearst Papers Advocate:

1. An agreement of English-speaking peoples to preserve peace among themselves and to promote the peace of the world.
2. Proportional representation in the United States Senate, no state to have less than two Senators. Legislation to enforce prompt constitutional reapportionment in the House of Representatives.
3. A separate Department of the Army, of the Navy and of the Air Forces, all united under a Secretary of National Defense.
4. Federal action to the limit of Federal powers to abolish illiteracy in the United States under a Secretary of Education.
5. Election of Congress in November. Installation on the 1st of January following. Inauguration of the President 1st of January next after November election.

Tales That Are Told

He Had to Hustle

NO doubt the seductive strains of the lilting waltz were responsible for the wave of sentiment that swept over the young man as he escorted his fair partner to the lounge.

As they sat down he fumbled for her hand, and then he whispered:

"Darling—oh, darling girl, I love you so!"

"But," exclaimed the girl, "how could you? You've only known me an hour at the most!"

"Yes, I know, darling," explained the youth, as he squeezed her hand even tighter. "But, remember, I'm only down here for the week-end."

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

THERE was an honest old farmer in Vermont that come to town selling his apples around from house to house, so's to make a little money out of them. He got a great reputation for honesty, on account his whiskers were white. But one kinda skeptical lady says to him one day, "Say, I'm beginning to think them are false whiskers, and that you ain't so all-fired honest after all."

"What makes you talk like that, lady?"

"Well, I found last week that basket of apples I paid you a good price for had all the big, red-faced apples on top, and the bottom ones wasn't so hot."

"Oh, sure, lady, I knowed you liked the big ones best, and I put 'em where you would not have to hunt so hard for 'em. That's as honest as I know how to be."

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Beauty in All

ONE seeks light and one the shadow
Where the hosts of twilight throng,
One is happiest in silence
While another joys in song.

None can know his brother's being,
Plumb the wells of his delight,
Solve the secrets of his longing,
Read his inmost thoughts aright.

None can tell why one finds gladness
In Earth's gay and worldly ways,
Or his neighbor gains contentment
Only from life's simplest phase.

Yet this glimpse of truth we gather;
Since some answer every call,
Light and darkness, song and silence,
There is beauty in them all!

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

IT IS twilight and the train is crossing Georgia.

An hour ago and hills and trees were ruddy with the sun. Now they are pools of shadow and the sky is gray and still. Only behind a file of slender pines one band of orange flames. And at their feet, half hidden in the shade, a little light burns in the window of a clay chinked shack.

A narrow trail winds through the darkening fields and on the trail a man is plodding. His tired face is lifted toward the light as he nears, the door is opened and a woman waits to meet him with his baby in her arms. The man's feet quicken—then the door is closed. The band of light has faded from the sky—the trees and fields are lost within the night—but in the shack the little light still burns.

Such a great country, North, East, West and South—

So many people with so many aims—

White faces, black, yellow, red and brown, each living by its own peculiar plan and creed—

Each thinking that all other plans are wrong—

And hardly ever meeting on one common ground.

But there's an hour when all think as one—

That hour when night falls in a gentle flood,

And lamps are lighted in the palace and the shack.

Then for a moment all men dream alike

And know one common hunger of the heart.

Then each man longs to take the homeward trail,

And see his hearth light burning warm and clear.

And find his woman waiting at the door.

This life is strange and ugly, often cruel—

But somehow there is comfort in the thought that for one gentle hour of each hard day we share that simple, lovely dream of home.

VARYING GOLD

By Garrett P. Serviss

"Is it true, as I have read, that a gold coin taken to the equator would lose value because it would be lighter there?—Old Gold Bug, New York."

CERTAINLY it is true, provided that the value continued to be reckoned by the weight. If Isaac of York, in Scott's story of "Ivanhoe," thought that his scales gave him the exact, invariable weight of the gold zecchins that the successful young knight paid to him for the use of his horse in the tournament, he deceived himself. For upon taking them to Quito on the equator and weighing them with a spring-balance he would have found them all short weight, and the only way to restore his equanimity would have been to go with his gold to the north or the south pole, where the coins would have weighed even more than in England. The gain in weight in going from the equator to the pole is about one part in 189, so that Isaac would have got an extra pound of gold for every 189 pounds that he took to the pole.

The difference of weight is due to a combination of two causes—the centrifugal force of the earth's rotation and the flattening of the globe at the poles. The former contributes 1-189th of the difference and the latter about 1-555th. At the poles the surface of the earth is more than 13 miles nearer the center of gravity than at the equator, and, since the force of gravity, to which weight is due, varies inversely as the square of the distance from the center, that force must be greater at the poles than anywhere else, because the poles are nearest the center.

The centrifugal force, which is greatest at the equator, decreases with distance from the equator, and vanishes at the poles. Consequently, exactly over the poles weight is affected only by the increased nearness to the center of gravity. Anywhere between poles and equator the two causes combine. As the equator is approached both the distance from the center and the centrifugal force increase, and the weight is diminished by both. But as the poles are approached both centrifugal force and distance from the center decrease, so that in this case both causes tend to increase the weight. The only place of constant weight is at the poles.

However, if Isaac, of York, employed a beam scale to weigh the gold, he would have got the same weight in Quito as in England, or at the pole as on the equator, because in such scales the counterweights are affected by the variation of gravity to the same extent as the object weighed. The spring-balance, on the other hand, shows the difference because with it the weight as determined by the pull of gravity is opposed to a constant force—the elastic strength of the coiled spring.

Another way to measure the variation in the force of gravity with change of position on the earth is by means of pendulums. This method is constantly employed in geodetic measurements intended to determine irregularities in the shape of the earth. It is from pendulum measurements, too, that the data were found for the statement above made about the changes of gravity between the equator and the poles.

Bible Passages

"Knowest Thou It?"

(Job 38; 18-36)

HAST thou perceived the breadth of the earth? declare if thou knowest it all.

Where is the way where light dwelleth? and as for darkness, where is the place thereof,

That thou shouldest take it to the bound thereof, and that thou shouldest know the paths to the house thereof?

Knowest thou it, because thou wast then born? or because the number of thy days is great?

Hast thou entered into the treasures of the snow? or hast thou seen the treasures of the hail,

Which I have reserved against the time of trouble, against the day of battle and war?

By what way is the light parted, which scattereth the east wind upon the earth?

Who hath divided a watercourse for the overflowing of waters, or a way for the lightning of thunder;

To cause it to rain on the earth, where no man is; on the wilderness, wherein there is no man;

To satisfy the desolate and waste ground; and to cause the bud of the tender herb to spring forth?

Hath the rain a father? or who hath begotten the drops of dew?

Out of whose womb came the ice? and the hoary frost of heaven, who hath gendered it?

The waters are hid as with a stone, and the face of the deep is frozen.

Canst thou bind the sweet influences of Pleiades, or loose the bands of Orion?

Canst thou bring forth Mazzaroth in his season? or canst thou guide Arcturus with his sons?

Knowest thou the ordinances of heaven? canst thou set the dominion thereof in the earth?

Canst thou lift up thy voice to the clouds, that abundance of waters may cover thee?

Canst thou send lightnings, that they may go, and say unto thee, Here we are?

Who hath put wisdom in the inward parts? or who hath given understanding to the heart?

Isn't It So?

It's not called a joyride unless somebody is killed.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—There is a clinging mustiness and rare charm about old Chelsea that is found in those hidden and half forgotten streets of London's West End. A shabby gentility that asks least of all sympathy. The heart of Chelsea is on Nineteenth street, near Ninth avenue.

It seems fitting it was here Clement Moore wrote, "'Twas the Night Before Christmas." Chelsea encompasses that air of tranquility. On Twenty-third street is a quaint row of tall plastered houses with high ceiled rooms set in fairly deep front yards—about the only yards left in town.

Each floor has its deep window in the French manner, with perhaps a balcony. Friendly dogs nap on stone steps and cats are coiled in that ease only cats achieve on window seats. This was once Chelsea's Mayfair and is the locale for Edith Wharton's "Age of Innocence."

Chelsea has few transplanted foreign patches. Many residents are those whose families lived there before them and who were inured to wealth and social prestige. They are now relicts of an opulent past with a Victorian halo—the last of the dwindling aristocrats.

In the dusk are lace-capped women at windows reading the Bible. Children are scrubbed clean and freshly frocked to play their games on the lawn. There are taffy pullings and apple bobbins and Christmas and Halloween are observed in old-time fashion. A few homes receive "paying guests" with a diffidence.

It has all become a little drab and the stranger rarely goes there. The once magnificent hotels are now family hospices redolent with a quaint antiquity. Still standing are the modest frame houses of Chelsea Cottage Row occupied by the survivors of the pleasant village once "two mil from town."

Chelsea is one part of a hell-roaring city that has never progressed—the final oasis in the skyscraper madness. Old brick churches are there and in their yards are the ancient, dolorous bells that used to ring to service the Solemn Dutch traders.

Most New York parks—like Madison Square, City Hall, Washington and Bryant parks—were once potter's fields. The exception is Gramercy Park, which also retains the glamour of almost forgotten days. It is the only private park left, its keys held by the privileged few. There is scarcely a house facing the square that has not been widely photographed or glorified in fiction. All have a heavy dignity that preserves the best architectural lines of the mid-nineteenth century.

A little north of Madison Square is the well known vine-clad edifice, "The Little Church Around the Corner," so called by Joseph Jefferson when another church refused to bury an actor but recommended a little church around the corner. "All honor to that little church around the corner!" cried Jefferson—hence its best known name. It is in reality The Church of the Transfiguration, and from here Lester Wallack, Don Boucicault, and Edwin Booth were buried. It is a popular hymenal altar for stage folk, and the sidewalk outside is always sprinkled with rice.

I have seen two policemen in uniform obviously intoxicated recently, and the way I scuttled up side streets whistling in apparent unconcern is my particular business. A policeman with a few drinks and a revolver is my idea of nothing to fool around with, what with Christmas coming on and so many other things to make the world a pleasant place in which to linger awhile.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

HOW long is it since you praised members of your family for something well done?

You take whatever they do as to be expected, don't you?

And it gets to be pretty irksome, doing things for and around you.

If mother prepares an exceptionally good meal, compliment her.

If Dad does something out of the ordinary, show you are proud of him.

If daughter sends word from college that she has high grades, write her how elated you feel at her success, and the same with son.

Or do you write and say it is no more than you expected and require, after all the money you are spending.

You know that when you do something in an exceptionally fine way, you are pleased over it and doubly pleased when others call attention to it.

While this is true you seldom think of extending compliments to others.

More praise and less censure would make for happier families.

Sympathy and understanding, and words of appreciation are the three qualities of expression that make home life most dear.
